IS CHIEF SHIPPY TRYING TO SHAKE DOWN MAGNATES THROUGH ANARCHIST SCARE?

Has Reports of Bloodthirsty Meetings of "Reds" Calculated to Scare Wits Out of Capitalists—Is Also Greatly Exercised Over the Leniency Shown by Judge Torrison

"Is Chief Shippy trying to 'shake down' the millionaires of Chicago?" This is the question that is being asked by those who have seen his latest pulse reading of the anarchist situation and who remember the police methods that followed the Haymarket riot.

"Never in the history of Chicago have anarchists and other enemies of the law been more dangerous than they are at present," Shippy has declared. In the year 1857 Major McLaughry, chief of police at that time, gave utterance to similar remarks to the police department for the alleged purpose of stamping out anarchism.

It was later proved conclusively that the fund constituted nothing more than a "shakedown" or, in other words, an extortion from the ruthless capitalists.

SAYS DEVIL WAS FIRST SOCIALIST Preacher Declares Satan Once Offered Doctrine to Jesus Christ

(Special to Daily Socialist.) Louisville, Ky., Feb. 4.—Rev. J. N. Prestridge, who both writes and preaches, has come to the front with the statement that Satan was the first Socialist. While his name has never been found in brimstone writing on the enrollment list the preacher declares that he has traced the origin of Socialism and found Satan to be at the bottom of it all.

In a sermon in the Broadway Baptist church here he supplied the congregation with a few copies of the tract, hitherto unknown to any but himself. All Evil Is Socialist. He said in part: "Did you ever hear a merchant say that he could live a Christian life if it were not for the unreasonable demands of customers and clerks and the annoyance of drummers and porters? That is virtually a Socialist. Every man and woman who assigns to their environment the force which controls their conduct and life is to all intents and purposes a Socialist. There is a growing number of men who are Socialists, and they are multitudes more who are Socialists, who do not suspect the fact. Perhaps no other school of thinking is making such progress in the world.

No one doubts that environments has a mighty power in shaping and fashioning the lives of men and nations. Christianity does deny to it the first place of power, and denies to it absolutely the power to redeem the life of individuals, and denies to it the power to exalt and redeem the life of nations. Christianity contends that no amount of ease and comfort, no amount of restraining laws, no amount of heaven or crown a nation with cleanliness and strength, and endow it with penance.

Satan Tempted Christ "Satan offered Socialism to Jesus Christ in place of Christianity. What constituted the temptation of Christ which followed the forty days of Heaven? Satan contended that if Christ would institute a government, a social regime, wherein stones could be turned into bread, so there need be no want; a regime wherein the power should be in the hands of the people, and the crown a nation with cleanliness and strength, and endow it with penance.

SEEK DELAY IN NINE-HOUR LAW Roads Ask Interstate Board for Time; Telegraphers in Arms

Since last Saturday morning 1,759 telegrams have been received by the interstate commerce commission protesting against any postponement of the effectiveness of this law. It is within the discretion of the commission to extend the time. A decision will probably be announced soon.

Roads Allege Scarcity The law was passed last winter, and the roads were given until the fourth of March, 1905, to make arrangements for making it effective. The roads have alleged a scarcity of telegraphers, but this is now disputed.

After laying in the hands of the subcommittee for more than a month, the elevator conductors' license has been taken up and considered. Alderman Taylor is leading the fight against the ordinance, which is opposed by the Building Managers' association, the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the State street department stores.

Question Is, Who Lies? If that is so, it is not understood why the managers and merchants are opposing it, because it would lessen the responsibility of the building owners and managers.

WOMEN CANNOT BE DELEGATES

The latest Socialist effort to help along the work of obtaining complete suffrage for women was defeated, according to a letter just received by Secretary Fraenkel of the Socialist party of Chicago, from the board of election commissioners.

Desired Women Delegates The Socialist committee had proposed to elect women as delegates to Socialist ward conventions, and to further this had written to the election commissioners asking if the thing were permissible.

Not Legal Voter "A woman may be a legally qualified voter in a limited and restricted sense, but not in the common or general sense. She may vote for school officers, but not for the nominees of a ward convention. The term 'legally qualified voters,' as used in the above section, does not apply to persons ineligible to vote for the nominees of a convention; therefore, women being restricted from voting for the candidates nominated at a ward convention, are ineligible to act as delegates to each."

CURE IN 5 DAYS Varicocele and Hydrocele, Without Knife or Pain. I want to cure every man suffering with Varicocele, Stricture, Contagious Blood Poison, Nervous Debility, Hydrocele or a dis-ease peculiar to men. This liberal offer is open to all who have spent large sums of money on doctors and medicine without any success, and my aim is to prove to all those people who were being treated by a dozen or more doctors, also without any success, that I possess the only method, by means of which I will cure you permanently. Don't Pay for Unsuccessful Treatment, only for Permanent Cure. I will positively cure disease of the stomach, lungs, liver and kidneys, even those very chronic cases.

