SOVIET SLUGGERS BEAT THE UNION DELEGATES AT SHANNON FUSION CONFAB; MANY WITHDRAW

By WILLIAM WEINSTONE. NEW YORK, June 21.—Socialist sluggers, led by chairman Algermon Lee, used violence against labor union delegates at the sham labor fusion conference held here. Ten delegates were badly beaten.

Delegates Lupo, of Local Union No. 38, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, was kicked and struck in the head and chest. He received ambulance attention.

When others were so severely kicked that they required the attention of physicians. Beverly Altshuler, of Local Union No. 43, of the Milliners, was thrown down the stairs. One of her fingers was broken.

Union Delegates Expose Fakes. Many socialist delegates protested against these acts of violence. The prominent Brooklyn socialist, Jacques Cornell left the convention to protest against the steam roller violence.

Thirty-five trade union federal delegates issued a declaration which said: "The Labor Fusion Conference is a fraud. It is not a labor fusion conference, but a socialist conference."

Thirty-five Withdrew. The statement was signed by eight delegates from the following unions: the Furriers' International, four locals, and the Milliners, Food Workers, and Shoe Workers unions.

The violence arose because the resolutions committee refused to read the resolution proposed by two labor delegates from the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Local No. 38 and the Milliners' Union Local No. 4, calling for a real conference and a united labor ticket.

Workers in the gallery were astounded at the violent methods used by the socialist. The Workers' (Communist) Party did not send representatives to the convention but sent an open letter. The Workers' Party has issued a declaration denouncing the violence and head of the socialist and supporting the labor candidates in their demands for a united labor ticket.

The convention was packed with socialist party delegates, who were so great in number that the credentials committee did not read the names and organizations of delegates seated, as this would show that the so-called union representation, except those mentioned above, were socialist labor bureaucrats.

FOREIGNER DEFENDING CHINESE COOLIE IN SHANGHAI TURNS OUT TO BE MEMBER SOVIET SERVICE

SHANGHAI, China. (Special to The Daily Worker) The Astor House is a Shanghai hotel and it had the honor of being the scene of a proceeding here witnessed here yesterday a lady, a foreigner, had witnessed the beating of a richa coolie in front of the Astor House by a Sikh.

Her efforts were in vain for a few minutes an American was passing by and she ordered to take the club from the Sikh. The American leath to commit such an unchristian act hesitated an instant but at last he succeeded to the only humane demand.

At last the Sikh's was disarmed and by this time all the compatriots of the beaten coolie were gathering into a menacing purpose—full crowd. The coolie who had been mercilessly beaten struck at the Sikh and as a result of the blow he received a black eye on his face.

A word about this promiscuous beating of a coolie. There is no reason that warrants this wanton assault on the part of the Sikh. The servile attitude of the coolie coupled with the knowledge that all the forces of imperialism are behind him, the Sikh, is the provocation that is set on. Yesterday's assault should go down in the annals of Shanghai history as practically the only time that a foreigner defended the cause of the coolie in the way that the Peruvian did.

Anxious to know who this rare person was I followed her with my eyes and to my surprise I saw her enter the building of the Peruvian. My steps there likewise and my inquiries resulted in the fact that she is in the Soviet diplomatic service.

Funeral Today of Paul Bernhard, Victim in Wreck. The funeral of Paul Bernhard and his wife, who were killed in the Laccawanna wreck near Hackettstown, New Jersey, will be held Monday, June 22, at 10:30 A.M. at the residence of Mrs. Bernhard, 224 Roosevelt Road, Oak Park, N.J.

Conrad Bernhard was a member of the Workers Party, his connection with the revolutionary political movement dating back to 1930 when he joined in Germany. He was for many years a member of the socialist party, taking part as a left wing delegate at the time of the split of 1919, and later being invited but not approved by the Workers Party.

Both propositions were tricks on the part of the company first to break the spirit of rebellion by stalling it with a weak system of bonuses and to divide the riveters from the other men.

