"Elevator" Apartments in Harlem—on Eighth Ave.; Tenants Live Next to IRT

Negro Workers Have Markets at Their Door-steps; Plenty of Noise

NOTE:-This is the fourth of a series of articles appearing exclusively in the Daily Worker exposing housing conditions in Harlem. The previous articles have described the vile conditions under which Negro workers, both on the east and west side, are forced to live. The present article deals with some apartments

By SOL AUERBACH.

THERE are "elevator" apartments in Harlem, too. These elevators rush along the streets past the second stories of the tenements on

The elevated trains roar over the Eighth Avenue tracks, shooting dust and grime into the windows of the tenements, leaving a black coat over the house-fronts.

The dirt from the road-bed also comes down in plentiful showers on the rows of stands making up the open market that sprawls along Eighth Avenue up above 138th Street. Fruits, vegetables, fish are all doused with good supply of dirt before they find their way into the kitchens behind the sooty fronts.

What a Playground.

When the weather becomes hotter, flies buzz around the stands and insects, carrying disease germs, add their deadly work to the elevator dirt. In the evenings, after a day of busy marketing, the street looks like a dump, with refuse and papers piled ankle high.

Imagine what a fine "playground" this is for the children, or what a fine boulevard this Eighth Avenue is for workers and their wives, after a day's work, for taking a little stroll in a summer evening! Quite different than for those "tenants" living on Riverside Drive, who have a river and a park all to themselves. Compare this Eighth Avenue with Grammercy Park in the center of the city, which is carefully locked except for the nurses of those delicate little children who have the keys to the gates. You need no key to get into Eighth Avenue. You must be a (Continued on Page Three)

Truth About the Soviet Union Must Be Published! bar (reactionary), about 3,000 men,

THE authors of the two novels, "Cement" and "The Red Napoleon," are typical of the countries from which they come. Feodor Vasilievich Gladkov, the author of "Cement," depicting life in the Soviet Union as it is, was born in 1883, in the village of Chernavka, province of Saratov, district of Petrovsk, a member of a family of poor peasants. He suffered many years imprisonment for his revoutionary activities and finally took part in the Great Revolution that established the Soviet Power. Floyd Gibbons, the author of "The Red Napoleon." that seeks to provocate war against the Soviet Union, sprang from the petty bourgeoisie of the middle western United States, was cradled in the lap of capitalist journalism as it is known in the editorial offices of the Chicago Tribune, blossoming into a war correspondent of Wall Street imperialism. On the one hand, Gladkov, seeking to interpret the life of workers and peasants in the Soviet Union, building the new social order, on the other, Gibbons, the intellectual serf of capitalist journalism, fighting against the Soviet Union with all the power possessed by poisoned propaganda featured in a publication with a huge circulation. Gladkov writes of his own experiences as follows:

"The first murmurs of the revolution (1905) began to sound. Instead of Moscow, I went to Tiflis, where I entered the Normal School. At the end of six months, I passed my examination as a day-scholar. I became initiated at this time, into revolutionary activity. I went to Kuban. There I was active among the socialdemocratic groups. Sought by the authorities, I took flight to Transbaikalia, where I fell into the hands of the police.

"Result: three years' exile on the banks of the Lena. Then I returned to Kuban, where, as a Communist, I took part in the Civil War from beginning to end."

The fiction serial, "The Red Napoleon" is now being published in the weekly magazine, "Liberty." It is spreading its vicious untruths about the Soviet Union.

The truth as Gladkov writes it in his book "Cement" must be spread through the Daily Worker. We announced yesterday that the publication of this book serially in the Daily Worker would be possible if sufficient subscriptions would be received in our present drive for new readers, to enable us to put aside sufficient funds to meet the cost of translation and the privileges of publication. We leave it up to our readers. Shall the novel, "Cement" be published serially in the Daily Worker as a powerful reply to the "Liberty's" provocative Anti-Soviet serial? We will watch the subscriptions that roll in from day to day for the answer.

CALHOUN SHOWS UP MUSTE FAKE 'PROGRESSIVES'

'Follow Communists,' Says Brookwood Man

KATONAH, N. Y., April 5 (By Mail).—Arthur W. Calhoun, a member of the faculty of Brookwood College, in his speech at the students' forum, on the new "progressive" or Muste movement pointed out he is opposed to it because of its make up of social democratic centrism. It will evidently be a bulwark of the capitalist class, he said, as for example the socialist parties' role during the world war and after.

