SNAP SHOTS BY DEBS.

HE WRITES OF THE BIG WAITERS' STRIKE AND OTHER TIMELY TOPICS.

THE FOLLOWING press dispatch from Chicago is suggestive: "The strike of hotel and restaurant employes has spread to the Chicago Beach and the Grand Pacific hotels."

GREAT INDIGNATION followed among the guests, who include many prominent and wealthy Chicagoans. They voted to stand by the hotel management, and RICHLY DRESSED WOMEN, changing their dresses for more common ones, cleared tables and WASHED DISHES."

Good! Splendid! Let the "richly dressed" women wash their own dishes, be their own chambermaids and wait on themselves generally for about six months. It will cure their indignation, also their indigestion, and wonderfully improve their complexion.

The incident is a cheering sign and there is a healthy suggestion of the class struggle in it.

President Roosevelt made a five minute speech at Indianapolis on his return trip to Washington after his fifteen thousand mile campaign expedition.

At the close of the short speech something happened. Here is the account of it:

An incident that was noted during the speech was when from an overlooking window some one shouted: "The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen is for Roosevelt."

When Lafayette visited this country and made his famous tour in 1828 the ovation tendered him at Baltimore was unusually elaborate. He passed beneath a great arch surmounted by a living eagle and to his astonishment and delight the eagle spread his wings and screamed as if from pure joy, as it beheld the friend of Washington, the hero of the revolution.

At to who jabbed the jay-bird at Indianapolis the account does not say, but the unexpected incident worked so well that all hands are to be congratulated upon the success of the rehearsal, the felicitous response of the president and the alertness of the reporter in putting it on the wires before it was uttered.

No wonder "the president smiled" and said "I know it." That's why he joined the brotherhood and he certainly is entitled to the benefits of membership.

Such a sensational press dispatch as the following from Washington has become so common in the light of recent exposures of official corruption that it is taken as a matter of course and excites scarcely a breath of resentment.

It is learned on unquestioned authority that Senator Lattimer several months ago complained to the president that when he sought a position in the department for a young woman, he was met by the gruff retort from Mr. Wynne that there were no places; that THE DEPARTMENT WAS FULL ENOUGH OF BAD WOMEN and that it had come to pass that ANY WOMAN WITH A PRETTY FACE AND FIGURE COULD SECURE CONGRESSIONAL ENDORSEMENT.

The president in a personal conference with the first assistant reprimanded him. Mr. Wynne defended his action by showing that the conversation of which Senator Lattimer complained had taken place five months before; that he probably did make the remark concerning congressional endorsement, for he said that in the department WAS CORRECT, but he declared he did not class all women as bad.

While this cess-pool of iniquity seethes at the national capital the president is galloping over the country delivering cheap homilies on how to be good, and the postmaster general is concerned only because the foul subterranean stream has been uncovered.

Mr. Wynne is first Assistant to Postmaster General Payne. Consider the appalling national pretentiousness of which Wynne's indictment is but the index! Think of H. C. Payne as commander-in-chief of a great moral investigation! What is your opinion of Socialism?

In every human being there is the making of a god or a devil. Environment is the determining factor. Socialism is concerned with the environment. Human nature will do the rest.

Terre Haute Ind., June 13.

The Journeymen Bakers' International union is having considerable trouble over Socialism, or, rather, the friends of capitalism in that organization are.

The barons of old had a thrifty habit of building their castles (beg pardon! having their castles built) on the cliffs overlooking the main travelled roads along which the people were forced to travel, and then holding the people up and exacting tribute for the privilege of getting by with whole heads.

The above simply shows where Socialists should direct their propaganda efforts. It is the workers that need Socialism. The Herald has tried to meet this need through its Union Secretaries Fund. Let us beg of you to support that fund. It is an important matter.

The Herald is an ideal paper for propaganda. It is a clean looking paper; no one need be ashamed of it. The day of mussy, dirty-looking papers is past.

Comrade William Kaufman, the new alderman elected by the Socialists of Kenosha, was a Herald caller last week. He is employed in the big Simmons factory, which he says is honeycombed with Socialists.

Now watch the capitalist editors explain how it happened in Germany and that almost everything else except the belief in Socialism caused the people to vote the red ticket!

The Average Work-Power of Nations.

What an English Mechanic saw of Labor Conditions in America, and his Conclusions, part true and part foolish.

So much has recently been written and spoken on the subject of Americanism and the dangers which are likely to grow from the development of American methods that it is only fair that we should look at the matter from all points of view, and as one who came to the United States two years ago unfavorably disposed toward these methods I feel conscientiously bound to give the result of my incidental study of the subject.

American workman is the introduction of so much machinery, which enables him to do a great deal more work by the exercise of his mental faculties, as, of course, the physical strength of the different nations is not as shown here. This method of increasing the working power of the individual raises his value and by diminishing his physical effort naturally gives more chance to his intellectual advancement.

The capitalist combinations of the west are acting in concert to bring from the eastern states a tide of immigration that will inundate the Rocky mountain regions and the Pacific slope, with no other object in view than to starve labor into abject serfdom.

