GREEN SEEKS ALIBI FOR GIVING EDDY FLOOR AT A. F. OF L. MEET

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10. - Five officials of the American Federation of Labor were addressing audiences in local churches today, as the guests of dollar-subsidized religion, while the bitter controversy still raged as to whether Dr. Sherwood Eddy, international secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, had broken away from an alleged gag that President Green claims was imposed upon him here last Thursday before he was allowed to take the platform and tell of his recent trip to Europe, which included a visit to the Union of Soviet Republics.

Open Shops Relent-A Little

Altho the local Y. M. C. A. was closed against President Green, hardboiled capitalism locally relented sufficiently to make it possible for Green, Frank L. Morrison, secretary of the A. F. of L.; John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor: Robert M. Fechner, of the Machinists' Union; and James Wilson, of the patternmakers, to address audiences in churches. Even two addresses by Albert F. Coyle, of the Locomotive Engineers' Journal, before two churches were announced to the A. Free Speech, But Not Too Free! While enjoying this semblance of ree speech at the hands of the employers' religion, the A. F. of L. officials continue to let loose new atacks against Eddy's attempt to tell the delegates a little of the truth about the Soviet Union.

President Green still persists that ne merely invited Eddy to address the convention on the cormer's ouster from the Y. M. C. A. because it had eceived huge sums of money for its building program from open shop inerests and did not want to endanger these sources of income,

Contributions to the Y. M. C. A. building fund made public today inlude the following: Henry Ford, 700,000; Edsel Ford, $750,000; Fisher crothers (auto body manufacturers), 500,000; S. S. "Progressive Shortening" Sole Demand

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL. (Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10 .- Vice Presidents James Duncan and Matthew Woll are whipping together the report of the resolutions committee that goes to the American Federation of Labor convention here today as a special order of business at the opening of the afternoon's session.

Chief among the resolutions are those demanding recognition of the Union of Soviet Republics, opposing the league of nations, the world court and the so-called international labor office attached to the league, seeking an investigation of the latest developments in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, attacking race discrimination in the unions, opposing Citizena' Military Training Camps and rejecting the fas-

General Secretary, Workers (Communist) Party. As this statement is written the full returns of the appeal to raise $5,000 of the $50,000 Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund during the past week are not all in. The remittances on Monday will show how near to the $5,000 total the contributions ran. We can say now, however, that the response made during the week together with the funds that will reach The DAILY WORKER Monday, have made it possible to meet the urgent debts due on Monday and save the situation for another week.

But this has not put The DAILY WORKER out of danger. We told the party and the sympathizers with its work at the beginning of the campaign that $10,000 must be raised within two weeks to carry The DAILY WORKER thru. Our campaign, however, has been slow in getting under way. The total thus far has been:

Sept. 18-First week	339.50
Sept. 25-Second week	512.10
Oct. 25-Third week	1,360.53
Oot. 4-Monday	135.00

Oct. 5-Tuesday ... Oct. 6-Wednesday Oct. 7-Thursday ... Oct. 8-Friday ... 314.05 Oct. 9 Saturday $3,838.88

if Monday's estimate is fulfilled we will still be short $5,000 of the first $10,000. Because of the slow returns at the beginning of the campaign, The DAILY WORKER has been obliged to postpone obligations which were already long overdue. These have now accumulated so that the real crisis for The DAILY WORKER will come during the present week.

Estimated for Monday, Oct. 11

We cannot postpone meeting the pressing obligations of The DAILY WORKER any longer. We have exhausted the possibilities of doing that.

THIS FRANK STATEMENT OF THE SITUATION OF THE DAILY WORKER IS MADE TO THE PARTY MEMBERS

AND SYMPATHIZERS TO SHOW THE NEED OF PUSHING THE WORK OF COLLECTING THE KEEP THE DAILY WORKER FUND WITH EVEN GREATER ENERGY.

ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 18, AT THE LATEST, WE MUST REACH THE $10,000 MARK IN ORDER TO PULL THROUGH.

That means that the pace at which the collections and contributions are made must increase during this week at even a greater ratio than during last week. LET US WRITE A VICTORY FOR OUR MOVEMENT THRU THE RAISING OF THE FIRST TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS. LET US SHOW THAT OUR PARTY IS ALIVE TO ITS RESPONSIBILITIES AND ABLE TO MEET THEM BY PUSHING THE TOTAL TO $10,000 THIS WEEK.

SPECIAL FORD NUMBER SOLD OUT AT PLANT

Workers Buy 2,000 Like Hot Cakes

By LENA ROSENBERG.