Calhoun analyzed the German so-cialist party's joining the war, and said today that they are boasting about the fact that they prevented the German workers from setting up the dictatorship of the proletariat. The role played by Ramsay Mac-Donald is similar now, he said, in Great Britain.

All Discredited.

"If we turn to the American labor movement," said Calhoun, "we see that most of the progressives are the socialists, who are tools in the hands of the reactionary leaders of the A. F. of L. to break the most militant unions. Now these progressives speak of organizing the unorganized, and militant action. Workers on Bengal State Railways Walk Out as India Strike Movement Spreads

LAND LABORERS QUIT TOO DESPITE OFFICIAL TERROR

DELHI, India, April 10 .- Reports have been received here that the strike movement in Bombay is spreading in spite of police persecution of the workers' leaders, the jailing of the most active and the repeated raids on trade union head-

Groups of railway workers on the Bengal State Railways are the latest to join the strike of the 20,-000 textile workers at the Tata plant, who walked out at the outset of the British terror and who are

The railway workers are aroused over the arrest of Joglekar, the head of the powerful railwaymen's union, who was seized in Calcutta early in the Anglo-Indian raids and is still in prison.

In the Shabad district the land workers have also gone on strike, and the British government is alarmed at the prospect of the strike spreading among the Indian peasant masses.

500 Join Youth League.

DELHI, India, April 10 .- At a great meeting of the Youth League in Allahabad 500 new members were enrolled in that city alone. The response of the working class and peasant youth follows the wholesale arrests of workers and peasant leaders which the Anglo-Indian government is carrying on.

Under the chairmanship of Javahar Lal Nehru, the Youth League authorized its executive committee to take all necessary steps to defend Puran Chandra Joshi, secretary of the Workers and Peasants Party of the United Provinces. Joshi was arrested in Allahabad and jailed during the recent Red raids.

The meeting also adopted unanimously a resolution protesting against the campaign of governmental terror aimed at crushing the workers' and peasants' movement in Appeal for India Workers.

BERLIN, Germany, April 10 .- In reply to the mass terror which the Anglo-Indian government is carrying on against the Indian workers and peasants, the International Secretariat of the League Against Imperialism has issued an appeal to all Anti-Imperialist League and trade union groups throughout the world to join in one great anti-im-perialist front to aid the Indian workers and peasants.

"Meetings and demonstrations must be organized in the great cities!" the appeal states. "Collections must be taken up in behalf of the victims of the imperialist terror in India. The terrorism of the British imperialists must be exposed in a great press campaign."

Negro Workers Have I. R. T. tor a Neighbor in Harlem

Tenants Intimidated.

THE landlords have carried on an organized campaign of intimidation against Harlem tenants, and nowhere was this so evident as in some of the tenements on Eighth Avenue.

At 2666 Eighth Avenue none of the tenants, except one, would speak. They were afraid that we were landlord's agents sent to feel around and see if the ground was ripe for another rent raise.

The tenants we did get to speak, a laborer on a subway construction gang,-his name must not be mentioned-had just moved in and had accepted a rent raise over the old tenants from the very begin-We got to Tom Z. only after stumbling thru a dark and dirty entrance hall, falling over our feet in the dark corridors and knocking at many doors. In answer to our inquiries one woman said she was not at home, another that she was not the lady who lived there, and so on. They were evidently afraid.

At Mercy of Landlords.

As a rule old tenants live in fear of a rent raise. The policy of the landlords is not to have a uniform rental in any one house. One tenant pays $35, another pays $37, still another pays $40. When a new tenant comes he must pay the highest of them all. In this way rents are constantly kept on the upgrade, and the tenants are obsolutely at the mercy of the landlords.

Finally we succeeded in reaching Tom, his wife and three children in their apartment of four small, unaired rooms, stuck away at the end of a dark corridor.

For these small four rooms, with the added entertainment of the elevator wheels and the buzzing of the flies, Tom pays $45 a month. He moved in last June and since then has been raised $5.

How Does He Provide?

You can picture the interior of this tenement and the apartment from what we have told you before. The same rotten conditions of walls and floors, old and defective plumbing, very little ventilation and air. The only difference is that you must speak a little louder when a train rumbles by.