There are now thousands and tens of thousands of men and women in the west whose hands are tied in idleness. The seductive and alluring circulars that are being scattered throughout the eastern states are the products of a literary bureau that has been established by employers' associations, promotion companies and mine owners' associations, whose capital expands as hungry and homeless workmen become fierce competitors on the labor market for jobs.

The voice of discontent is heard all over the west. Strikes, injunctions and boycotts are flourishing between the Missouri river and the coast, from British Columbia to Mexico, and should warn the laboring man of the east that his presence in the west will only enable the corporate interests to prolong the struggle of the masses against the robbery of exploitation.

Thousands of workmen are being landed in the western states every week on account of cheap fares and the misleading pamphlets that extend such generous invitations to the laboring men of the east. Stay away from the west! The volcanic rumbling of war between employer and employee can be heard in every state of the west, and it is the intention of the corporations to use eastern immigration as a strike breaking aggregation.

AN INFAMOUS BILL IS SIGNED.

Governor Odell has signed Assemblyman Hughes' bill designed to prevent discrimination on the part of labor unions against members of the national guard. The bill is drastic and refers equally to labor unions and employers, making it a misdemeanor to interfere in any way with the employment of a person who is a member of the national guard on account of such membership, or to dissuade a person from enlisting by threat of injury with reference to his employment, trade or business.

THE PROSPERITY-MAKERS; OR, THE TRAGEDY OF A MUSHROOM TOWN.

BY A WELL-KNOWN WRITER.

CHAPTER XIV.—In which Pragmore skips town and Philip is assaulted.

Not to give sober second thought a chance to counsel better things, he pocketed the forged deed and went straight to the dingy little office next door to Catron's store. The old notary was sitting at his desk, and the lines of reticence in his shallow face deepened into wrinkles when he looked up and saw who had opened the door. Thorn-dyke wasted no time in introductory phrases.

"Two or three months ago, Mr. Pragmore, I asked you some questions about a deed purporting to have been given by John Kilgrog to James Cates. The record shows that you attested it, but you denied any recollection of the circumstances. Will you tell me now that you did not antedate your certificate six years or more? that you did not acknowledge the signature of a man whom you believed to be dead?"

Pragmore stiffened himself in his chair and made no sign, though he had to moisten his thin lips to say: "You can't prove anything."

The sullen defiance overdrove whatever amount of prudence the discovery of the deed had left Thorn-dyke. Leaning over the desk, he held the paper outspread before the eyes of the old man. "Do you pretend to say that this is not your signature? Will you tell me that you don't know Fench's handwriting when you see it? Did the printers make a mistake of five years when they put their imprint on this blank?"

The mask of inscrutability slipped aside for a moment, and Pragmore's face became gray and furred with terror. Then he relaxed into sullenness again, but there was an angry snarl in his voice when he spoke.

"I don't know nothin' about it, n'r what-all ye're aimin' at, but I'll tell ye first an' last, ye can't bulldoze me. This here's my office, an' since ye found the way in, I reckon ye can find the way out."

Philip started off in a white heat of wrath. Half-way to the door he turned on Pragmore.

"I came down here to give you one more chance to save yourself," he said; "you don't deserve any more consideration than any common criminal, but you're an old man and you've let these fellows make a fool of you. Once for all, will you turn state's evidence? Or shall I send the sheriff after you?"

There was a rasping noise, as of a hastily opened drawer, and the old man sprang to his feet and leveled a revolver at Thorn-dyke. His eyes blazed, and his voice quavered with excitement.

caught. With the heedlessness which goes hand in hand with triumphant perseverance, he left the forged deed, together with the unfinished papers, on the writing-table in his room at the hotel; and, picking his way through the obstructed streets, he was soon in the neighborhood of the courthouse. Under the branches of a water-oak, at a point where the light from the electric lamps at the crossings made a garish twilight, he stumbled over the body of a man lying across the sidewalk. Before he could recover himself he was promptly garrotted, thrown down and held by two footpads while a third rifled his pockets. The assault was well planned and deftly executed, and when his assailants had left him Thorn-dyke was astonished to find that they had taken none of his valuables. Then it came to him like a sudden stroke of illness that their object had been to secure the forged deed, and he grew cold with dismay when he remembered where he had left it. The next moment he was racing madly toward the hotel, stumbling and falling over heaps of building material and paving-stones, and colliding blindly with chance pedestrians who happened to get in his way.

He breathed freely again when he reached his room and found that the papers were undisturbed, but the disquieting experience taught him the lesson of prudence which he might otherwise have gone wanting. Buttoning the papers into an inside pocket of his coat, he went out again, taking care to keep in the well-lighted and frequented streets until he reached a hardware store where he could buy a revolver. With the weapon in his pocket he felt safer; and, leaving Broadway, he once more turned his steps toward the jail. Pragmore had not been found; and, after assuring himself that a description of the missing notary had been telegraphed to the neighboring towns on the railway, Thorn-dyke went back to the hotel. Approaching the building by a walk through the grounds which led him beneath the windows of his own room in one of the southern gables, he was surprised to see them brilliantly lighted; and, bolting up the stairway at the end of the corridor, he was barely in time to save the Johannisberg from destruction. In his absence the room had been thoroughly and ruthlessly ransacked, and one of the gas jets—whether by accident or design he never knew—had been swung around against the mosquito netting, which was blazing and dropping a shower of small fire-brands upon the white counterpane beneath it.