WHAT SOCIALISTS WANT. We are constantly asked to explain the philosophy of Socialism in a few short, simple words that can be read in a few minutes and easily understood. This is impossible. Socialism is an elaborate system of thought that touches every phase of human life. It has a literature of tens of thousands of volumes. No one who has spent years on single phases of Socialism philosophy have still not touched its depths. The same thing is true of every great system of thought. None can be understood at a moment. There is no royal road to knowledge. Yet there are certain fundamental principles of every philosophy and of Socialism that can be explained so that anyone can understand them. The same is true of Socialism. Its basic principles can be stated in plain, simple words. First let us state some plain facts. Indeed, nearly all there is to Socialism, as to science in general, is a system of arrangement of certain facts. Man is working today with wonderfully productive machines. The modern locomotive transports a thousand tons as much each hour as an ox-team could move in a month. The child tending a battery of Northrup magazine looms weaves miles where the old hand-loom worker weaves feet. The steam thrasher turns out our loaf of grain where the man with the flail thrashed bushels. This is the story that meets us everywhere. With relation to these wonderful machines the members of society are divided into two classes—those who OWN and those who DO NOT OWN the machines. The class that own the machines do not need to work. Its members, like the owners of the great Marshall Field store, may be wards of a court. They may be idle, or they may be in jail. This does not interfere with their ownership. The class of owners need not do any work, yet its income flows in. This is because of the existence of the other class—the class that DOES NOT OWN anything. This non-owning class cannot live unless it can use the privately owned tools. Its members cannot even set foot on the earth unless they use the land that belongs to the owning class. They cannot live unless they produce wealth. In order to produce wealth they must use the land and machines of the owning class. The non-owning class must produce a substance for himself, the proprietors worker agrees to keep on producing wealth with these wonderfully productive machines all day. The portion which he creates for himself and is allowed to keep is called WAGES. All the remainder flows into the pockets of the possessing class as RENT, INTEREST AND PROFIT. In return for this the owners do nothing but hang on to their legal titles. This possession enables them to lay tribute upon the organizing, directing, managing labor as well as upon the most unskilled manual toil. THE ART OF LECTURING

Arthur M. Lewis has persistently been urged to teach a class in the art of lecturing, but the many demands on his time made this quite out of the question, and as the best way to satisfy his friends, he wrote a series of brief articles for the CHICAGO DAILY SOCIALIST, each article containing some practical suggestions for young Socialist speakers, each suggesting the direct fruit of the author's personal experience. These articles at once attracted wide attention, and long before they had appeared, there was an unmistakable demand for their publication in book form. That is why this book is issued. There is nothing else quite so helpful for the young man or woman who expects to lecture on the Socialist platform, and many others who have no thought of lecturing will enjoy reading the book, because it brings the reader into such close touch with the personality of a man worth knowing. Paper, 25 cents; postpaid, 30 cents.

WOMAN AGED 65, ADOPTS ANOTHER, 45 YEARS OLD

Mrs. Rosa Politzer legally adopted Mrs. Julia A. Horman through a decree granted by Judge Gibbons. The foster mother is 65 years old and the foster child is 42 and has a husband. The elder woman told the court that the younger woman was as if daughter in fact, because of their having lived together from the time of Mrs. Horman's birth until recently.
Mrs. Horman, who lives at Calumet, Mich., is the wife of Abraham Horman. He consented to the adoption of his wife by Mrs. Politzer.
Julia's parents died when she was a little girl and I reared her," Mrs. Politzer said. "Then she went away and got married. I have enough to care for her if she ever should need it, and I want it to go to her when I die."

GUERIN DEPICTED AS BLACKMAILER

Webster Guerin was pictured as a figure of the first water and his relations with Mrs. McDonald were drawn as that of blackmailer and victim, by two witnesses for the defense in the famous murder trial.

The witnesses were both women who depended upon fragments of conversations they had heard in an odd manner between the dead man and the defendant, before the tragedy.

Mrs. Mary J. Campbell, an elderly woman, was first to testify. She told of having hid behind a billboard on the dark night of Feb. 14, 1907, and heard a conversation between Guerin and Mrs. McDonald, in which Guerin demanded money and threatened to murder the defendant in case she refused to furnish it.

Miss Millie Lagun, of Prairie du Chien, Wis., the other witness, related having overheard much the same sort of conversation between Guerin and Mrs. McDonald, while sitting at a table next to theirs in the Boston Oyster house in the fall of 1905. Both witnesses were steadfast in the testimony under a fierce cross-examination.