(Special to The Daily Worker)
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10.—Two thousand copies of the special Ford editon of The DAILY WORKER dated Oct. 7 were sold like hot cakes to the workers in the Ford Highland Park plant. The previous record for sales of the paper at this plant was 125 copies.

A week had passed since the Ford announcement of the five-day week. When the special edition was announced we in Detroit wondered how those who worked for such a "benevolent" boss would receive it. Great Surprise.

At 2 p. m. last Thursday we took our places at the gates with the 2,000 copies, not expecting even to sell 1,000 But to our great surprise, more than at any other time in our experience, workers were taking a great interest in the paper and buying it as fast as we could make the change. This proved to us that the workers in the Ford plant are not being taken in by the five-day week stuff and that The Ford Worker, the Communist bulletin in the shop, is having its effect. All Sold.

To Begin or Not Begin. Delegate James Duncan came to the battle line with an amendment asking that the word "continue" be inserted for "begin," declaring that the A. F. of L. had always fought for the shorter workday. He denounced some of Frey's statistics. Frey came back with the declaration that he didn't mean to "begin" the fight for the shorter workday, but that he wanted to begin to gather material about increased per capita production, a new phase of this struggle.

Duncan denounced "Bethlehem" and "Lawrence" as two industrial spots where the lowest wages are paid under the highest tariff.

Delegate James Lynch, also of the nell had shed over the workers in the auto industry, especially the man who works on Screw No. 999.

"I do not believe that Henry Ford himself could eliminate this process from specialized industry," said Lynch.

"Our task is to remedy the fatigue and the atrophy that develops as a result of the repetitive process in industry."

He declared this could only be done by the shorter workday and the shorter work-week, giving the worker an opportunity to get the poison out of his system and recuperate for the new week's labors. President Green also spoke, worrying about what the worker would do duirng his leisure time. No Real Fight.

It often entered tained indefinitely, the union has anas an uninvited guest. It was never nounced after tabulation of incoming welcome.

Further impetus was received at a meeting of representatives of local trade union bodies at the International Auditorium, 3 West 16th street. The meeting was called for the purpose of effectively combatting the injunction against the striking cloakmakers, and also took measures to aid

Settled Shops Make Up Half.

From one source alone, the levy upon workers in settled shops, there are obtained funds to meet half the strike benefits of the men and women still on the picket line. The strike benefits of $7 and $10 weekly for single and married men and women, respectively, average $150,000. At a stirring meeting in Cooper Union of workers employed in shops that have already acceded to the union terms, assessments upon them were voluntarily increased from 15 to 20 per cent of their weekly wages. This will automatically bring into the union treasury $75,000 per week to meet half the total strike benefits.

In addition to voting 20 per cent of their weekly wages to support their fellow workers still on strike, 10,000 cloakmakers at work have already given the union an additional one day's pay, the total sums obtained from both sources being $150,000. While this additional day's pay is not a regular donation, it is expected to be forthcoming voluntarily whenever the finances of the striking cloakmakers require it.

The gangster usually has a one hundred per cent spot in his jeans and everybody goes his way.

So there are reasons why the police are averse to seeing the gangsters slaughter each other. Recently a peace conference between the rival gangsters took place. Besides the plenipotentiaries from both sides there were present a policeman and a big politician. The conference was no more successful than the last meeting of the league of nations. One side wanted the heads of two members of the rival gang. This concession was not granted, so the meeting adjourned. 'We'll meet in the morgue," they observed playfully and departed. The T. B. test for cattle has been proven to be a fraud by the Farmers' Protective Association of Pennsylvania. Louis Creamer, head of the above mentioned organization, at a spirited meeting and picnic of the F. P. A., where there were over 5,000 farmers who came from a radius of 50 miles around to Rocky Springs in Lancaster County on the 11th of September, told his fellow-farmers that the T. B. test for cattle was a move on the part of the big milk combines to drive the small milk dealers off the market and kill off the farmers' herds, thereby making a shortage of milk and giving them should see the milk-water-like-20 affects first of all and mostly England. the control of the milk market. WORKERS' SCHOOL PUTS STRESS ON ENGLISH CLASS

Special Text Books Are Being Prepared

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 .- An imporyear will be its classes in English. There will be classes in Elementary, The meeting starts at 8 p. m. Intermediate, Advanced English and in Public Speaking.

Such well-known English teachers as Carl Brodsky, Eli Jacobson, Sonia Ginsburg, Ray Bennet, Max Rock Sonia Waldey, Pauline Rogers and Sonia Winett will be the instructors. Classes will be limited in size to twenty-five thus making it possible for each student to receive more individual instruction.