When he had put out the fire and gathered up his scattered belongings, Philip began to have a juster appreciation of the desperate character of the men with whom he had to deal, and he determined to take no more risks. After having his room changed, he telephoned to the stable for his horse and rode out to the Duncan farm, sleeping that night in the attic bedroom with the forged deed under his pillow.

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates, and men decay.—Oliver Goldsmith.

The level rays of the morning sun were shooting across the eastern spur of John's mountain, pouring a noiseless volley of radiance against the opposite cliffs of the Bull, and bridging the valley of the Little Chippewas with bands of yellow light that made the shadows blue and cool by comparison. Up among the topmost twigs of the tree the breeze whispered steadily, with the sound like the patter of gentle rain; but in the depths of the forest, where the path from Duncan's to the plateau wound upward through the tangled undergrowth, the air was still and resonant, giving back sharply the snarl of the gravel and the rustle of dry leaves under the feet of the two men who climbed slowly toward the mountain-top. Notwithstanding the approach of autumn and the youth of the day, the heat was great enough to make the steep ascent laborious and exhausting; and Thorn-dyke stopped at the base of the upper tier of cliffs while Duncan went down on his hands and knees to drink from a spring bubbling clear and cold from the shelf of sandstone.

"I'm no disputin' yer courage, ye understand that," he said, after he had slaked his thirst. "Ye're a bonny fighter, Master Thorn-dyke—I mean say that for ye—but ye'll win w' such a man as Sharpless at that."

"No, I'm pretty well satisfied of that, now; though I still think there will be more fighting than parleying in the case, from the way they have begun on me."

Philip had been giving his companion a succinct account of the events of the previous day as they climbed the mountain, and Duncan had consented to take charge of the deed until it should be needed.

"No, to be frank about it, I think I lost my head when that deed turned up. It was a foolish thing to do to Pragmore the way I did. I might have known what would happen in case I wasn't able to scare him."

"No, ye can't see me yet?" "Oh, yes; but they know as much as I do, now, and they will be prepared at all points. We can beat them in the end, but they can delay a settlement indefinitely. And I'm more afraid of delay than of anything else."

"Yes. They have all the resources of the syndicate behind them, while I have nothing. They can give any amount of bail on the criminal charge, and when we get our verdict in chancery there may be nothing to recover from."

"But, man, there's the whole town built on Johnnie Keelgrog's land!" "Yes, it's there to-day, and it may be there to-morrow; but it has grown up."

LABOR SOLIDARITY.

A Plea for Trade Unionism on Rational Lines, by Arthur Brisbane.

The process by which the workers raise themselves in the world, transform themselves from mere hand to mouth, ambitionless drudges into civilized, hopeful men and useful citizens naturally creates friction, and friction is ever accompanied by heat. It is quite likely that all the strikes which are disturbing the country are not wise and timely, but just the same these strikes, viewed in the mass, are the best possible proof of industrial and social health. They show that the workers want to better themselves and are determined to do it. The nation is prosperous and the wage earners are bound to have their share of the prosperity.

Individual employers may feel that they are the victims of injustice, but employers in the aggregate will profit by the success of the strikes. The more pay the workers get the more they are able to buy and the better prices they are willing to give for what they purchase.

Hard things are being said about trade unions by many persons who ought to know better. The trade union is what gives the workmen power to enforce their demands. It is the trade unions that have elevated the condition of the wage earning millions and that will continue to elevate it. The higher the status of the workman the surer will be the guarantee of continued prosperity.

High wages make for good citizenship like Jonah's gourd, and it may be quite as short-lived. Duncan nursed his chin reflectively. "That's just what Robbie Protheroe's eye hintin' at. He's a sharp lad, is Robbie."

"Of course I don't know anything about it," continued Thorn-dyke, following his own line of thought; "but other towns have flourished and failed, and Allacoochee may or may not prove to be an exception. Anyway, I'd like to get the thing settled while the pressure is high. It will be easier to get $50,000 now than $10,000 after the tide begins to turn."

Duncan's jaw fell, and he stared at Philip in speechless astonishment. "Fifty thousand dollars!" he exclaimed, when he could find breath to put his amazement into words. "Eh, man, man, but ye'll be killin' the goose outright!" "No fear of that," laughed Philip, rising and taking the path again. "And if they don't call off their desperadoes it'll cost them more."