Tom works on subway construction. His employment is irregular. When he works he makes 80 cents an hour, but is usually employed only part time. He averages about $28 per week.

Out of this sum he must provide for his wife and three children and pay the enormous rental of $45.

Dumbwaiter Slop-Cans.

AT 2658 Eighth Avenue on the fourth floor, overlooking the wide expanse of elevator tracks, we found Mr. Q. He also pays $45 for his to feed the Bahutis. flat and the condition of the house is about the same. He has two children and works as a street-paver for the city.

When he works he makes 97c per hour. The work is very irregular. His stomach depends on the weather. When it rains for a whole week he has nothing to bring home. During the last 10 months he has averaged about between $25 and $30 a week.

Here, too, the garbage is thrown down the dumbwaiter by the tenants because the dumbwaiter has needed repairs for years. This causes a smell around the house at all times, especially in the summer, and attracks plenty of rats and vermin.

These are the Harlem "elevator" apartments. There are many like them. Negro workers, making even less then the two we have introduced you to, live here with their wives and families, intimidated by the landlords-Negro and white-having as intimate neighbors the I. R. T. and the avenue market.

The Daily Worker, as the Leader of the Mill Strikers, Feared by Textile Barons

AS a leader of the struggles of the textile workers of the South for a living wage and decent conditions, the Daily Worker badly scared the mill barons of Gastonia. N. C., where thousands of textile workers have gone on strike against their slavery.

The splendid solidarity of the strikers proved so great a surprise to the mill owners that they were forced to resort to the circulation of lying circulars, slandering the strike leaders, attempting to intimidate the strikers, by hints at a reign of terror to come.

But all to no result.

One of these vicious bombasts of the mill magnates in particular showed how the Daily Worker has become known as a champion of the struggles of all workers, even recognized as such by the bosses. It reads in part:

'Those of you we consider reliable may return to work by Wednesday noon, April 10."

The strikers just laughed at this. It further reads:

"To all others using our houses, we must respectfully request that you arrange at once to let us have the same at the earliest possible moment."

The strikers' determined defiance was the reply to this threat to evict them from their homes.

Now read this:

"And so we put an end to a subscription drive to a small newspaper in New York City, the Daily Worker."

The Daily Worker, giving full publicity to the strike of the southern mill workers, and urging them on in their struggles, has thus riled the mill bosses. Stung by the eagerness with which the strikers have received the Daily, they have resorted to this lie, about having put an end to the Daily's subscription drive.

Workers, the Daily Worker is in the vanguard of the struggles of the textile workers. It has always been, and will always be, in the vanguard of the struggles of the workers in every industry.

Spread the Daily Worker, so that it may reach all of the workers in every shop. Do your part in the drive to double the number of readers of the Daily Worker. Subscribe now, and get your shopmate to buy the Daily.

CAFETERIA STRIKERS DETERMINED

(By a Worker Correspondent) A few weeks ago I came from Homestead, Pa., where I worked in the Cafeteria of the Carnegie Steel Mills, to look for work in this town.

I had the address of a friend and fellow worker and I did not miss a minute to meet him in his working place. What a surprise and every kind of decorations; I couldn't believe this was called a cafeteria, immediately I ask him if there is any chance to get work in this heavenly place where everything smiles at you.

He glanced at me with pity and with his right hand pressing on mine he wiped off the sweat from his face with the elbow of his left smiling, he said: "Have patience and you will share this hell, too."

He spoke to the boss and I got a job on the hot dishes counter. My friend tried to help me out so I would not get stuck during the noon rush.

FILTHY KITCHENS

(By a Worker Correspondent.) I, a girl out of work 10 weeks, went to a Sixth Ave. employment agency. They sent me to a job as waitress for which I paid $3. I spent my fare and over an hour's time, which I could ill afford, being out of work so long.

The proprietor, Davis, on 27th Street, said he needed no one, for he had no girls in his employment for two years. I came back for my money from the agency, and was nearly thrown out on the street.

Another time, they tried to send me to a speakeasy on the East Side. They often took my money, and sent me out to places that do not exist. The other day they sent us to a place at 48 E. 29th St., from an employment agency on 49th St. We walked there, to find no such place existed.

Mary Adams will lead discussion on "The Negro Problem in America" at the educational meeting of Unit 5F, 2C, at 6:30 tonight.