Evening Classes.

As many evening classes as are needed will be formed as well as an English class in the day time for night workers. From registrations already handed in, three elementary, two in termediate, one advanced English and one public speaking classes have been formed. Each class will have two sessions a week, each session be ing 1 hour and 15 minutes long. For eign-speaking comrades and workers who wish to concentrate this year on English can do so by registering for two English classes.

Special Textbooks.

An interesting feature of the English classes this year will be the use of two new textbooks being prepared by the Workers' School. For years the workers and foreigners in this country have lacked a simple and interesting book that could be used as a basis for their learning how to read, how to express themselves, to spell and write correctly and yet not be full of capitalist propaganda and childish, non sensical and dry in its nature. Themes based on the life of workers, containing vocabulary that workers must use, are the center around which the different lessons are based.

The instructors of English in the Workers' School, unlike those in the public or private schools, who are either hostile or indifferent to the struggle of the workers, are themselves members of the Workers (Com munist) Party and a part of the labor movement and therefore interested in helping the students as much as pos

Foreigners Should Enroll.

Every foreign-speaking worker who wishes to do his share of work in the American labor movement, and every foreign-speaking member of the Workers (Communist) Party should register for and take a class in English in the Workers' School. All English classes start the week of October 25.

Register today at the Workers' School headquarters, 108 East Street, Room 35. For further information on the school, write to Ber tram D. Wolfe, director at the same

Michigan District Convention Adopts Election Platform

DETROIT, Oct. 10.-The Michigan state convention of the Workers' Party was held in Detroit Saturday, Oct. 2, with delegates representing Wayne, Oakland, Kent, Genessee, Muskegon and Saginaw counties. The convention adopted the following platform:

Revision of workmen's compensation, workers injured in industrial accidents to be paid compensation equal to their wages; against the use of injunctions in labor disputes; all public work to be done by union labor; repeal of criminal syndicalism act; abolition of the state police; rigid enforcement of safety laws; for amendment to the United States constitution prohibiting child labor against exploitation of prison labor; unemployment compensation; repeal of the 18th amendment; nationalization of the coal and iron mines and the other natural resources; nationalization of the railroads and means of transportation; for the McNary-Haugen bill providing relief for farmers.

The following candidates were nominated for the state offices for the coming election:

Governor, William Reynolds; secre tary of state, Sarah Victor; state treasurer, Arnold Zeigler; attorney general, Cyril Lambkin; auditor gen eral, Aaron M. Katz. Mass meetings have been arranged in five different cities and noon-day meetings in front of the factories. The delegates to the convention were certain that thousands of workers would be reached with the Workers' Party propaganda and would register and vote for the Workers' Party candi-

Urges Organization to Bring Druggists From Slave Condition

By a Worker Correspondent. Oct. 10 to Oct. 20 has been set aside s pharmacy week. Pharmacy week was inaugurated by one of the big wholesale drug supply houses, Johnson & Johnson. During this week, and before, millions will be spent in advertising, extolling the characters of the neighborhood druggists.

It will be pointed out that the druggist is one who has spent much time and money in learning his trade, and that the public should think more of them and patronize them more.

But they will not point out the slave conditions under which the druggist works. They work for a measly wage and are forced to work hours longer than those engaged in other trades. The average druggist must work nine hours a day, Sundays, holidays, late at night, and receive about 50 cents an hour for his labor.

The young boys who work in the stores are even more exploited. Many work six or even seven hours a day after school for $5 a week. I know of one, 13 years old, who works for

$2.50 a week. If a druggist doesn't like his job and quits there are many others waiting to take his job, so the boss doesn't

Black Jack Jerome, was mentioned at every session, and when the convention was over, the name Black Jack Jerome was still ringing in my ears. 'Who is Black Jack Jerome?

McDonald the president of the Building Trades Council of California, explained and described the notorious character.

Black Jack Jerome resides in San Francisco. He is the heart and soul of the chamber of commerce, the minion of the Industrial Builders* Association.

Black Jack Jerome is the blood ound of the exploiters against organized labor; during the carpenters strike, which is still in progress, he organized a gang of underworld characters, equipped them with shot guns and were attacking the strikers.

Many victims have fallen by his orders. One of the strikers was killed on his way home at his own stairway. These violences were carried on until McDonald went to the mayor and warned him that unless the Black Jack Jerome band be denied the right to carry guns the strikers will arm themselves and meet violence with violence.