He spoke confidently, but he was troubled with many doubts and misgivings which poured in thickly upon the heels of yesterday's overconfidence. One insurmountable obstacle the second thought had brought up to block the way to a legal contest: the court would require a heavy bond from the complainant, and who was to furnish it? Kilgrog had nothing, and the loss of his own fortune put it out of Thorn-dyke's power to offer security. Clearly, the thing must be managed in some way without a suit, and Philip's perplexity kept him silent while they were pushing through the woods on the plateau toward the Pocket.

ship since they mean better homes, more newspapers and books and longer schooling for the children. A noteworthy acknowledgment of the beneficial effects of organization among the workers is made in a recent number of the Metropolitan Magazine. In an article describing what had been done of late years to render life better worth living in New York's east side Leroy M. Scott, the author, tells of the labors of the college settlements and other agencies, volunteer and official, which aim at ameliorating the lot of the packed population of the tenements. Then he says: "Quite different in character from the foregoing forces and exerting a greater influence than any of them is the betterment of east side conditions is the great force which proceeds from the organization of people in trade unions. Whatever he may think of certain practices of trade unions, no fair man can deny that they more than any other single movement have been responsible for the improvement that has taken place in the condition of workmen in recent years. On the east side, as elsewhere, conditions are better in consequence of the organization of labor; wages are higher, hours of work are shorter, the environment of work is better, and these improved conditions which immediately affect the breadwinner also immediately affect the family and the home."

The unreflecting and the class snob who sneer at trade unions or raise at them when they use their power have but to do a little real thinking in order to come into the knowledge that the labor organizations are doing a mighty work not only for their own members, but for the country. The workman who does not belong to one of them is blind to his own interests, and all others who are hostile to them demonstrate by their hostility that they are too narrow to comprehend what is going on and what is best for this democratic republic.

DEFINITIONS OF SOCIALISM. The collective ownership of the means of production and distribution. A theory of society that advocates a more precise, orderly and harmonious arrangement of the social relations of mankind than that which has hitherto prevailed. (Webster's Dictionary.)

A science of reconstructing society on an entirely new basis, by substituting the principle of association for that of competition in every branch of human industry. (Worcester's Dictionary.)

A theory that aims to secure the reconstruction of society, increase of wealth, and a more equal distribution of the products of labor and capital (as distinguished from property), and the public collective management of all industries. Its motto is: "Everyone according to his deeds." (Standard Dictionary.)

The term SOCIAL DEMOCRACY is the more precise name for International Socialism and signifies a Socialist society democratically administered.

About "Triumphant Democracy!"

The nation is rushing on toward an industrial absolutism, says J. W. Bennett. Will the people be able to take control?

There are a convincing roll and volume of words, "Triumphant Democracy." They sound well. But the phrase overlooked several important considerations...

As a nation, is leading a "free and independent" citizenry, it is preaching democracy and practicing autocracy. Like a temperance lecturer who takes a drink of whisky for inspiration to his...

It is only within the last quarter of a century that this issue has begun to shape itself sharply in the United States. Twenty-five years ago industry was so chaotic or anarchistic, if you please—that no one man in that field had a power that was especially dangerous.

The industrial autocrat necessarily has absolute control over a large proportion of the citizenship of the country. It is becoming most difficult and unprofitable to shift from calling to calling. We are rapidly reaching a point where industrial autocrats will have absolute control over a majority of the citizens of the country.

What We Social Democrats Are After.

The Socialist party, in national convention assembled, reaffirms its adherence to the principles of International Socialism, and declares its aim to be the organization of the working class, and those in sympathy with it, into a political party, with the object of conquering the powers of government and using them for the purpose of transforming the present system of private ownership of the means of production and distribution into collective ownership by the entire people.

Formerly the tools of production were simple and owned by the individual worker. Today the machine, which is but an improved and more developed tool of production, is owned by the capitalists and not by the workers. This ownership enables the capitalists to control the product and keep the workers dependent upon them.

Private ownership of the means of production and distribution is responsible for the ever-increasing uncertainty of livelihood and the poverty and misery of the working class, and it divides society into two hostile classes—the capitalists and wage-workers. The once powerful middle class is rapidly disappearing in the mill of competition. The struggle is now between the capitalist class and the working class.

The economic interests of the capitalist class dominate our entire social system; the lives of the working class are recklessly sacrificed for profit, wars are fomented between nations, indiscriminate slaughter is encouraged and the destruction of whole races is sanctioned in order that the capitalists may extend their commercial dominion abroad and enhance their supremacy at home.

But the same economic causes which developed capitalism are leading to Socialism, which will abolish both the capitalist class and the class of wage-workers. And the active force in bringing about this new and higher order of society is the working class. All other classes, despite their apparent or actual conflicts, are alike interested in the upholding of the system of private ownership of the instruments of wealth production.

The workers can most effectively act as a class in their struggle against the collective powers of capitalism by constituting themselves into a political party, distinct from and opposed to all parties formed by the propertied classes.

While we declare that the development of economic conditions tends to the overthrow of the capitalist system, we recognize that the time and manner of the transition to Socialism also depends upon the stage of development reached by the proletariat. We therefore, consider it of the utmost importance for the Socialist party to support all active efforts of the working class to better its condition and to elect Socialists to political offices, in order to facilitate the attainment of this end.