Speed-up System. The riveting system on the bonus proposition, the union men among them know its full significance and all the others realize that this is an old speed-up system that can only result in more accidents for the workers.

The great bridge has claimed the lives of many workers as it stands so far, and all the men recall the incidents leading to the deaths of L. Connor, A. Murphy, and J. Velle. There was no discussion of accepting the bonus system. It was turned down unanimously.

There are still over 300 men employed on the great structure all working on the open shop basis, but many carrying cards and not doing like the iron workers, just waiting for an opportunity to organize and strike.

Due to the lack of contact between the workers of the various trades employed on the bridge, no sympathetic strike was possible. The result is that about 500 men are working on the bridge while the iron workers are striking and getting their forces organized.

The bridge is due to be completed for July 1936, which still leaves about a year to complete the structure. Bad Working Conditions. The working conditions on the bridge are extremely dangerous and undesirable. The company grants the workers a prompt settlement of the original claim.

Chinese delegates representing forty-eight colleges Saturday afternoon contacted the minister of war and the foreign office demanding that the Chinese government immediately sever relations with Great Britain.

Middle Class Hopes Are Buried with La Follette; Labor Goes Marching on

TODAY, more than the remains of Senator LaFollette are laid to rest in a Madison, Wis., grave. Middle class hopes for an effective struggle in behalf of its interests, at least for the time being, are also buried.

No one appears to take up LaFollette's mantle. No great protest of the open-minded governing class LaFollette developed, and that he sought to transform into a bourgeois third party. Another apostle of small business, catering to the official fringe of the labor movement, may arise at some time in the future, when the petty bourgeoisie again goes on the warpath.

There is, for instance, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, vice-presidential candidate on the LaFollette ticket. Wheeler is back safe and comfortable in the democratic party.

Senator Borah, head of the republican committee on foreign relations, is closer to all Street than ever. He forgets his campaign for the recognition of the Soviet Union, and joins the whole Coolidge administration in its imperialist attack on Mexico's sovereign rights.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, and the two senators from North Dakota, Ladd and Frazier, are protesting their republican regularity, although the two latter are supposed to be non-partisan leaguers.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, is not so far from the party line as Magnus Johnson will try to get back into the senate by running in the republican primaries and capturing the C. O. P. nomination, instead of sticking to the Farmer-Labor Party.

Thus LaFollette's death will accomplish an exposure of all these political cowards who have been riding into power since the war on the discontent of the city workers and poor farmers. The reactionary labor officialdom has kept great masses of the rank and file in line with the promise that LaFollette and his kind would get something for them.

These developments in the American political situation must clarify the struggle for the masses of workers and poor farmers. Labor beholds its "friends" completely desert to the camp of the enemy. The class cleavage becomes more distinct. The battle lines in the class war are clearer.

With its "friends" unmasked as allies of its enemies, labor will depend more upon its power, building the trade unions into more effective weapons of combat, creating the class party to lead the struggle.

Communists, Socialists and Colonial Peoples

It is a nasty mess that French imperialism has got into in North Africa. Not only have French troops been defeated with heavy casualties, but military operations of major proportions are necessary if France is to save, not her face, but a portion of her anatomy situated much lower and to the rear.

The African tribes under French rule have received the news of the defeat of their masters with great rejoicing. The victory of Abdel-Krim's forces may be followed by a series of uprisings in French West Africa and in the northern section bordering on Rifian territory. Painleve himself admits as much in his report to the foreign affairs committee:

Abd-el-Krim's victory has caused a tremendous impression throughout France's North African possessions. For the first time our armies there have suffered serious setbacks. In order to prevent the downfall of our colonial empire we must act and act quickly.

The Communists alone in the chamber of deputies are demanding the withdrawal of all French troops from Africa and recognition of their independence. The socialists have been advised by their party leaders "not to raise the question of socialist principles during the debate in order to split the chamber."