Of the two new strikes, the Barlin Shoe Co., 79 Bridge St., Brooklyn, had its production halted yesterday when the crew of 60 walked out demanding decent living standards and recognition of the union. The entire crew of 100 closed down the Welset Shoe plant at 599 Broadway by striking.

After all the elaborate preparations for recruiting strikebreakers, made by the Griffin and White and Arthur Bender firms, only about six scabs are at work for the latter company. Out-of-town workers, imported by the scab agency in the Broadway Central Hotel here, demanded and got their fare back when they saw a strike was in progress.

Energetic picketing is being carried on at the two above-mentioned shops, as well as at the Morgan-Grossman Co. and Lipp Shoe Co. The workers are determined to stick till-like thousands of other workers-they gain union standards and a permanent fighting organization to help them.

The Drive to Build the Party.

The basic organizational task of our Party is to sink its roots deep in the ranks of the workers in the heavy industries. This is the main feature of the orientation of the Party completely towards the factories and the reorganization of the Party completely on the basis of factory nuclei. This inevitably widens the base of the Party among the native-born and the Negro workers, while at the same time retaining its position among the revolutionary immigrant workers.

These ambitions of our Party are stressed in the Party Building Drive announced by the Central Committee in its statement to the Party membership published in yesterday's issue of the Daily Worker. Every member and sympathizer should carefully study this declaration framed on the line of the Open Letter addressed by the Communist International to the Sixth Congress of our Party and issued with the slogan, "For the Line of the Open Letter! For the Strengthening of the Party!"

In a Bolshevik Party every member is an active member. The call for the Party Building Drive, April 15th to June 15th, provides important tasks for all. There is no room here for slackers. In fact, the whole conduct of the drive will reveal the inactive members of the Party, and these will be dealt with accordingly.

The growing imminence of the war danger specifically demands the carrying out of such slogans as, Fight the right danger! Every factory our fortress! Build factory nuclei! Activize and politicalize the factory nuclei! Improve the social composition of the Party! To build up and proletarianize the leading committees of the Party!

It is only when the entire membership clearly understands the line and the concrete aims of the Open Letter, that it will be possible to go forward correctly and successfully with the task of recruiting 5,000 new members, establishing 100 additional factory nuclei, bringing forth 35 additional factory papers, securing additional thousands of readers for our Party's Central Organ, the Daily Worker, and increasing the circulation and influence of the entire

The Party Building Drive demands the immediate and concentrated attention of every Party member for the two months designated.

The Froth of "the 5-Cent Victory."

The Sun sounds a discordant note in discussing the time "when the froth of the 5-cent victory evaporates." It recalls that the "poverty-pleading" Interborough has failed to provide proper service in the past, and that the Transit Commission will not be able to force it now.

This may be taken as the republican viewpoint of the excitement over traction developments. The democrats have analyzed the froth and predict the overwhelming re-election of Mayor James J. Walker. The candidacy of John F. Hylan, former mayor, is immediately stricken.

Thus both the capitalist parties are trying to make political capital out of the supreme court decision in Washington that didn't decide anything. Even the World (democrat) refers to "the point on which the decision turned, that of the timeliness of seeking federal intervention." The federal (U. S.) courts held that the 5-cent fare decision was out of their jurisdiction, at least for the present, that it is a matter | ception was the strike of the Seafor consideration by the Transit Commission and the state (N. Y.) courts.

It may clearly be taken for granted that the courts found this an easy way to dodge a decision in the face of the rapidly approaching municipal elections. The supreme court is republican. A 7-cent fare decision would have crucified any republican candidate. So the court simply passed the buck back to the lower courts. There is no decision and both parties will again claim to be "the friends of the people," while the sardine packing industry flourishes as ever in the subway depths, and the straphangers, nearly all workers, continue to be afflicted with all the evils hitherto prevailing.

The Communist Party will have its candidates in the field for the municipal elections, fighting for the only working class program that will be offered. It may be worth mentioning that in Moscow, in the Soviet Union, the street car fare under the rule of the Workers' Soviets is four cents. The fare for workers in Moscow is two and a half cents. In Baku, in the metropolis of the Soviet oil fields, the oil workers ride free to and from their work on one of the most modern and comfortable traction systems in the world. These facts will not be pointed out by labor's betrayers directing the affairs of the New York Central Labor Union in the interests of Tammany Hall. But they will be pointed out by the Communist candidates. New York's workers will also be told, that while they are fighting the day-to-day battles with the traction trust and its creature, the city government, they must look ahead to the complete abolition of profit rule and the extermination of all profit takers. This will indeed be something more than blowing the froth not only off "the 5-cent fare victory," but off the two capitalist parties, and the social system for which they stand.

