REMAINS FOUND ON STREET CAR TRACKS

Remains Scattered for Four Miles.

IDENTIFICATION IS IMPOSSIBLE

Man May Have Been Slain and Thrown Under Car—Portions Found From Williamsburg Plaza, Across East River Bridge, to Desborough Street Ferry.

Scattered over four miles of territory between the Desborough street ferryhouse and the heart of Williamsburg, including the Williamsburg bridge, the remains of a man were found this morning. He had been run down by a trolley car and carried along by it, or several trolley cars perhaps, back and forth over the bridge.

Police Learn Nothing.

The police made inquiries at the Grand street car barn, Grand street and the East River bridge, but could find nothing to show anything about the matter.

Torso Found at Kent Avenue.

At Kent avenue, seven blocks west of Havenmeyer street, where the Williamsburg tower is located, the torso of the man was picked up, and from what they found the police came to the conclusion that the man was hit at Attorney street. His pocket book, knife and part of the straw hat were lying there.

Investigate Disaster to Millionaires' Express

NEWARK, June 23.—At a meeting in the Court House here yesterday the State Railroad Commission resumed its inquiry into the cause of the mishap to the "Millionaires' Express" on the Lackawanna Railroad at Millington on June 5. Assistant Engineer A. J. Neafie, Acting Roadmaster Frank Kirkstead, Division Superintendent E. M. Rine and Section Foreman Albert Slighter and Gustavus Blatt appeared as witnesses for the railroad.

MILITARISM RAMPANT

Winner of Nobel Peace Prize Plans Huge Army.

HE WANTS 250,000 SOLDIERS

Taft's Successor, Speaking for the Administration, Avows Ambition to "Make the United States a Great Military Power"—Would Follow in Footsteps of Czar and Kaiser.

PINE CAMP, N. Y., June 23.—In an interview yesterday the Acting Secretary of War, Robert Shaw Oliver, announced that the scheme aiming at the establishment of a great military force, so long and fondly cherished by the winner of the Nobel peace prize, is now nearing perfection, and that no matter what changes may occur in politics the plan has been worked out so carefully as to insure a standing army of 250,000 men to be ready for any emergency.

This step toward militarism was rendered possible by the passage of the Dick Military bill, about two years ago, under which law the militia of the several states is made a mere supplement to the regular army, and which also empowers the President to call out every able-bodied citizen under forty-five years of age.

A Drastic Measure.

The full effect of the Dick bill was not understood at first by the members of the state militia, who were thus rendered liable to strike service, etc., in any part of the Union, as well as in their own states, and now that they are becoming aware of their military status, many of them are anxious to withdraw from the militia service.

General Oliver, however, is very enthusiastic over the prospects of turning the county into an armed camp, as was evidenced by his remarks yesterday.

"This is the first move in a plan to make the United States a great military power. It is the first time that the work has been taken up systematically and with a definite end in view. I don't mind telling you now the outlines of the plan.

"We propose to organize the regulars and the United States Volunteers together and to mobilize them in army corps. If the Pine Plains section is selected for one of the eight great manoeuvres and instruction camps we intend to bring together here 50,000 men every year, keeping them here every month and instructing them in every detail of military work. Pine Camp, for instance, would be the rendezvous of all the regular troops of the Department of the East and of all the volunteers we could possibly accommodate from the states that are included in the territory covered by the Department of the East.

"Two years from now the War Department will be able to call out a splendidly trained, collected force of 250,000 men, ready for action at an hour's notice. Part will be perfectly trained, and the efficiency of the rest will be so increased that they will form a smooth working force.

"This arrangement will obviate all confusion in handling troops and mobilizing them in the event of an emergency. Never again will troops be sent around haphazard, with transportation details mixed up and confusion existing in quartermaster and commissary departments. Every regiment when called into service will know exactly to what army corps it belongs and where it is to be mobilized, thus simplifying the work. It will be my personal duty to push this plan to success, but the project has been so completely adjusted and worked out that it will be carried on no matter who directs it from the War Department."

President Roosevelt has been very much interested in this effort to take the militia out of the hands of the state authorities, and concentrate all military power in Washington, so as to facilitate immediate action in case of "disturbances." As our neighbors, Canada and Mexico, certainly do not need to be restrained from invading our territory by such a display of military power, it is obvious what ends the future army of 250,000 men will serve.