In other words, "socialist principles" are something to talk about only when there is no danger of embarrassing the capitalist state. The Communists believe differently and attack French capitalism shoulder with the peasants and herdsmen of northern Africa.

But the M'houssouf Leader, official organ of the socialist party, has the gall to say that French socialists will not follow Painleve in the plan to prolong the war in Morocco. . . . The Leader may mean that the socialists in the French chamber will do everything possible to see that the Rifians are crushed with all possible speed.

What the agents of French capitalism think of the socialists is shown by the exclusion of Communists from the foreign affairs committee while the socialists were welcomed.

What the colonial peoples think of the Communists is shown by the attack of the capitalist press and military upon the Communists in Morocco, Egypt, India and China.

Signan's Desperate Tactics

Typical of the tactics used by the officialdom of the International Ladies' Garment Workers against the membership of Locals 2, 9 and 22, is the publication of the flimsy charges against the officers of these unions in the capitalist press before they were received by them. On the same day that the charges appeared in the New York papers the left wingers issued a statement saying that they had received no notification of the proceedings.

The charges themselves, reciting such misdeeds as the holding of a May Day meeting at which Communists were allowed to speak, are only an excuse for the raid on these militant locals by the officials and their gangsters. Despairing of securing the endorsement of the membership for their crooked schemes, the bureaucrats resorted to the most desperate tactics ever used on a large scale in the American labor movement.

Much to their surprise the membership has rallied almost to a man to the left wing. The protection given to the headquarters of Local 22 is mass action on a large scale while the left wing is taking the offensive in other large garment centers, carrying the fight to the Signan machine.

The membership of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has been very patient under the provocations of the crooks who head the organization. They have lost patience now, but they refuse to be provoked into doing what the reactionaries would like them to do—leave the union.

The Signan machine is not fighting any feeble handful of left wingers. It is confronted by a membership that knows the full measure of its rottenness and intends to clean house. This house cleaning may take a long time, but the left wing has been schooled in struggle. More and more such actions as those of the Signan machine develop in the membership the ability to stick and win.

300,000 Bayonets

In a statement written for the American newspapers, Benito Mussolini, fascist dictator of Italy, openly boasts that he holds power with the aid of 300,000 bayonets. He throws all discretion to the winds in showing his contempt for parliamentary government, and his words are intended for American ears. And the general impression is that the United States government considers parliamentary government the hall mark of democracy and a form to be conjured with. Mussolini evidently knows better.

It is commonly believed in the United States that recognition of the Soviet Union is withheld by the Washington administration because Russia is not a democracy, but a dictatorship. At least this was the excuse often given by Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state.

But Mussolini takes pride in the fascist dictatorship and apits on the Italian parliament; he even murders those who defend it energetically as Matteotti did. Yet he is recognized, and American bankers grant him huge loans while the dictator himself is held up as a model for the rest of the world.

It is evident that recognition of the Soviet Union is not withheld because there is a dictatorship there, but simply because the dictatorship is a working class one. That makes all the difference in the world.

British tribes pleaded eloquently in the house of commons for the application of the cruelty to animals act to fleas. At the same time British machine guns were slaughtering Chinese workers. But the Chinese are learning to bite the British: This will insure them at least as much consideration as the fleas.

The bus drivers of Paris demanded a wage increase and didn't get it. Instead of quitting work they decided to obey the rules against speeding. The result was that traffic was blocked. Now, the bosses are complaining that the drivers are obeying the law at the instigation of the Communists. What next?

The Enslavement of China

By Wm. F. Dunne

Great Britain simply took advantage of the disensions fomented by the Japanese government in China to attempt this extortion.

The twelve demands were as follows: 1. Great Britain shall have the right to control the railways between India and Tibet.

2. The Chinese government shall contract loans from the British government for the improvement of the administration of Tibet.