From Indianapolis, Ind., comes a $5 order for subscription cards. The sender is H. H. Jackson. The Daily is getting a good circulation in Indianapolis.

Nine new ones were rescued from a capitalist grave by A. E. Shober, Kapfleher, Ok.

Two come from E. E. Campbell, Delta, Colo. They report cold weather in the west.

That weather report must be correct, for when George Sutton, Breckenridge, Colo., sent in his renewal he thought it wise to send a new one in the same letter—to keep his warm, probably.

T. B. Lynch, Hamilton, Pa., did the same thing. That's a good plan this cold weather.

Those Friday issues containing the Lewis lecture for the week previous are excellent pieces of propaganda matter. They cost half a cent a copy and wake the sleeping as nothing else. Remember Lewis' "Evolution—Social and Organic" comes free with single 50-cent orders or with a number of smaller orders when the total 50 cents.

P. L. Robinson, St. Louis, Mo., renews and gets that friend to come with him.

An even dozen arrive with letters of introduction signed by Charles H. Kerr & Co.

Mrs. Dora Foster, Buffalo, N. Y., takes $5 worth of cards for the good of the Niagara in Chicago.

Just to show that the west is not backward C. A. S. Hiley, Long Beach, Cal., comes in with another $5 order for cards.

And while the east and the west are contesting for honors the Hustlers in little old Chicago are letting the cards get ahead of them if they can help it. The ward canvasses are progressing steadily, though and effectively. As a very natural result the city subscription list is growing and the capitalists are getting anxious.

G. L. Garrett, Waco, Tex., renews and brings a wanderer into the social revolution.

Walter Huggins sends in three from Mishawaka, Ind., and declares for the social revolution.

"Every little bit helps," says H. Koppert, Chicago, Ill., as he walks in with four in each hand and his own renewal in his pocket.

F. A. Dorsett, Greensboro, N. C., gets two, who needs 'em.

Charles H. Kerr & Co. thought they hadn't done enough damage for one day, so fire in four more to keep things humming.

F. G. Miller, Horton, Kan., also took precautions against cold weather and got a new one to accompany his renewal.

Here are three from Savannah, Ill. The names are Charles Keenan, Fred Huskey and George W. Ashford. Fine!

You ought to get in an order for three new leaflets. They are neat, attractive and convincing. The very best answer to an unbeliever is one of the "alarm clock" leaflets. They come 50 cents a dozen for $1. postpaid. In larger quantities the price is $4.50 for 5,000 or $7.50 for 10,000, express collect.

George Hamilton, Kansas City, Mo., got a friend when he renewed.

A new subscriber and $5 worth of subscription cards is the way Zeph O'Brien, Blytheville, Ark., stacks up today. These orders for $1. postpaid, in larger quantities the price is $4.50 for 5,000 or $7.50 for 10,000, express collect.

Three promising ones and the rest of a $3 bill in subscription cards from George F. Hibner, Concordia, Kan.

S. S. Buzzard, Pullman, Mich., thinks the people in his town need Socialism, so takes $2 worth of Daily Socialist cards and looks for the news.

THE HUSTLERS' COLUMN

What the Hustlers did yesterday:
New out-of-town subscriptions 138
New total city subscriptions 169
Again we start the week with a promise of a bigger increase than that of the past seven days. The promise will be realized if every Hustler determines to "get his" this week. We want to beat last week's increase, which was 500. That total gave us a daily average increase of $3 1-3. Yesterday's showing is more than twice that average, so we have a good start. That's half the battle. Just determine for yourself that you'll do better this week than last and you can wager the Hustlers' column will show the result of YOUR work. We'll smash last week's record.

Every Socialist in the world ought to have a good-sized bundle of the "alarm clock" leaflets. You know what the alarm clock does. It rouses you out of bed in the "wee sma' hours" and puts you to work for the boss. Now, by all that's good and bad, why not put an alarm clock right by the divan of the boss? If those leaflets are given half the circulation they should have, they'll get the plutocrats in your town out of their beds and set them to work for both old parties as though their jobs depended on the outcome—which, indeed, they do. When the workers quit at work in time of panic and industrial depression scatter these leaflets prominently. The workers will do their part at the polls and the wealthy loafers will take off their coats and sweat trying to convince the workers they need rest—from the exhausting toil of voting. The "alarm clock" leaflets are perpetually "set" and "wound up."

If you want to see quick action just set one off under a sleepy worker or a complacent capitalist. At about the third tap of the bell they'll jump out for their clothes and get to work.