As such means we advocate: 1. The collective ownership of all means of transportation and communication and all other public utilities as well as of all industries controlled by monopolies, trusts and combines. No part of the revenue of such industries to be applied to the reduction of taxes on property of the capitalist class, but to be applied wholly to the increase of wages and shortening of the hours of labor of the employees, to the improvement of the service and diminishing the rates to the consumers.

2. The progressive reduction of the hours of labor and the increase of wages in order to decrease the share of the capitalist and increase the share of the worker in the product of labor. 3. State or national insurance of working people in case of accidents, lack of employment, sickness and want in old age; the funds for this purpose to be furnished by the government and to be administered under the control of the working class.

4. The inauguration of a system of public industries, public credit to be used for that purpose in order that the workers be secured the full product of their labor. 5. The education of all children up to the age of 18 years, and state and municipal aid for books, clothing and food.

6. Equal civil and political rights for men and women. 7. The initiative and referendum, proportional representation and the right of recall of representatives by their constituents.

But in advocating these measures as steps in the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of the co-operative commonwealth, we warn the working class against the so-called public ownership movements as an attempt of the capitalist class to secure governmental control of public utilities for the purpose of obtaining greater security in the exploitation of other industries and not for the amelioration of the conditions of the working class.

What We Social Democrats Are After.

The Socialist party, in national convention assembled, reaffirms its adherence to the principles of International Socialism, and declares its aim to be the organization of the working class, and those in sympathy with it, into a political party, with the object of conquering the powers of government and using them for the purpose of transforming the present system of private ownership of the means of production and distribution into collective ownership by the entire people.

Formerly the tools of production were simple and owned by the individual worker. Today the machine, which is but an improved and more developed tool of production, is owned by the capitalists and not by the workers. This ownership enables the capitalists to control the product and keep the workers dependent upon them.

Private ownership of the means of production and distribution is responsible for the ever-increasing uncertainty of livelihood and the poverty and misery of the working class, and it divides society into two hostile classes—the capitalists and wage-workers. The once powerful middle class is rapidly disappearing in the mill of competition. The struggle is now between the capitalist class and the working class.

The economic interests of the capitalist class dominate our entire social system; the lives of the working class are recklessly sacrificed for profit, wars are fomented between nations, indiscriminate slaughter is encouraged and the destruction of whole races is sanctioned in order that the capitalists may extend their commercial dominion abroad and enhance their supremacy at home.

to all Socialists. It is easy for a man to profess to be a Socialist, and to even believe he is one, but it is for the comrades to weigh his qualifications.

Kewaunee has been organized! What of it, you say? Just this of it: That this completes the organization of the cities along the lake shore in this state—that we may term the eastern industrial belt of the state. We expect to have a line of organized manufacturing cities in this belt that will form a rock of Gibraltar against capitalism. Watch and see!

An Outrageous Proposition.—At the present time, we see an attempt to overthrow the expressed will of the party membership, and to infringe on the fundamental principles of democracy by some of those who are posing as representatives of the farming class and western wage-workers, and with this I have no sympathy.

The Great Labor Intimidator.

An Ugly Gun That Our Capitalistic Law-Makers Compel Uncle Sam To Turn On His Own People!

IT SHOOTS TO KILL!

The infamous new Military Bill is only one of the many laws enacted against the people by the late "PEOPLE'S" Congress at Washington. The Senate is full of millionaires and their paid attorneys, and the Lower House is packed with corporation attorneys and spoils-hungry grafters.—No wonder labor gets a black eye!

It is high time for labor to supplant the ineffective and truckling labor lobby at Washington with a big delegation of elected Socialist Congressmen to stand for Humanity's True Interests.

What International Socialism Demands:

1. Collective ownership of public utilities and all industries in the hands of Trusts and Combines.
2. Democratic management of such collective industry.
3. Reduction of the hours of labor and progressively increased Remuneration.
4. State and National Insurance for the workers and honorable rest for old age.
5. The inauguration of public industries to safeguard the workers against lack of employment.
6. Education of ALL children up to the age of 18 years. No child labor.
7. Equal political and civil rights for men and women.

If you believe in the above vote with the Social Democrats.

As to the Word Democracy.

We have a correspondent who insists that we ought to drop the word "democratic" from the name of this paper. We have weighed his points with due thought and have come to the conclusion that they are not well taken.

The fact is that we glory in that particular word. It means a great deal more than our correspondent probably imagines. Moreover, it belongs by right to the Socialists. It is for them to rescue it from the miserable forces that have sullied its name in this country.

"The first step in the evolution of the working class," says Karl Marx, "is to raise the proletariat to the position of democracy."

The word proletariat, as commonly used, means the propertyless class. Look about you at the propertyless class to-day and what do you see? How many of them are democrats? How many of them believe in the demos: the people? Don't you know that the trouble with the propertyless class today is that it has a sneaking love of the ruling class, that it secretly or openly believes that the ruling class is such by reason of being better than the rest of us?

