Day's Events Dramatic

Probably not in the history of any great criminal case in recent years have conditions been so dramatic as when, late yesterday, Judge Bordwell ordered exercising of peremptories to begin.

Each of the twelve men passed for cause was sitting bolt upright in his chair, each wearing a tense expression and watching with acute alertness the room and James B. McNamura. That he is only a pawn in the greatest game in the history of the labor movement in this country was shown by the fact that his lawyers, although he was the person most intimately concerned in the outcome, paid no attention to him, but consulted his imprisoned brother about their actions.

Darrow Feels Strain

Attorney Darrow, for the first time the trial opened, showed the effect of the strain. His face was drawn and haggard and almost ghastly in its whiteness. Above, on the bench, Judge Bordwell concentrated his attention on both groups of attorneys.

The quiet was finally broken by District Attorney Fredricks declaring the law was absolute; that both sides must exhaust all challenges against the twelve men in the box in turn before any new names could be called. The defense objected and was overruled. Fredricks challenged Frank Frakes and the defense quickly eliminated McKee: the state excused McNeely, the retired tailor and union man, and the defense Johnson.

defense Johnson.

There was a lengthy panse, and then Fredricks, with the air of a man behind the largest stack of chips in a poker game, almost shouted, "we pass," and sat back in his seat. The frown and sat back in his seat. The frown on Attorney Darrows' face increased and he quickly eliminated Dr. Case and Frampton, and then stopped.

There was a pause for ten minutes for a conference, and finally Darrow walked back and conferred with Mrs. Franke Wolfe, wife of the Socialist candidate for alderman. It was the "woman's hunch," as she knew the members of the Winters family infinately, When Darrow resumed his seat mately. When Darrow resumed his seat he challenged Winter, who, although he had worked as a strike breaker in the butchers' strike, was still believed to be secretty in favor of unionism. By this time it was almost dark, and Darrow asked the court to adjourn un-til today so that the defense could con-fer over night. Bordwell so ordered. Socialist ticket and quite a number gave the party second place.

A surprise of the returns is the relative gains made in the 32d ward, which polled more than a thousand votes for Socialists, ranking next to the 27th

Want Another Judge

As exclusively stated by the United Press more than a week ago, the defense will next week renew its molion for a change of judge. Both McNamaras will repeat their original affidavits and add thereto the action of the court in refusing challenges against Talesman Frampton, who said he believed McNamara guilty, but was willing to acquit if he were proved innocent, and Talesmen Winter, McKee and Case.

P. S. L. TO HEAR CLARK TALK ON EVOLUTION TONIGHT

"From Nebula to Man" is the interesting title of a lecture to be delivered tonight by W. E. Clark at 205 West Washington street.

It is usually conceded that of all the aciences, astronomy is the most fascinating. From the time when the ancient Chaldeans were speculating upon the meaning of the stars and trying to systematise the then known universe, up to the latest theory of the evolution of worlds, man has always been busy seeking knowledge regarding the heavenly bodies.

This knowledge, Clark says, will be summed up, and all theories as to the origin of worlds will be dealt with. To assist him, he has 300 lantern slides from photographs and drawings by the worlds greatest scientists.

The Value of the Victories .

We Must Use Them to Arouse the Workers for Still Greater Conquests.

Yesterday's Socialist victories in widely separated cities, and the general big returns of the Socialist vote wherever elections were held have practically doubled the prospects of the Socialist party in the coming presidential campaign.

All question of chance has been eliminated. Socialist victories occurring simultaneously in cities so far apart can not be attributed to accident or local conditions.

They can only be accounted for by recognizing the fact that the workingmen of America not only in these cities that have gone into the Socialist column, but in all states and cities, have turned towards the new party which preclaims itself for them alone.

They prove that what has happened in these few instances will happen soon in hundreds of other places.

They are like a clarion call to all the workingmen of America to gathe: at the polls for the battle which has begun against their exploi ers.