When Black Jack Jerome had seen that the mayor was not too anxious to cooperate he organized a citizens committee of one hundred who offered their aid to the city authorities to stop the violence committed by the strikers.

not Black Jack Jerome nor the citizens committee of one hundred would be able to crush the carpenter strike in order to introduce the American Plan Company Union within the building trades.

However, McDonald, exclaimed that

McDonald has also denounced the Supreme Court of the United States branding it as a tool of the California Builders' Association.

His speach was a ringing message which heralded in the hearts of four hundred delegates representing a hundred thousand organized workers throughout the state of California.

Workers' Cooperatives in the U. S. S. R.

Prior to the revolution the workworkers' cooperatives have developed ers' cooperative movement was in an to such an extent that they have comembryonic state and represented a pletely replaced all private trade negligible quantity, both from the point of view of membership and business turn-over.

Since then the movement has developed on a large scale. Thus on Oct. 1, 1925, the workers' cooperatives had a membership of 3,666,703. This does not include the transport (the transport section has an autonomous standing) which on that date had a membership of 1,025,560 (including temporary workers.)

The total number of workers affiliated to the movement was therefore 4,692,263. The total trade union membership at that time was 7,800,000 (in round numbers); so that the percentage of trade-unionists organized in the cooperatives was 59.8. In the more ger of lumber companies involving 70 industrial regions the percentage was the Central Labor Section attached to much higher.

The share capital of the workers' at the end of last year was nearly age to a little over 4 rubles each. On January 1, 1926, there was a total of 1,461 primary cooperatives with 13,044 stores in the country em- lidge continues to maintain federal ploying 92,580 persons (exclusive of judges Ritchie and Reed and Dist. industrial establishments).

An interesting question is how big a percentage of the workers' purchases is made thru the cooperatives. Here the picture varies in different parts of the country. In many of the industrial centers, for instance, the percentage is as high as 70 and 80, sometimes even going up to 100 per cent. In the less industrial sections

The Coal Miners—Shock Troops of the British Workingclass

The stern struggle of the British miners challenges the admiration of every working man and woman in the world.

After five months and a half of battle with starvation gnawing at the vitals of the miners and their families, these workers hurl back the lies of the capitalist class, the capitalist press and the treacherous reformist leadership by voting to pull out the maintenance men and continue the strike.

The vote of 767,000 to 42,000 for these propositions nails fast the lie that the miners are breaking ranks and going back to work in any considerable numbers.

That this action was taken after the Bournemouth Trade Union Congress, dominated by the same officials who deserted the miners, had refused to allow the question of the general strike or the miners' strike to be discussed, is doubly significant.

It means that the miners realize their responsibility to the rank and file of the labor movement, realize that they are the shock troops of the British working class and are going to fight without thought of surrender. The miners ask no quarter.

This unshakable determination of the miners changes the situation. British capitalism has staked all on a quick defeat of this workers' offensive. But the British ruling class and their agents in the labor movement underestimated the fighting spirit and the endurance of the coal diggers, their wives and children.

Last week the news came that 400 textile mills have reduced their working schedule to one week in three. Coal and other fuel is being rationed. Heavy industry is paying suicidal prices for coal. British coal markets are passing into the hands of German and American coal concerns.

In other British markets the customers refuse to wait longer for the commodities whose manufacture has been held up by the

Now it will be told. Because in the G. O. P. of Indiana, there are worthy persons whose needs have not been satisfied. No matter how susceptible graft may be to the spreading-out process, there is a limit, and so the murder is coming out.

Concisely, the present government of Indiana owes its existence to that infernal organization known as the ku klux klan. Stephenson, head of the K. K. K. at the time the present government got into power, is now serving a life term in prison for murdering a girl he had previously raped. The beneficiaries of Stephenson's klan influence are now willing that the ex-dragon should stew in his own & juice. But unfortunately for the present officialdom, Stephenson was able to get in touch with a number of dissatisfied persons, with the result that some of the truth is being told and the governor of constitution and by-laws of his union. Indiana and the prosecutor are beating a retreat to shelter.

The K. K. represents fundamentally the rotting heart of cap-upon this proposal as a method of italism. It is based on graft and corruption, just as capitalism is based on robbery. Klanism is passing, for the time being. But the necessity of such procedure when they mental types that fall for kluxism are the types that get excited were at grips with one of the most over a Coolidge interview on the value of religion.