King rule, money rule and caste rule have been largely possible because the people tolerated it. Marx, with that keen vision of his, saw that the first thing to be done toward raising the people up for their emancipation was to instill a love of democracy in their breasts. It has been the love of democracy, the belief in the brotherhood of man that has been at the bottom of all revolts against oppression, all social advance.

The people must become democrats, that is, they must become CLASS-CONSCIOUS before they are fit to take political possession of the earth and run it for the equal good of all.

But our correspondent may say that he knows all this, but that the trouble is that the capitalist Democratic party has spoiled the term in this country, that lots of people refuse to join our movement because the name "democrat" smells in their nostrils.

Here again, the objection seems to us short sighted. Prior to 1897 there was only one Socialist party in the United States, the Socialist Labor Party. Its tactics were narrow, its Socialism was of a forbidding, dogmatic and sectarian sort, and it made no progress toward converting the American people to collectivism.

During that year the many Socialists who were dissatisfied and disgusted with the narrowness of the S. L. P. formed the Social Democracy of America—and presto! the growth of Socialism went forward in this country with a bound.

The name? No one thought of questioning it. Under it the cause of Socialism in this country looked up and the S. L. P. rubbed their eyes and wondered if it was true or a dream. Then they insisted that such a growth could not possibly be of the genuine sort—as if the mass could not be leavened at one and the same time! While it is true that this growth has been kept up since the party nationally took the name of Socialist party, the fact still remains that the percentage of change was greater under the old name.

We are Socialists, it is true, but so are single taxers Socialists in a sense, so are the co-operators, so are the Utopians, so are communists and other workers for social ideals. But WE are more than mere Socialists, we are democratic Socialists—we believe in a Socialistic state, democratically administered; which is a very important qualification.

And the name "Social Democrats" suits us well from a purely tactical standpoint.

Who has not noticed that new comers to this country have taken to the Democratic party, supposing that its name truly characterized it, and that it stood in opposition to the thing called monarchy, or the thing called aristocracy? Many and many a man, a democrat at heart, has linked his fortunes with the party of Cleveland and Gorman for no other reasons than this.

But that day is past. It is now definitely known that there is a Social Democracy in this country, and the old, rotten, capitalistic Democratic party is pretty well adrift. The day of its absorption into the Republican party seems not far away. Social Democracy will have driven it out of business and will have then rescued the name "democracy" from its piratical captors.

By all means, let us proclaim ourselves democrats!

THE ANNOUNCEMENT LAST WEEK that Comrade Debs' contribution this week would deal with the courts was an error. His article on the courts is at hand and a proof has been sent him for final correction, which has occasioned delay. It is a contribution to Socialist literature that is bound to cause sharp comment in the capitalist press, hence the necessity for careful proof-reading. It will appear week after next. Comrade Debs' contribution this week will surely meet with a warm reception from our readers. Get as many to read it as you can. It is an awakener! Next week he will write on some facts gleaned during a recent western trip.

HALF HOURS IN THE HERALD SANCTUM.

The following letter from Comrade Howard Tuttle contains something for the workers to ponder over. It not only shows that labor has something to learn as to its proper use of its greatest weapon, the ballot, but that there is something the Socialists can well afford to learn in the matter of tactics.

Dear Herald: I have met a few Socialists here but not many so far. Am to meet the comrades at a special meeting Friday night. They do not seem to have a very high opinion of Milwaukee "Tactics." However, the story will keep till later on. I am stirring the pot a little as usual and will leave a few people a little better posted and nearer to our cause when I depart. The labor men have a mayor here, and he has gone over to the Democrats. It is the old story of a man from the union with no clear idea as to policy. Put up without a definite program and makes a fool of labor. It is another of the costly lessons that labor has to receive before it wakes up to Socialism!

Howard Tuttle. Clinton, Ia., June, 16.

Dear Comrades: Find enclosed 50 cts. a year's subscription to the Social Dem. Herald. I ought to have subscribed long ago, but have neglected. All the Herald's you have sent here from time to time have been distributed, and everybody asked to subscribe. We think the Herald up to date in every respect and standing in the very front ranks of the Socialist propaganda. We miss from your company the name of A. S. Edwards. What has become of him? Did his deluge with the minister make him obnoxious to the Christian Germans of Milwaukee and others that he had to quit?

J. Fritts. Liberal, Mo., June 12.

Comrade Edwards was forced for family reasons to return to Chicago to reside, but his going was an occasion for regret on the part of local Herald readers. No his debate did not have such an effect: quite the contrary. You will also find him among our occasional contributors.

Dear Comrade. You will find enclosed 90 cts in stamps to renew subscription to bundle of ten S. D. Herald: for 3 mos. more. As I did not receive the bundle on Saturday 25 as usual, I thought that probably the subscription had run out. Wishing you, the cause and all the comrades success, I remain, Wm. Benssi. Kalamazoo, Mich.