Prices: 50 cents for 500, $1 a thousand, postpaid, $3.00 for $4.50 and $5.00 for $7.50, express collect.

ON THE RIALTO
"THE BONDMAN"
Wilton Lackaye is a good actor, but it is seldom that he is seen in a good play. "Trilby," in which he played Svengali was a poor, though a popular play; "The PH" was a poor, though a massive play; "The Law and the Man" was a poor play, though founded on Victor Hugo's masterpiece, "Les Miserables," and now "The Bondman" is a poor play, although it was written by that eminent man of letters, Hall Caine.

"The Bondman" is a web of improbabilities. Its characters are improbable, its situations are improbable, so improbable in fact, that the very incongruity of it makes the audience giggle when the author intended it to be impressed. Wilton Lackaye, good actor that he is, clearly assumed an apologetic manner throughout. His whole bearing said plainly: "I'm sorry, good friends, but I can't do better. The 45 loans staved their hands and if continuing will carry the paper beyond their power. Keep up the loans. Thousands who have not yet come to the front can't do so. Do it tonight. Remember the amount asked for is a loan and will be returned at the date specified by the lender."

Here's a refreshing letter from John M. Work. He orders for cards to go to the national office, so they do not appear in the Hustlers' column. You remember the national office took $100 worth of cards about four months ago.

"If Utah is not on the Hustlers' map she will be pretty soon. I started from home three weeks ago with forty-six subscription cards. In a few days I had 40 orders for 40 more. And I am nearly to the point where I will have to repeat the order. When a man once takes the Daily you can't pry him loose from it with a handspike. Fraternally yours, JOHN M. WORK, "National Organizer."

At this moment, however, a letter comes from Michael saying he was sent as a political prisoner to the sulphur mines, but that a revolution has overturned the government and that he is now president. Groob's love revives and she goes to him.

All the old hatred comes back into Jason's heart and he sets out to find his brother or for Sicily. Groob, however, plays both of them false and they find themselves in the end locked to one chain in the sulphur mines. They face death together and come to love each other as brothers about the same time.

Michael is finally condemned to be shot and Jason makes the supreme sacrifice of taking his brother's place and sending Michael, made blind by the sulphur, to hunt for Groob, while he, presumably, goes to his death.

Only good words can be said for Lackaye and his company. The play won't do, that's all. Yet it is the same sort of play as "Monte Cristo," in which James O'Neill has appeared over 5,000 times.

A Starving Town

The City of Seneca, N. Y., is starving. There has been no flood or earthquake, or drought or fire, or other calamity of nature. Pesticide did not destroy the producers or weaken their strength.

Neither did a new invention render their skill antiquated. They are as capable of producing as they were six months ago when they were creating the wealth that is building libraries, endowing colleges and purchasing pipe organs with which to sound the praises of a divine Providence.

This town is not on some distant, uninhabited Northern island. If it were the government would long ago have fitted out a relief expedition to rescue the starving inhabitants.

It is in the midst of a nation that is overflowing with wealth. It is composed of the men and women who helped to create that wealth.

Yet strong men are sinking down and dying, children are moaning as they perish for lack of food, and all the horrors that rouse our pity when occurring in India or Russia are taking place in the "richest country on earth."

THESE MEN AND WOMEN AND CHILDREN ARE BEING MURDERED BECAUSE THE KINGS OF STEEL CAN NO LONGER MAKE A PROFIT ON THEIR LABOR.

If in the days of chattel slavery the owner of a cotton plantation had refused to feed his slaves when the price of cotton fell and they had died upon the fields and in their huts what a "thrill of horror" it would have sent through the "civilized world."

The wage slaves of Seneca have been turned out to starve because the steel trust, not being able to make a profit on the operation of its mill, closed it down.

Some day the workers of Seneca, Chicago and New York and the whole country will refuse to be locked out of the resources of the country they have made rich, and will use their votes to overthrow a system that makes such things possible.

They will take possession of the government by means of their votes and use that government to own and operate the mills that their masters now use as a means of exploiting and starving them.

Do you suppose that if the steel mills of Seneca were owned by the people of the town, as the public schools are owned, that men and women and children would be starving there? Do you suppose that if the land and the mills, the mines and the factories of this whole nation were owned in the same manner that there would be other starving armies in every great city today?

The Anarchist Scare in Chicago

All the efforts of Chief Shippy and the Chicago Tribune to galvanize the anarchist movement of Chicago into life will be in vain. That movement has been steadily declining for several years.