3. The treaty obligations between Tibet and Great Britain shall be extended to the whole of the administration of Tibet.

4. British experts shall be engaged for the industrial enterprises of Tibet.

5. China shall secure the redemption of loans contracted from the British people by Tibetans.

6. Neither China nor Great Britain shall send troops to Tibet without reason.

7. The Chinese government shall not support or disapprove of any action taken by Tibetans in the name of the responsibility of the British people.

8. The British government shall be allowed to establish telegraph lines in Lhasa, Chingho, Chamuluo, etc.

9. A British postal service shall be introduced in Lhasa and other places.

10. CHINA SHALL NOT INTERFERE WITH THE ACTIONS OF GREAT BRITAIN IN TIBET.

11. The British government shall be allowed to establish telegraph lines in Lhasa, Chingho, Chamuluo, etc.

12. The British government shall be allowed to establish telegraph lines in Lhasa, Chingho, Chamuluo, etc.

China was made nothing more than a puppet of the Chinese bourgeoisie.

Points 7 and 10 (on which we have laid emphasis) show clearly that the British government is not to lease agreement but intended to make of Tibet a British protectorate just as Japan had seized and established her protectorate over Korea.

Japan, while not openly opposing this aggression on the part of her rival, nevertheless conducted a quiet opposition propaganda and the twelve demands were pigeon-holed for the time being.

EASTERN PEOPLES HAVE GREAT FUTURE SAYS CHITCHERIN IN SPEECH BEFORE SOVIET CONGRESS

MOSCOW.—(By Mail)—In his speech on the foreign policy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics before the Third Congress of Soviet Peasants, Chicherin declared that the position of the foreign government toward the foreign countries ought to be considered only in connection with the entire policy of the U. S. S. R., whose chief points were a profound tendency for international peace and the recovery of sound economic conditions.

The basic nature of the foreign policy of the Union of S. S. R. is its defensive character. In this reference, the speaker emphatically denies the accusations which recently appeared in the foreign press against the U. S. S. R., which was charged with aggressive tendencies.

The speaker further scores as contrary to the true sense of the facts in his assertions that the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in Soviet Central Asia would serve as a starting point for annexationist tendencies with regard to neighboring states.

Just the reverse is true, declares Chicherin. The creation of the said republic is but an act that will consolidate peaceful relations between Asiatic neighbors.

For Self Determination. Touching the charges against the Soviet Socialist Republics, the people's commissary pointed out that the less would Poland violate her obligations.

MARKO FRIEDMAN Soldier of the Communist International

SOFIA, May 17. (Bulgarian Telegraph Agency.)—The public execution of the alleged perpetrator of the Sofia cathedral outrage, Marko Friedman, Koev and Zadoroski took place today.

ONE of the best of the Communist Party of Bulgaria, Comrade MARKO FRIEDMAN, who was charged with having participated in the preparation of the outrage in the Sofia cathedral, has been executed. He was hung in the cathedral square, and even his last request, that his death sentence be carried out by his own hand, was refused by the brutal hangman.

In his final speech at the mock trial he proclaimed in proud, noble and burning words his political belief: "What I have done I have done out of love for the people, as a true fighter of the Communist International. I also love my country, but in a different way from you. In this solemn moment I swear once again that I had nothing to do with the outrage in the cathedral and that I condemn it. I have no fear. In the war I often stood face to face with death. Should my death, then I request, that you do not hang me but shoot me. I wish to fall by the bullets in the face of your soldiers with open, not banded eyes, as an honest soldier, for I stood in the war for my country as a soldier of the Communist International."

Only Communism, which has given to the Russian people a new life, life force and power, can and will also save Bulgaria and the whole Balkans by the creation of a free Federation of all the Balkan peoples; that is the aim for which I and my comrades are fighting."

Oppression, supplanting them by a Chicherin, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics stands as a steady and immutably true friend of the peoples of the east, with a policy toward these peoples that has nothing to commend it but its own self-interest.

As this proves, remarks the speaker, what a change has been undergone in the relations between the awakened east and the imperialistic powers. On the other hand, concludes