Dear Herald: Enclosed you will find one dollar for ten tickets which you have sent me to sell, but I don't believe that I will sell any, as I don't get around much, but I will distribute them as much as possible. I am head over heels in with new idea, being voting this last two previous elections the Social Democratic ticket. I was raised a Democrat, and when I got of age I voted the Republican ticket, and I think I shall die a Social Democrat. I hope that we will prosper, and that the people will wake up. It is about time.

WE PROMISED TO SAY a few words about the Herald stockholders, a week or so ago. There are 916 holdings in Wisconsin, 90 in Germany, one in England, and among the American points where shares are held are Brooklyn, Chicago, New York City, Indianapolis, Toledo, and so on. Quite a number of city branches own shares and the Milwaukee Central Committee is the biggest stockholder, owning 355 shares. The Two Rivers, Wis., central committee holds two shares, the Kiel, Wis., branches five, Branches 10, 11 and 22 of Milwaukee have three, two and two respectively, Plymouth, Wis., four, and Sheboygan, Wis., two. The labor unions are also on the list, thus the Machinists union has two shares, the Journeymen Tailors five, the Patternmakers five, etc. The farthest western stockholder is at Sedra Woolley, Wash. So you see we are a pretty big and diversified family. The shares sell at $5. and all comrades are invited to purchase.

A DIALOGUE. The Capitalist Farmer and the Socialist Wage Earner. By G. E. Bigelow. .30 pp. Denver, Colo.: The Alliance. Price 10 cents.
 The author lays down the principles of Socialism and their relation to farmers and wage earners in the form of a dialogue. He believes that the interests of the wage earner and the farmer who is a non-employer are practically identical, and he shows this in the course of the conversation that runs through the book. The book is certainly readable and will doubtless open many a farmer's eyes to the "new-fangled thing" called Socialism.
 THE REPUBLIC OF PLATO. Translated by Alexander Kerr. 60 pp. (Chicago: Chas. H. Kerr & Co. Price 10 cents.
 This is book 111 of this famous work, the part of interest to Socialists of today, and the publishers have put it within the possibilities of every Socialist to add this classic to his reference or working library. The printing is excellent and the cover attractive.
 THE ROOT OF ALL KINDS OF EVIL. By Rev. Stewart Sheldon. 30 pp. (Chicago: C. H. Kerr & Co. Price 10 cents.
 Those who have imagined that the Rev. Sheldon of Topeka, the well-known author of "In His Steps," was unfamiliar with the Socialist movement and undesirous of being rated a Socialist, will find by this book that they have been mistaken. The desire for money, he holds, is the root of all kinds of evil and he does not avoid the question as to why there is a desire for money. It is just the sort of book to hand to a religious person and will tend to predispose them in favor of Socialism, so that other works of a more definite kind can follow.

Unions to Assess their Members

At the meeting of the Federated Trades Council last Wednesday evening, a motion prevailed to recommend to the unions of Milwaukee to assess all members five cents or more for the benefit of the striking tanners. It is the largest strike ever carried on in Milwaukee and it was felt that all true union men would be only too glad to contribute their mite to such a worthy cause. Money so collected are to be sent to J. Reichert, Cor. Secy., Trades Council, 318 State Street, as soon as possible, who will put same in the bank and make payments to the strike committee as demanded. A motion was also passed to ask one of the big league teams playing in Milwaukee to give the tanners a benefit game. Bros. Gaylord, Brockhausen and Weller were named as a committee to see the managers. Secy. Reichert reported contributions for tanners from twenty-three unions amounting to $481, besides a donation of the Brewery Workers of $50, and receipts from picnic to date of $640.

While the tanners' strike was being discussed, Delegate Rooney called attention to an interview appearing in the Journal with the newly elected president of the Box-makers and Sawyers national body, in which he claimed that the tanners' strike was a failure because there was too much Socialism mixed up in it. He moved that this effort of a Chicago political labor skate be denounced as strike-breaking and that the secretary draft a communication to the Chicago Federation of Labor setting the facts right in the eyes of organized labor there and warning them against any effort of Payne to discourage financial aid. (Payne, it may be added, is one of those opponents of Socialism who believe in politics when there is graft in it. He is on Carter-Harrison's payroll and is paid for pretended city work as a reward for dirty work in the labor movement. The truth is that the tanners union contains a less percentage of Socialists than many other unions.—Ed. Herald.)

Delegate Brockhausen read a letter from a union official in another city showing that the business men of Milwaukee were being systematically held up by a fake paper called the Union Signal. A copy of the Signal was produced and was shown to contain fulsome puffs of numerous unfair business concerns, among them the Kieckhefer child-slavery works, the Poppert Mfg. Co., and even the Trostel tannery. He said that the council had several times denounced the methods of the publisher, Fred Stearns, and moved that a letter to the business men of the city be prepared for their protection and the good name of organized labor. Somewhat in line with the foregoing was the reading of a Toledo labor journal showing that trouble was being had with the Labor Carnival fakirs in that city. (See elsewhere in this issue.)