The Daily Worker yesterday told the story of "The Two Fifth Avenues" in New York City. There is the Fifth Ave. the English language papers in that goes through the working class district, cutting through a section of the Negro neighborhood in Harlem, densely populated, with ugly firetraps on every side. There is the "Fifth Avenue" of the fashionable rich, most of whom are away in Florida or Europe, with palatial mansions empty except for caretakers. In time the working class will move into exclusive "Fifth Avenue" so the rickety tenements now inhabited by them can be torn down and real "homes" built in their places. That will be a task of the revolution. In the meantime the profit-taking interests must be fought every inch of the way on this evil.

It is announced that the former vice-president, General Charles G. "Hell an' Maria" Dawes, has been appointed by President Hoover as ambassador to Great Britain, and has accepted. Wall Street could pick no better representative of its own interests.

Resume Two Marxist Classes at Workers School Next Week

The Principles of Marxism classes begun at the Workers School in February will again resume sessions the week of April 15, under Comrade Markoff. "Principles of Marxism I" (Monday's session) will begin Monday, April 15 at 7 p. m. "Principles of Marxism I" (Wednesday's session) will begin Wednesday, April 17 at 8:30. "Principles of Marxism II" will begin Wednesday, April 17 at 7 p. m. Comrades who have registered for these courses or who took the introductory session in February are requested to come to their classes next week.

Because all three classes have held only two introductory sessions the Workers School has opened up these classes to further registration. The "Principles of Marxism I" class will study "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific" by Engels; "Communist Manifesto" and "Wage, Labor and Capital" by Marx. The "Principles of Marxism II" class will make a thorough study of the French Revolution and Marx's "Class Struggles in France." The classes in "Principles of Marxism" are considered basic courses in the school and have been among the most popular for the past few years, D. Benjamin, school instructor, announces.

Paterson Workers Refuse to Starve Under . the Flags They Weave: 1,200 In the Paterson Pageant: Akron Strike

Haywood has told of his boyhood in the Rocky Mountain region, where, after working at many trades, he became a miner, quite young in life. He soon was convinced of the class struggle, and the need of labor organization, and never changed from this point of view. He took part in the early struggles of the Western Federation of Miners, was its secretary-treasurer during its period of greatest activity, joined the socialist party and went on its executive committee, was a prime mover in the organization fo the I. W. W. and fought misleaders of labor in all of these organizations. He was a brilliant strike leader, and describes strikes with a stark and moving simplicity, painting a swift and colorful picture of each labor struggle. In the last issue he was telling of the Paterson strike, led by the I. W. W., and by Haywood.

By WILLIAM D HAYWOOD.

DURING the strike the mill owners and flag manufacturers attempted a patriotic stunt like that pulled off at Lawrence. Here in Paterson the silk weavers and others who were on strike produced the flag cloth. They allowed the flag sentiment to get a fairly good hold. All the mills were bedecked with flags, some of the stores were decorated with the colors and "patriots" were wearing flags on their lapels. But the strikers were alive.

to the situation. One day in a big parade every striker and his family wore a flag under which was

"We weave the flag.

"We live under the flag. "We die under the flag.

"But damn'd if we'll starve under the flag." The patriotic wind raised by the manufacturers soon died down. The big flags that were flapping about in the wind and rain were removed and the flag waving became a mere incident of the strike.

The strikers of Paterson felt that "life without labor is robbery, labor without art is barbarity." They proceeded to produce the greatest labor pageant ever held in America.

At this time Jack Reed, who was then the dramatic editor of the American Magazine, came to Paterson and got interested in the strike. It was Jack's first venture in anything like a revolutionary movement. I introduced him at a meeting of the strikers where he spoke and later he taught the strikers a song which when sung by 25,000 people made an impression that cannot be realized without hearing such a great crowd give vent to their full voice. Booes like those of Lawrence were now used by the strikers of Paterson against the police. The sound of 25,000 people shouting, "Boo, boo, boo" was like the blast of Gabriel's trumpet that shook down the walls of Jericho. These thunderous choruses will never be forgotten by those who took part in them or heard them sung.