CHAPTER XI THE REBEL

At Southern Pacific University the class lines were tacitly but effectively drawn, and in the ordinary course of events a man of Bunny's wealth, good looks and good manners, would have associated only with members of fraternities and sororities. If some Negro boy were to develop eloquence as a debater, or if some one taking a course in millinery or plumbing were to display fleetness as a hurdler, the hurdler might hurdle and the debater might debate, but they would not be invited to tea-parties or dances, nor be elected to prominence in the student organizations; such honors were reserved for tall Anglo-Saxons having regular features, and hair plastered straight back from their foreheads, and trousers pressed to a knife edge and never worn two

But here was Bunny Ross, persisting in fooling with "dangerous thoughts," that made his friends angry. Of course, as anyone would have foreseen, there were "roughnecks" and 'goats," anxious to break in where they were not wanted, and perfectly willing to pretend to think that our country ought not to intervene in Russia, if by so professing they could get to know one of the socially elite. So Bunny found himself on talking terms with various queer fish. For example, there was Peter Nagle, whose father was president of a "rationalist society," and who seemed to have one dominating desire in life-to blurt out in class that what was the matter with the world was superstition, and that mankind could never progress until they stopped believing in God. In a university all of whose faculty were required to be devout Methodists, you can imagine how popular this made him. Peter looked just as you would expect such a boor to look, with a large square head and a wide mouth full of teeth and a shock of yellow hair which he allowed to straggle round his ears and drop white specks onto his coat collar-his coat did not match his trousers, and he brought his lunch to the university tied

And then there was Gregor Nikoliaeff. Gregor was all right. when you got to know him, but the trouble was, it was hard to know him, because his accent was peculiar and at critical moments in his talk he would forget the English word. He had jet black hair, and black eyes with a sombre frown above themin short, he was the very picture of what the students called a Chicago Federation of Labor spoke to "Bolsheviki." As it happened, Gregor's father had belonged to one of the revolutionary parties whom the Bolsheviks were now sending to jail; but how could you explain that to a student body which dumped into one common garbage-can Socialists and Communists and Syndicalists and Anarchists, Communist-Anarchists and Anarchist-Syndicalists, Social Revolutionaries and Social Democrats, Populists, Progressives, Single-Taxers, Nonpartisan Leaguers, Pacifists, Pragamtists, Altruists, Vegetarians, Anti-vivisectionists and opponents of capital punishment.

Also there was Rachel Menzies, who belonged to a people that had been chosen by the Lord, but not by the aforesaid student body. Rachel was rather good-looking, though in a dark, foreign way; she was short—what feminine enemies would have called "dumpy"—and made no pretense at finery, but came to the university in black cotton stockings and a shirt-waist that did not match her skirt. There was a rumor that her father worked in a clothing factory, and her brother was pressing students' pants for an education.

And here was the discoverer and heir-apparent of the Ross The courageous struggle of the miners has accelerated the cooperation, is incapable of appealing to these workers who, when they entered to the elimination from the resolution of the miners has accelerated the cooperation, is incapable of appealing to the elimination from the resolution of the miners has accelerated the cooperation. I not want to and cannot organize excusing himself by saying that they believed in "free speech." As if it were not obvious that they would, having everything to gain and nothing to lose! Proletarians of all universities unite!

Poor Bunny got it from both sides. "Look here," said Donald Burns, president of the sophomore class, "don't you introduce met to any more of your Yid fairies." And then, "Look here," said Rachel Menzies, "don't you introduce me to any more of your male fashion-plates." Bunny protested, he had the idea that all kinds of people ought to know one another; but Rachel informed him that she thought too much of herself. "Probably you've never been snubbed in your life, Mr. Ross, but we Jews learn the lesson early in our lives-not to go where we aren't

Said Bunny, "But Miss Menzies, if you believe in ideas, you've got to teach people-

"Thank you," she said; "I believe in my ideas, but not enough to teach Donald Burns."

'But how can you tell?" Bunny protested. "You're teaching me, and I don't belong to the working class." He had learned that this girl was a member of the Socialist party, and it was 'class consciousness," as well as Jewish consciousness.

Rachel insisted that Bunny was one person in a million capable of believing what was contrary to his economic interests. But Bunny had no awareness of anything extraordinary about himself. Instead of being a conspicious and shining leader, as his high destiny directed, he was always looking for some one he could lean to, some one who was positive, and whom he could trust. He found some of this in Henrietta Ashleigh, who knew exactly what was proper; and he found some more of it in Rachel Menzies, who knew exactly what was true, and said it with energy and frankness that were like flashes of lighting in the twilight of Southern Pacific culture.

The only trouble was, the contradiction between his two authorities; it appeared almost as if what was true was not proper and what was proper was not true! For Henrietta considered Rachel an impossible person, and was cold as a corpse in her presence; while Rachel's idea of being insulting was to tell Bunny that it was with Henrietta he really belonged, his Creator had made him to take her to church.