Organizer Hogan, who is in the city for the Car Workers, called attention to a tailoring firm that turned organizing the Retail Clerks and the prospect of organizing the Coal Heavers. He had notified the Chicago waiters that the restaurant and hotel men had established an agency here at the Windsor hotel. The Label Section gave figures on a special label department in the Social Democratic Herald. After discussion the plan was postponed pending further recommendation of section. The council decided to purchase one hundred tickets to the Social Democratic picnic.

Recording Secy.—Frederic Heath.
 Corresponding Secy.—John Reichert.
 Financial Secy.—Henry Hoppe.
 Treasurer—Gustave Esche.
 Executive Board.—James Sheehan, Edward Berner, Frederick Brockhausen, Emil Brodde, Frank E. Woodley, Chas. G. Eckhart and John E. Kagi.

New delegates were seated from the Woodworkers, Lake Seamen Iron Molders, Typographical No. 23, Machinists No. 66, and Federal Labor Union No. 8,092. The executive board announced that it would audit the books of the officers Sunday, June 28, and it was also instructed to audit the books of the special tanner picnic committee. The Organization committee reported organizing the Ice Teamsters and Helpers Union and urged support of their card. The committee to confer with Tailor Quentmeyer reported that he had contempt for the unions and he was put on the unfair list. The committee on hall reported progress. The business agent reported

Town Topics by the Town Crier.

As we go to press it looks as if the tanners' strike was being won. The Zoehrlant tannery has compromised with its 300 men, and the tannery lords' organization seems to be losing its grip. A benefit ball game will be played at Western league park Monday. Don't miss it!

We must give the Evening Wisconsin cartoonist credit for a pretty clever little picture hit in the issue of last Tuesday—the day after the circus. Manager Beggs of the street railway company is shown looking over into a rainwater barrel filled to the brim with nickels, while the spout leading to it is labeled "street car company." He wears a truly capitalistic smile and says, "My! But that was a Heavy Shower last night!" When you take into consideration that the total cost over all to operate a street car one day is less than $17 and that a car seldom takes in less than $40 a day, and on circus days a heap more than that amount, it can be seen how "beneficial" the street car system under capitalistic private ownership is to the people of this city. It is a sort of capitalistic sponge that is ever soaking up our wealth. But the Wisconsin picture does not tell the full story. Our business men groan when they think that a circus takes a big stake of money out of the city—but what about the street railway, with its out of town capitalist owners? Eh? What about that! The circus takes money away from town once or twice a year, but the foreign owned, privately owned street cars are sucking up our hard earned nickels every day and sending them away. Nor would it help particularly if the stockholders were local instead of foreign residents, the trouble is that we permit our streets to be used to breed capitalists with, capitalists whose increasing capital calls for increasing profits out of the wealth-makers—the toilers.

The Milwaukee Trades council appears to have not been the only labor body to turn down the "labor carnival" fellows and their get-rich-quick propositions. According to the Labor Union of Toledo, which devotes two full pages to the "Carnival gang," as it calls them, the Morris & Berger company not only went ahead and advertised a labor carnival after being turned down by the Toledo Central Labor Union, but made so many alleged misstatements to the people there that Samuel Gompers was appealed to pronounce upon the scheme, and John Mitchell to declare fraudulent the claim that he would make an address. The Union says the carnival people are telling Toledo merchants that there will be no Labor Day celebration by organized labor, etc., etc. Gompers writes the Toledo union that he is glad they had nothing to do with the scheme. Such schemes, he says, create "a general false impression that any business man who will make a monetary contribution toward the supposed success of the carnival, no matter how unfair he may be, would be assured of the friendship and good will of labor. Heretofore there were schemes to issue local and state souvenirs, histories, directories, etc., and all of them with the same purpose in view as these carnivals. Through the actions of the American Federation of Labor, by warning labor of these schemes, we have pretty nearly driven them out of existence and made them largely unprofitable to the scheming publishers." Mr. Gompers also declares it false that he was even asked to attend the carnival in Toledo. From all this it is apparent that the Milwaukee Council got off lucky by repudiating the carnival proposition. And we have yet to hear from Cleveland!

expressions as to the favorable impression left by these meetings. Today, Sunday, we held our outdoor meeting on the street in the usual place. After the speech was finished, and we were having a quiet discussion, a city blue-coat came around the corner and told us to "move on." He charged us with blockading the street, and said he would not allow any "street preaching" on Sunday. When asked whether the mayor had given orders to stop the meeting he said he knew his business; and when pressed for his reason for wanting to stop the meeting replied, "I ain't no Socialist anyhow." We told him that needn't interfere with his being a good police-officer and then HE "moved on." It looked for a few minutes as tho' the Agitator might go to jail. But that was denied him.

This evening we finished the formal organization of De Pere. There is a lively crowd here, working under great discouragements. They adopted the "five cents a week dues" plan, soon to capture De Pere, by sending sample ten week Herald lists. A flying trip to Kewaunee resulted in the discovery of a fine active bunch there, waiting to be organized. These comrades will probably succeed.