N the day of the Paterson pageant 1,200 strikers crossed the Hudson River. From the dock we marched to Madison Square Garden, which for a week previous had every night been lighted by an electric sign of giant proportions with the letters "I.W.W." in red lamps. We had enlisted the services of 80 or 90 people with radical tendencies in New York. "Bobby" Jones, now a leading scenic designer, with Jack Reed, drew the poster-an heroic figure of a worker rising out of the background of factories, smokestacks and chimneys. A great stage had been erected in Madison Square Garden and scenery painted depicting the silk mills. Jack Reed acted as stage manager of the pageant.

The first scene showed the mill alive, working. Lights shone through hundreds of windows. The workers with spirits dead, walked wn the street—the center of the great auditorium—in groups, singly and by twos,-an occasional one glancing at a newspaper, another humming a song, some talking, all with small baskets, buckets or packages of lunch in their hands or under their arms. The mill whistles blow. The thump, chug, rattle and buzz of machinery was heard. Then the wide aisle—the street—was deserted. All were at work. Two hours were supposed to elapse, when voices inside the mill were heard shouting "Strike! strike!" The workers came rushing out pell-mell, laugh ing, jostling each other. They burst out into glorious song-the "International"-joined by the audience.

In Scene Two the mills were dead-no lights, not a sound. They stood like monstrous specters. It was the morning following the strike. The workers were coming on massed picket duty. They sang their strike songs. One, an exuberant Italian, gayly strummed his guitar. A few policemen mingled with the laughing, singing crowd parading in front of the mills. Without warning the police began to club and beat the strikers. A fight ensued. Shots rang out. A striker fell. The police had killed one. Another limped out of the crowd wounded. The dead man was carried away. The strikers followed the body to its home. The day was done.

THE third scene was the burial of the murdered striker. A coffin was carried on the shoulders of the pallbearers, followed by marching strikers singing the "Funeral March." The coffin was set down near the center of the stage. The strikers marched onto the stage, one on either side, placing a twig of evergreen and a red carnation on the coffin. The tributes pile high as the strikers formed in a group to the rear. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Tresca and I spoke, as we really did at the graveside of the dead striker in Paterson, impressing the listeners and again pledging the strikers to battle onward until the infamous system of exploitation is overthrown and the workers come into their own.

In Scene Four striking parents sent their children to other cities while the strike was on. A pathetic sense of filial devotion portraying the human reason for the strike-it was for the children. These same children had gone on a school strike because the teachers had called the striking silk workers and their organizers "Anarchists and goodfor-nothing foreigners." The children who were bidding their parents good-by were decked out in red ashes. They departed singing the "Red Flag." They were then with new-found friends-their strike parents-to stay until the strike was ended.

The last scene was a strike meeting in Turn Hall, Paterson. The strikers came to the meeting down the main aisle. A platform had been made at the rear of the stage around which the strikers gathered with their backs turned to the audience, transforming the setting into a vast meeting. I addressed this great gathering as earnestly and as vigorously as one could whose heart was in the cause and inspired by thousands of sympathetic listeners. The great pageant was ended with the crowd standing again sing-

When the train pulled into the depot I saw 35 or 40 men with long yellow ribbons pinned on the lapels of their coats. I thought to myself, "That's a strange decoration for a reception committee." Then I saw that each man had a long, hickory club fastened to his wrist with a thong. When I stepped down from the coach two or three men came up to me and asked: "Are you Mr. Haywood?"

I said: "Yes, that's my name." He added: "The chief wants to see you."

I asked: "Where is he?"

He said: "Right here."

I stepped over to where the chief of police was standing and he costed me with: "Mr. Haywood, you realize that the situation in this city at the present time is very tense. I want to notify you that ile you are here you are treading on very thin ice.'

"I said: "I know there is a strike here, and in all strikes the feeling tense." Then I asked him if he had a warrant for me. He said: "I have no warrant I just wanted to warn you about the situation" I remarked: "If that is all, step aside. I'm going this way."

In the next issue Haywood tells of "battleshipping" the Paterson jail during the silk strike. Only one of countless incidents of his vivid story of his 35 years as a leading factor in the class struggle. You can get Haywood's Book, an autobiography, free by sending in one year's subscription to the Daily Worker, new or renewal.