It never had any appreciable strength outside of the imagination of the police force. With the growth of Socialism what few workmen had shown an inclination toward anarchy, saw its weakness and united with the Socialist movement. This has been the invariable result in all countries. The vagaries of anarchy have always been driven out by the Socialist movement. Consequently there is no one who is more hated by the few remaining theorists of anarchy than the Socialists. It was noticed at the International Congress of Anarchists held at Amsterdam last summer that, while nearly everything proposed led to a free fight, the one sentiment which met with unanimous approval was "D—the Socialists."

The only part which the anarchists are playing in present society is an excuse for police activity against Socialists.

THAT IS THE PART WHICH THEY ARE NOW PLAYING IN CHICAGO.

Insofar as it is not a move to blackmail a few timid capitalists for the benefit of the Police Department, the present howl of a "red peril" is for the purpose of affording an excuse for some sort of an attack on the only body that is really feared by the ruling class of today—the SOCIALISTS.

It is the steady, irresistible growth of the Socialist vote of the world that is sending cold chills up and down the back of the profit-eating class. It is with the hope of securing an excuse for attacking this organization that press and police are pretending to "see red." Not that they are not fully aware of the enmity between the anarchists and Socialists, but they seek carefully to confuse and distort this fact.

Such a scheme as this might have worked twenty years ago. It is too late now. There is too wide a knowledge of Socialism. There are too many and too powerful Socialist papers to permit the plot to be carried out unexposed.

Hit Again

The United States Supreme Court cannot be blamed if the Socialists do not carry the country next Fall. It is doing all in its power to demonstrate the existence of class government.

Having knocked out the Employers' Liability Law, legalized the blacklist, and outlawed the boycott, it now proposes to almost exactly duplicate the famous Taff Vale case of England and make the unions liable as organizations for damages caused by THEIR REFUSAL TO PURCHASE SCAB GOODS.

That it exactly what the decision means. If the members of a union, AS A UNION, refuse to purchase the goods of their enemies and to help force down their own wages then they are liable for the DAMAGES WHICH THEIR REFUSAL TO ASSIST THEIR OPPONENT MAY CAUSE TO THAT OPPONENT.

How long will it be before the Supreme Court will decide that the unions may be taxed to support the Citizens' Alliance? Such a step would be but a short one from the present position.

Remember the Socialist Primaries

Next Saturday the Socialist Party of Chicago holds its primary election. It is very important for the future work of the campaign that as large a vote as possible should be registered.

A good showing in the primary elections will be of great assistance in the campaign. Moreover, the names of those registered at the primary elections will constitute a foundation on which to build up the party organization.

The polls are open from noon until 7 p. m., giving ample time for all to vote.

Anti-labor legislation in Great Britain has driven British trades unionists into the Socialist party.

Our august supreme court has become the great villain.

A few Socialist members of congress and the prospect of more coming would cause our reactionary old U. S. supreme court to see things from the 25th century point of view.

The South Carolina nullifiers were crude. They should have poked the U. S. supreme court with nullifiers, and then by the eternal they could have defied Old Hickory and congress with impunity.

Court decisions are constantly condemning the power of trades unions and destroying their effectiveness for a purpose other than mutual aid societies.

The injunction is "un-American," but it is not causing any undue alarm among the widows and orphans of our free institutions.

IN FOREIGN LANDS

BY J. B. ASKEW.

Berlin has seen a sight which has not been seen in its streets for sixty years—since the days of forty-eight. The police have been practically defied. The proletariat have demonstrated in the streets just as if they were Bourgeois or university students going to honor or hoot some professor. Last year after the Socialists had lost a large number of seats in the Reichstag the Bourgeois political parties represented it may be added at that hour by a large number of drunken street loafers, were allowed to make a midnight procession through the streets of Berlin to the Kaiser's palace as well as to that of the Imperial Chancellor, both of whom addressed this singularly respectable crowd, and now the Socialists thought that as the Chancellor had openly provoked them with his speech on the suffrage question, they might also follow the example of their opponents, though naturally with far better discipline, as might be expected from a party which has always been proud of its discipline—but this time how different was the attitude of the police!

The noisy, drunken hooligans who made up the Bourgeois procession were accompanied after the police had got over their first astonishment by the police themselves to the Kaiser's palace. This time the police only did their best to prevent any sort of demonstration and to do this practically the whole traffic was forbidden on certain streets—in others trams were not allowed to take up or put down passengers within certain areas.

The police seem to have not behaved as badly as might have been expected, but then in a city like Berlin the same unscrupulousness cannot be shown as even in St. Petersburg. All the same crowds which carried nothing but sticks and umbrellas were again and again charged with bare words, crowds whose worst offense was that they were crowds and consequently unwelcome.

Three revolvers are said to have been fired on the police. That in a city of 2,000,000 inhabitants in a great home of great political excitement and that probably from police agents! But in any case nothing more was done, except that in answer a few stones were thrown by silly idiots at the police.