Tens of thousands of toilers will take hope from the example of yesterday's elections.

Tens of thousands of workingmen who have scarcely believed that such a movement was possible will now not only believe in its possibilities but will enter into it with all the enthusiasm of slaves rising for their freedom.

Throughout America the strength of the Socialist party will be the topic of conversation for many days. The capitalist press will be forced to comment on it. The unthinking will be forced to

The Socialist party will become known and considered where before it was treated as a curiosity.

Men will begin to make up their minds whether they are going to vote for or against Socialism. In the past they have generally waited until handed some literature or induced to listen to speeches before giving the subject serious attention.

In countless ways the smashing blows struck by Socialists at yesterday e polls will arouse the nation and prepare the way for a presidential campaign.

It is for us to make the most of the opportunity. We must reach as many workingmen as possible while the interest is at its height. While the country stands amazed and hesitating at the unexpected onslaught, we must push forward with flying colors. We have the center of the stage for the presidential year and we must keep it.

A New Ruse

By W. F. Barnard.

In their public utterances, from platform and pulpit, and particularly through their press, the representatives of the privileged classes are now very seriously engaged in expressing a species of regret and protesting that they desire to reform.

What they regret is that it has been impossible "to adjust big business to the popular demand for the abolition of trusts"; and their willingness to "reform" means that they desire a court of business men to decide all questions raised as to what shall be a "reasonable" act on the part of any giant corporation.

By taking such an attitude at this hour these fighting gentlemen hope to at once placate the public, now toying doubtfully with its ballots, and ultimately to have things their own way. Under the guise of reform they would make their hold upon the commerce of the country the more secure and certain. Their action is of a kind with that of any crafty military leader, who, hard pressed for the time being, raises a flag of truce and under its protection reforms his shattered ranks and repairs the breaches in his redoubts. Eventually, when he re-opens hostilities, he will be better prepared to fight than he would have been if he had not asked for time.

But the time has gone when so disingenuous a move could be made with impunity; the American people have been roused to real concern at last and no regrets upon the part of their former masters, nor any plan to have the trusts "properly conducted" by those masters will now avail to stop the flood of doubt. The American people view this new flag of truce with proper suspicion, and are preparing to vote it down with the same determination which they would have felt had they been deceived in battle again and again by some crafty and designing enemy.

They are learning not only that the trusts are inevitable and that they can not be done away with, but also that the only persons capable of directing them justly are those persons who make up the population of these United States, the enlightened proletarian cit-

The Chicago Vote

It Means Socialist Aldermen Next April.

The Chicago Socialist vote for the judicial ticket speaks well for the movement here. It shows that we have a foundation

In the face of the strongest tendency to a light vote that was ever manifested in a judicial election the Socialist party held twothirds of its vote at the general election.

The Republican and Democratic parties held less than half of their voters.

The vote cast for the Socialist ticket at yesterday's election was relatively as great as a vote of forty thousand would have been at a mayoralty election.

The next step is the aldermanic election in April. With yesterday's returns as a basis we can conduct a campaign in several wards that will result in the election of three or four Socialists to the city council.

The time to begin is now.

Let us make up our minds that Chicago will join the vanguard next spring with some Socialist officials.

He would sit for hours contented, listening to stories of life in distant lands: he would go without eating to save a few kopecks required for entrance into the synagogue on days when there was music. His Father a "Mirror"

The hours were long in this chedar. Small as he was, he studied there each morning from nine o'clock until two, then went home to dinner, came back at three, and worked on until eight o'clock each night.

In his sixth year his mother, the practical obe in the family, decided to move to the city of Wilns. And there he went to a yeshiva, a Hebrew school more advanced than the chedar, where, with fifty other boys, he studied under the rabbi. But at thirteen he was hun-gry to learn more or the world than the rabbi could teach, and so began going in secret each afternoon to a governme When his parents learned it

She apprenticed him to a wood-carver in Wina. But the wood-carver, it seems, was a brute, coarse and foulmouthed; and on the first day the boy ran home, sobbing, and threatened that he would kill himself if they made him go back. In the end his mother gave in, and he was allowed to go on with his studies. For the next two years he spent his time in Wilna's public library.

