The document also petitions the court to issue an injunction preventing the expenditure of money for "fund" books for indigent children under the alleged illegal contract. It is declared that already $22,000 has been illegally expended for "fund" books. Besides President Urion and other members of the school board, the injunction is sought against Mayor Busse, City Treasurer Powell, Comptroller Wilson, Lewis E. Larson, secretary of the board of education, and Rand, McNally & Co.

The proceedings were brought in the name of Paul E. Polzin, a taxpayer, who declares that by reason of the st.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 15 .- Grafting has een in progress for fifteen years in the office of the state boller inspectors. according to the sworn confession of Mrs. Ada R. Tibbits, a stenographer at the state capitol.

She estimates the extent of the irregularities at $20,000 a year. Only about $5,000 a year was turned into the state, she said, when there should have been $25,000 g year. Mrs. Tibbits has been in the office eleven years and accuses all the inspectors she worked for. Three sets of books were used to hide the graft, she said.

Representatives of printing houses, named in the confession, admitted printing one duplicate set of certificates of inspection.

Almost in the same breath United States Senator Wm. J. Stone of Missouri showed that while there has been a 50 per cent increase in the price of hosiery, underwear and other textile products in the last year, the cotton mills for whose benefit the Dingley rates were advanced, are making prof-its ranging all the way from 25 to 67% per cent on their capital stocks. JOHN COLLINS' BOOK

John Collins wrote a book. It is a good book. He called it "The Power Weakness of Trade Unions."

Meakness of Trade Unions."

It is a small book. But there is pienty of good stuff in it. It sells regularly ten cents and every trade unionist that reads it says it is fine.

Collins is a union man. He has been one for a good many years. He has been a Socialist speaker for quite a number of years.

He has found out by experience just the sort of talk that is most interest; and convincing to union men. He has put that talk into this pamphlet.

It begins with an explanation of the union movement. It tells just what the least hand one and can do for the workers.

to begins with an explanation of the union investment. It tells just what the group to individual resistance.

Then it proceeds without a break to show just where the limitations of the union are found and explains how these limitations and weaknesses are met by Socialism.

Socialism.

It is two strong cartoons by Savage made especially for this pamphlet that will catch the eye and the attention and emphasize the words.

Having read this far you will certainly want a copy. You will want it if you are trying to make Socialists out of union men.

The Daily Socialist is going to make it possible for every reader to get a nice bundle of them to distribute. In getting them you will have a chance to add to the circulation of the Daily Socialist.

There are several thousand subscription cards in the hands of Hustlers. They have paid for these cards, but are doing no good unless they are turned in for subscriptions.

THE BIRTHDAY BOX.

There are certain qualifications necessary to be eligible to this portion of the Hustiers' column. First of all, you must be living. Dead ones don't count. Then you must have a birthday. If you never have a birthday you might as well give up all hope. This is an exclusive thing, this birthday fund, and it would never do to print the names of people whether they have a birthday or not. Then it is also necessary to be one year older than you were at the same time last year. Bashful ladies that get younger every year or remain the same age all the time, can't get in this part of the column at any price. Also it is necessary to remit a penny for each year that you had the privilege of living (under capitalism). If you can some up to all these requirements you stand a good chance of entering this guarded spot. It doesn't make any difference whether you have one syre wear glasses, though it is understood that to laugh without wahishing around your false teeth. Of course if you are stuck in a blonde your application must be considered very carefully and passed upon on its merits.

The awful part of it is that the rider, whose face as well as his clouds is black, appears to leave the horse and regain its back at will, and that the animal passes and repasses motor cars without the sound of hoof-beats.

Chauffeurs have been left stuttering with fright, and one motor owner who was game enough to follow the mys-terious horseman was scared almost in-to brain fever before the chase ended.

Discrimination in Enforcing the Law

President Taft spoke upon the enforcement of the anti-trust law at a Lincoln day banquet in New York. His speech was supposed to be a specially prepared statement of the position of the administration's attitude toward the trusts.

, Here is the "keynote" of the speech as generally selected by the editors of the capitalist press: "Of course the government at Washington can be counted upon to enforce the law in the way best calculated to prevent a destruction of public confidence in business, but ever visited is that of Paris, and it is that it must enforce the law goes without saying."

To be sure the law must be enforced. It was enforced rigorously against the beef trust until the "immunity bath" was invented. It was enforced with terrible rigor against the Standard Oil until the twenty-nine-million-dollar fine was overturned. Really, there does It not seem to be anything about either of these most famous cases tion, and a cry arose for a better bread against the trusts to cause any great financial upheaval in Wall

Notwithstanding all the talk about panics and destruction of business interests by a reckless prosecution of the trusts, it still remains true that not a single trust has been disrupted by the Sherman anti-trust law. Not only has no trust been disrupted, but not one single trust has been compelled to disgorge one cent of its exploited income. Finally, in spite of all the talk about criminal prosecution, not one single trust magnate is at the present time behind prison doors or under sentence of imprisonment for violating the antitrust law. Nor has any trust owner been compelled to pay one cent of fine for violation of that law.