That these comparatively insignificant incidents are all that the government can bring to excuse their conduct is surely enough to condemn them, once dispels the discipline of the crowd—there were over 100 wounded, and many of these serious sword cuts. That the actual numbers were far greater than are announced may be gathered from the fact mentioned by the Times that naturally the wounded had every reason to keep away from the police station. And it may be added that the cause of the whole disturbance was the determination of the Prussian government to allow the people no share in the government of their own country or in the determination of the laws which guide their lives. It is characteristic for the liberal press that while the Times correspondent in Berlin gave on the whole a most fair account of the whole proceedings and that paper devoted a leading article in which the importance of the occasion was appreciated, the Daily News dismissed the whole business in a couple of lines as merely a joke which would only help the game of the reactionaries.

Hold the reactionaries, indeed! Why, the liberals with their "Bler" policy are the protected allies of these very reactionary parties! But this attitude of the Berlin correspondent of the Daily News is characteristic of the whole policy of German liberals, who partly from Vorward, partly from interest, dare not move and yet are furious when the Socialists do anything to realize what is, after all, one of the principal demands of the liberal program. What becomes of the sympathy of the Daily News with liberal ideas if they cannot support the Prussian Social Democrats at this juncture?

Vorwärts states that the troops in Berlin on the occasion of the recent demonstration were supplied not only with ball cartridge, but also with free beer—so that many of them were only too anxious to try their hands on the crowd. Bulow will not find it so easy to explain away this fact.

The Social Democratic union for the 23 division of Leipzig—the workers' quarters—counts 22,351 members, or an increase of over 2,000 in the last six months. The subscriptions amounted to over £1,300, of which £200 were sent to the party headquarters in Berlin and £200 on agitation. A paid secretary has been appointed.

Now that the Russian government is in a tight corner their good friends the capitalists are advising them to make money by selling the national properties, railways, mineral rights, etc., to private exploiters of various kinds.

The condemned Social Democratic members of the second duma were to be sent, not to Siberia, but to do their sentences in Russia itself. And it appears that the transport was to be carried out under chains as if they were dangerous prisoners.

The government is evidently determined to leave nothing undone to wreak their vengeance on their unhappy victims whose wives have been refused permission to accompany them—and who suffer in every way from the severities of a climate to which many of them, notably those from the Caucasus, are not used. Moreover, that has happened what has so often rendered the lot of the political prisoner in Russia still more bitter, the prisons are overfilled, so that the prisoners have to be put in where they can. It is stated, also, that the families are in the direst want, as most of the deputies were workmen.

The Social Democratic party tried to get the funds together for them, but without great success, as the distress among the rest of the members is great enough as it is. What would we not have heard from the English press had the same things been done by the government of Abdul the Damned which have been done by that of the saintly Nicholas?

A statistic has recently been published of the ages of the metal workers at Winterthur, where the most important engineering works in Switzerland are carried out:

Number of workers. Between 15 and 20 years of age... 87 Between 21 and 30 years of age... 1,123 Between 31 and 40 years of age... 1,123 Between 41 and 50 years of age... 663 Between 51 and 60 years of age... 412 Between 61 and 70 years of age... 164 Between 71 and 80 years of age... 21

A domestic servants' union was recently started in Zurich and though only a week old, so old has got over 100 members.

A meeting was held at which Socialist Graellch made a most impressive appeal to all to join the union. The success of such a union in a country where the people have been, both in political and trade union matters, so indifferent as they have been in Switzerland is a most happy augury of the new life in the whole continental movement, and in which even the domestic slaves are taking their part.

Oh, then Taddy, dear, now don't you hear. The news that's goin' round. Prosperity has struck us hard. And my feet are on the ground.

For I see the stores are full of shoes. I've made them by the score. To get the price to buy one pair. I've got to make four more.

Now I've made too many shoes and so there is no work for me. And till the shoes I've made are sold To starve is all I see.

To keep a house and pay the rent, And pay insurance too; To feed my wife and children three Was all that I could do.

They say that I should save my coin Against a rainy day, But how could I save my coin And also pay my way?

I have tramped my shoes through to my toes. For work I could not find; Says Taff, "It's a pity, God knows," But I am left behind.

Why Not Have the Whole?

BY LOUISA HARDING.

IN a school some pupils were translating the adventures of Aeneas, driven from Troy and suffering much on land and sea on account of the wrath of Juno, the Impulsive. Curious how the versions ending in the middle of Book I, some going into II or III, but few taking the hero to the site of Rome.