"For the deeper and more intense grew my love for Russia's literature and music, the more of an outlaw I was made to feel. I remem-ber one Russian holiday, as I walked home, my comrade and I were attacked I remember his face all covered with blood."

The Turning Point

But in his nineteenth year, one day on the street, a young man (who is now a public school principal in New York) silently shoved into his hand an "un-derground" pamphlet. Intensely chagrined, Cahan' went to his room and there read the pamphlet many times It was a revolutionary poem by Necra-soff; no great masterpiece, but the fact that it was something forbidder

At this point it would seem so. But there is a sequel still to be told in its appointed position later in this work—a sequel of the most impressive importance, in many respects, in the narrative of the Supreme Court of the United States. In due place farther along in these chapters the termination and its immense significance to the generations of that time and to all generations since, is described. There the connecting links are all appropriately brought together; how the capitalists, obtaining the claim of these grants, refused to accept the repealing act as valid; how they fell back upon that very constitutional clause which James Wilson, the principal backer of the briberies, had proposed in the federal constitutional convention after his Bank of North America experience, that no state had the right to pass legislation impairing At this point it would seem so. PLAN TO LAUNCH SOCIALIST SCHOOLS FOR CHICAGO the national office of the Socialist party, and David Fulton Karsner.

Plans to launch a Socialist school and magazine for children are being laid by Rose Greenberg Karsner, formerly of New Tork, and now connected with the national office of the Socialist party, and David Batter.

Mrs. Karsner will pattern the schools after those in New York city, where there are now about ten in existence. The text books, songs and games which are used in the New York schools will party.

It apy such charge as this had been made before we would have a long list

The plan is to educate the children in Socialism in an interesting manner that they can understand. Children are also given a scientifie, education in this manner, beginning with plants, then animals, and finally taking up the study of man. Socialist sengs and games which teach Socialist philosophy will be taught.

It has long been the desire of the Socialist elected. He still holds office and is regarded by all as one of the magnitude of the task it has never been attempted. Mrs. Karaser is asquainted with the work and is well fitted to take it has the second of the county board, John with the work and is well fitted to take up the task:

The start will be made in the Seventh ward, at the Socialist headquarters, 6506

All women in the Seventh ward who desire to help in the work and all children who-desire to attend the school are requested to send their names to Mrs. Karsner at 5427 Jackson avenue.

Another important feature of this work will be a Socialist magazine for children, which will be patterned after the Young Socialists' Magazine of New York. The publication will be managed and edited by David Fulton Karsner, formerly connected with the New York Call and now a member of the staff of The Chicago Daily Socialist.

It is expected that the magazine will be started about the first of the year.

SOCIALIST EDITOR BEUTALLY ASSAULTED BY CAPITALIST

Newark, Ohlo .- J. H. Sharritt, editor Newark, Onio.—J. H. Sharritt, editor of the Newark Majority, a Socialist weekly, was the victim of a brutal assault at the hands of W. M. Shamp, a former member of the board of realty, who was removed from office some time ago by the state board of realty for crookedness.

SOCIALISTS CAPTUE BIG REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Republicans ment and brought in barries of beer.

The speakers imbibed so freely that they were unable to orate about our glorious prosperity and went to sleep at the switch.

Thereupon a bunch of Socialists who were present brought in Editor Battis coni of La Fiscole, a red paper, and what he didn't say was unnecessary, for he captured the crowd and the beer and the meeting was turned into a Socialist joilification.

BOOMS CATHOLICS CAN HOLD OFFICE IN SOCIALIST PARTY

New Castle, Pa.—Now a neat little lie is being worked by the Hainer crowd among the Catholics to the effect that is Milwaukee, where the Socialists are in charge, that no Catholic holds an