Nevertheless, practically every important commodity is now manufactured and distributed in violation of that law. Probably a hundred thousand different persons violate the law every working day. Millions of dollars are handled every hour in violation of the that it does not deter the culprits. law. Yet there have been no punishments for these violations.

REALLY IT SEEMS SUPERFLUOUS TO ASSURE THE TRUST MAGNATES THAT THERE WILL BE NO RECK-LESS PROSECUTION OF THE LAW.

There has been one successful prosecution under the Sherman law. A band of workingmen up in Danbury, Connecticut, conspired together to obtain better homes for their families, better clothes for their wives, better food and education for their children. They were such deep-dyed criminals that they sought to secure these things for all the men, women and children who are making hats in this country and for all those that might make them in the future. These conspirators were obtaining something less than one-half the value of the labor they put into the hats. They wanted a little larger

It is probable that the employing hatters are joined together in violation of the anti-trust law. This is not certain. The officers of the law have made no investigation of this point.

Because these hat makers conspired with their fellow workers to raise the price of human skill and strength the officers of the law descended upon them and prosecuted them to the last limit of legal procedure. The members of the Hatters' union have been fined over two hundred thousand dollars. That is probably more than the entire membership of the union possesses. Their little homes, the savings of years, the burial money, the few dollars laid aside for the marriage of a daughter, the education of a son, all these will be taken by the merciless process of the law.

THAT SHOULD GO A LONG WAY TOWARD CREAT-ING A FINANCIAL PANIC FOR THE MEMBERS OF THAT

Yet Taft did not go to Danbury to reassure the hatters. He went to Wall street to tell the financiers, who have never been fined or imprisoned or deprived of one single dollar of their blood-stained billions, that he would not hurt them.

TAFT WAS ELECTED BY THE VOTES OF WORKING-MEN. PERHAPS SOME UNION MEN VOTED FOR HIM. IT IS EVEN POSSIBLE THAT SOME OF THE MEMBERS OF THE HATTERS' UNION VOTED FOR HIM.

A Lincoln Story

On Saturday the nation was celebrating the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. While a thousand platforms were sounding the praises of the great emancipator the directors of the Pullman company were holding a little celebration.

This company has enslaved its workers as completely as the owner of any southern plantation ever enslaved negroes. It provides the slave quarters and controls the lives of its employes in almost as close detail as did the overseer before the war. It does not hand out rations, but it distributes barely enough money to buy the essentials of life once a week or month.

Last Saturday this company was distributing the profits derived from the labor of its wage slaves, and the sums were so great as to profession, who entertained some rather profession and had bought a seat on exceed the profits of hundreds of the old slee plantations. You see piquant views about modern business the New York stock exchange, paying the Pullman company is not required to feed its slaves when work is shipboard. We had not been out of port thought his future well assured. But,

All that Budapest had to show proved very interesting, and many of these so-cial and public services were admirably organized, but the greatest sympathy was naturally evoked by certain work being done in Budapest that has not been attempted elsewhere.

The town of Budapest has undertaken to supply the inhabitants with clean. me, and cheap bread. The municipality, to whom it was pointed out that other towns were bet ter served, and that at Vienna the bread was not so dear and more wholesome, took up the entire question, and finding that the bakers were not at all inclined to build proper and clean bak-eries and were indifferent to the protests of the public, they determined to set up a model municipal bakery.

By municipal competition the private bakers would be either driven out of the trade altogether or compelled to would be either driven out of produce in decent premises wholesome nd clean bread

The public should not be allowed to suffer any longer through the self interest of the baking trade. A model bakery, therefore, has been built. It may, in further explanation of this ac-tion, he added that there is no special law in Hungary on bakeries.

The only law affecting them is the general law on the state inspection of factories and workshops. This law is notoriously inefficient and badly applied. Even when a conviction is ob-tained the fine imposed is so very small Throughout there are ample space and light. The walls are painted a soft light green, on which the smallest speck of dirt would be seen, and from which could be washed away.

There are specially constructed carts to convey the bread to town. These contain two sheives for baskets, each holding 15 two-kilogramme loaves. The sides of the cart are made of canvas, which keeps out the dust, but lets air through. Each loaf has a label that is either triangular, square, or round in shape, according to the quality of the bread; therefore it is not necessary to know how to read in order to tell what

The Hungarians, it appears, do not like bread unless it contains a large quantity of potato. They say that if made of pure wheat the bread gets dry in two days, but when potatoes are mixed with the wheat it will keep moist or a long time.

There should not, however, be more than 18 per cent of potato, whereas private bakers often put in as much a tritious potato. The municipality has of adding potatoes, but takes care that there shall not be more than 18 per cent of potato in its bread. It sees to it also that the potatoes

It will then be possible to sell the bread even cheaper, or else to make a profit on it. As it is, the bread was sold at 6 hellers per kilogramme cheaper than the prevailing rates.

Thereupon, and within the first week of municipal competition, the private bekers lowered their prices 4 to 6 heliers, or, roughly specifies, chord-

There was no pretense of anything but just what it was—a gamble. The odds were mathe-matically known. I accepted them, and lost. It was all my own deing. I should say, at an estimate, that roulette is several hundred per cent more 'straight' a game than modern finance. It's not 'rigged' in any way. It's strictly on the level. Whereas finance, well——'' And