One boy read with the keenest interest and in excellent style. He was a great neighbor on the north. The scholar halted in the middle of a sentence. "Most unfortunate!" exclaimed the headmaster. "I perceive your book is ended there. Therefore you will now pass into the class for barrel-making, where I wish so good a scholar as yourself all possible success." He then called upon the next boy to continue with the classic tale. This youth translated very hesitatingly. In fact, I do not suppose he would have gotten through at all had he not induced the boy beside him on the form to get behind and prompt from time to time, promising in return to lend him his full, hand-blinded text when he himself should not be using it. This bargain the clever student was quite glad to make, since his own copy ended very soon, and he was extremely interested to know what happened to Queen Dido, and whether there were any exciting incidents of shipwreck later on.

"I should scarcely think," remarked a visitor, "that pupils would approve of this arrangement of the books. One would imagine they would rather have the copies uniform."

"Not at all," replied the master with some asperity. "To have all texts alike would cause the greatest monotony in translation; it would do away with all incentive to good work, and it would take us back to the period when men were but beasts and dwell in equality in jungles. We should be honest and square-dealing with what texts we have, and then all would be very well indeed."

At this argument some of the pupils seemed impressed, but I believe the bright persons with short cuts would have insisted on a change had it not been for the efforts of an extremely selfish person clad in black. This gentleman was seated on the rostrum in a high-backed chair, and at intervals he read from a thick volume in "La Hamme," which functioned, however, to create somewhat in this style: "I know, oh scholars, with abbreviated texts, that it is amazing to find your studies thus straggled. I know also that some of you do not find barrel-making a congenial task. It is the will of heaven, none the less, that you resign yourselves to your respective lots in life. On this condition I am commissioned to promise you, in another world than this, complete and gorgeous texts with jewels on the covers, and a work of art on every other page. These you will receive, in far longer than a thousand thousand years. Consider, then, how slight a trifle it is that you cannot now read all you wish. If, however, you join with these sedulous boys who work for textbooks of one sort for all, you will find yourselves in kingdom-come with no better reading matter than the complete works of Mr. Roosevelt, or of my colleague, Brother William Quayle."

Naturally enough the deliverer of an oration of this sort was well rewarded by the pupils who were "lucky with their texts, but the great marvel of it is that in his pockets there were many notes, among whom were speared. These latter kissed the toe of their advisor as they moved on toward the cooper shop, and apparently failed to notice that he himself had never had a hammer in his own well-stored for his hand. Of course it may be that they saw him rather dimly, through a screen of ignorance and fear, covered with the trappings they themselves had pinned thereto.

In the reports of the wedding of Miss Vanderbilt we read that the affair was managed with "studied simplicity," some of the details of which were two priests to perform the ceremony, a cabled benediction from the pope, more than 600 people to witness the ceremony, and a magnificent feast. These latter kisses and countesses and barons and baronesse enough to give the correct flavor of simplicity: a honeymoon to Paris unknown, then a European voyage. Then, when in Europe, the simple bride with her money, they the simple workers of America send her. The next one you have a daughter married, take the example of Miss Vanderbilt and make the affair a simple one, instead of showing so much vulgar ostentation.

Teaching New Tricks

It is thought to my mind the old saying, "It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks," when a woman wrote, "Chop some ingredients in a food chopper, but better still, with an old-fashioned chopping knife." I know that woman is a good cook, a splendid one, and yet she calls the old-fashioned chopping knife

Should the government do this, as is more than probable that it will, much to the profit of its friends, it will be a good example how very little value it is to us to have railways and other public services in the hands of an autocratic or any government not controlled by the people, because not only are the people exploited as consumers of the services and workers swamped just as badly as under private enterprise, but the government is always able to sell them at any moment without asking any one. And a government which has itself no prospect of living will not be likely to be very careful about the future national assets.

The condemned Social Democratic members of the second duma were to be sent, not to Siberia, but to do their sentences in Russia itself. And it appears that the transport was to be carried out under chains as if they were dangerous prisoners.

The government is evidently determined to leave nothing undone to wreak their vengeance on their unhappy victims whose wives have been refused permission to accompany them—and who suffer in every way from the severities of a climate to which many of them, notably those from the Caucasus, are not used. Moreover, that has happened what has so often rendered the lot of the political prisoner in Russia still more bitter, the prisons are overfilled, so that the prisoners have to be put in where they can. It is stated, also, that the families are in the direst want, as most of the deputies were workmen.

The Social Democratic party tried to get the funds together for them, but without great success, as the distress among the rest of the members is great enough as it is. What would we not have heard from the English press had the same things been done by the government of Abdul the Damned which have been done by that of the saintly Nicholas?

A statistic has recently been published of the ages of the metal workers at Winterthur, where the most important engineering works in Switzerland are carried out:

Number of workers. Between 15 and 20 years of age... 87 Between 21 and 30 years of age... 1,123 Between 31 and 40 years of age... 1,123 Between 41 and 50 years of age... 663 Between 51 and 60 years of age... 412 Between 61 and 70 years of age... 164 Between 71 and 80 years of age... 21

A domestic servants' union was recently started in Zurich and though only a week old, so old has got over 100 members.

A meeting was held at which Socialist Graellch made a most impressive appeal to all to join the union. The success of such a union in a country where the people have been, both in political and trade union matters, so indifferent as they have been in Switzerland is a most happy augury of the new life in the whole continental movement, and in which even the domestic slaves are taking their part.

Oh, then Taddy, dear, now don't you hear. The news that's goin' round. Prosperity has struck us hard. And my feet are on the ground.

For I see the stores are full of shoes. I've made them by the score. To get the price to buy one pair. I've got to make four more.

Now I've made too many shoes and so there is no work for me. And till the shoes I've made are sold To starve is all I see.

To keep a house and pay the rent, And pay insurance too; To feed my wife and children three Was all that I could do.

They say that I should save my coin Against a rainy day, But how could I save my coin And also pay my way?

I have tramped my shoes through to my toes. For work I could not find; Says Taff, "It's a pity, God knows," But I am left behind.

A LULLABY

BY ELLIS O. JONES.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, have ye no dread; The larder is filled with a picture of bread. Your father is standing in line at the bank. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, heed not the crank.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, button your eyes; Your father is patiently walking the ties. Ah, here he comes now with a picture of cash. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, do not be rash.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, hear on my breath, While I show you a view of a big, money chest. Statistics all prove that you're perfectly safe. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, dear little waif.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, sleep sweetly on, Nor worry if money and job are both gone. Here's a clearing house check, if you're hungry, to chew. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, trust Corteloyu.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, do not complain; The bankers will see that your shekels remain. Where nothing can get them. But here is their note. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, just be the goat.

Hush-a-bye, Populi, care for your health; The way to be rich is to read about wealth; All things will be right if you don't make a fuss. So, hush-a-bye, Populi, leave it to us.

A SCENE IN COURT

BY ROBIN DUNBAR.

Corporation lawyer—We ask your honor for an injunction of the broadest sort against these defendants.

Chief Justice—What defendants? Corporation lawyer—The Workers of the World.

Chief Justice—All right, granted! Will you furnish the order or shall I write it up?

Corporation lawyer—I suggest to your honor that you are fully capable of preparing the order.

Chief Justice—Mr. Clerk, enter on the record injunction No. 23.

Corporation lawyer—I would request that you might add a clause which I have had my clerk prepare (handing up paper).

Chief Justice (reading)—"And the Workers of the World are further enjoined from remaining on the face of the earth." Is that all? Well, enter that up too, Mr. Clerk. What is the next case?

Corporation lawyer—The divorce proceedings in the case of Trouble vs. Trouble. In this case Mr. Trouble in a moment of civility married Mamie Highkick. He afterward procured a divorce from her in the course of a year. But she remained faithful to his memory. Now, as you know, Mr. Trouble is dead, and Mrs. Trouble and the children have hired me on a contingent fee to see aside the divorce proceedings and thus establish the validity of her claim and assure me my fee, which as your honor knows, will be considerable in consideration of my bringing this case up to such a high court and august tribunal.

Chief Justice—Yes, we know all that. What defect do you find in the proceedings?

Corporation lawyer—We find that the paper in which the non-residence notice was published was a labor journal. It appears that Mrs. Trouble's attorneys were inconsiderate enough to patronize a union publication.

Chief Justice—Enough! The proceedings are set aside. We congratulate you on your astuteness and trust you will not be too lenient with your clients in exacting a proper fee for the great work and ability you have displayed in this case. We also overrule any other cases that are in conflict with this decision. The clerk will prepare the order.

Constitutional lawyer—Your honor will also have to state in the opinion, "What is a crime against the constitution?"

Chief Justice—Very well. Such a crime is the taking in question any decision of this court.

Constitutional lawyer—Who are you referring to, the people or the court?

Chief Justice—Laughing at his own wit—This court is supreme; the people are inferior!

Constitutional lawyer—Then you agree with Tom Lawson that "the people" is a term with which to arouse rabidism?

Chief Justice—Certainly! With of course, the saying clause that we who compose the upper classes are excluded from all classification whatever.

But on with business. Let Justice be confined!

Constitutional lawyer—Then you agree with Tom Lawson that "the people" is a term with which to arouse rabidism?

Chief Justice—Certainly! With of course, the saying clause that we who compose the upper classes are excluded from all classification whatever.

But on with business. Let Justice be confined!