TWO LAND PIRATES FOUND GUILTY

Long Trial Exposing System by Which Government is Defrauded and Land Monopolized.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—After a trial which was started April 17, and which, together with the investigation which led up to it, has cost the United States over $200,000, Frederick Hyde and J. H. Schneider were found guilty yesterday of conspiracy to defraud the government of valuable land in the states of Washington and Oregon.

John A. Benson and Henry P. Dimond, co-defendants in the case, were found not guilty, but the first named will be tried here again next fall on an indictment charging him with bribing government officials.

The investigation by which sufficient evidence was produced to cause the indictment of these men was started over five years ago by Ethan Hitchcock, at that time Secretary of the Interior, and was worked out with great care.

It seems that the method used by the guilty parties was the use of "dummy" applicants. The evidence produced by the Government showed that Schneider procured many persons to make application for school land in the states named, and at the

J. MEDILL PATTERSON POINTS OUT THE WAY

Says Gompers Will Never Get Anything From Capitalists by Going Politely With His Hat in His Hand.

CHICAGO, June 22.—"You will never get anything from us capitalists by coming politely with your hat in your hand. The only way you will get anything is to fetch us down." This was the opening statement of Comrade Joseph Medill Patterson in his speech to five hundred of his Socialist friends yesterday.

Mr. Patterson was relating a conversation with a friend, in which he was reminded how great a man his grandfather was and advised to follow in the old gentleman's footsteps.

"My grandfather," said the speaker, "did not, when 14 years old, have a valet, as I had, to help dress him, black his shoes and bring him his coffee while he lay abed."

Exclamations which might have been of envy, or expressions of mere amazement greeted this recital, while Mr. Patterson added:

"So there can be no simile drawn between conditions under which my grandfather was brought up and those which surrounded me."

"You can't get justice by appealing to persons who profit by injustice. How to get it is a question. Some

RIMSKY-KORSAKOFF, RUSSIAN COMPOSER, DEAD

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—Professor Rimsky-Korsakoff, the great musical composer, died yesterday. His death has caused a deep impression in the musical world in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—Professor Rimsky-Korsakoff, the great musical composer, died yesterday. His death has caused a deep impression in the musical world in St. Petersburg. The papers are filled with eulogies on the composer, whom they rank with Tchaikovsky and Glinka.

Rimsky-Korsakoff produced his first symphony when a naval cadet. The opera "Pikovnitsa," presented in the Imperial Opera in 1871, was the first of a long series which he produced and which included "Sadko," a season in Moscow and many of the audience were moved to tears.

He continued writing until recently, in spite of sufferings which he endured from paroxysms of asthma. He was 64 years old.

$2,000,000 FIRE AT THREE RIVERS, QUEBEC

MURDER IN HOTEL

Man Choked to Death Found in Room.

TOWEL KNOTTED AROUND NECK

Hotel Empire Guest Found With Hands Over Stomach as if in Pain—Detectives Thought It Suicide, But Coroner Positive Murder Was Committed—Investigation to Be Made.

In a room, the doors and windows of which were closed and locked when the detectives made their entrance, Jacob Prosello, a guest of the Hotel Empire, Sixty-third street and Broadway, was found cold and dead last night, with a towel tightly knotted around his neck. Prosello registered at the hotel shortly after 8 p. m. Sunday, according to the statement of Chief Clerk William J. Cosgrove, and carried no luggage of any kind. Nothing more was seen of him until about 6 o'clock yesterday evening, when one of the hotel chambermaids, enroute as to the cause of the prolonged absence of the guest in his room, without giving any signs that he was there, asked the hotel carpenter to look through the transom. This was done, and the dead body of Prosello was seen.

THREE RIVERS STATION, Que.

June 23.—Six hundred families homeless, four hundred buildings burned to the ground, with a loss aggregating over $2,000,000, six lives lost, an area of half a mile square containing the entire business and commercial district of the town, swept by the flames, is a rough total of the havoc wrought by the fire, which started shortly before noon here yesterday, and was not gotten under control until after midnight, when help had been sent from most of the neighboring cities. Every hotel, bank, store, office and dwelling, from St. Roch street on the east to St. Charles street on the west, and from the river front as far back as Royal street, lies in smoldering ruins.

WATER FOR THIRSTY HORSES AND DOGS

The Call is delighted to "insert" as requested, and thinks its readers will be interested. The Call takes the liberty of suggesting to the officials of the S. P. C. A. that they go down to the Sheepshead Bay races and stop some of the brutality there practiced on horses daily—running of cripples, the brutal whipping of two-year-olds in heart-breaking contests, etc. THE CALL ASSURES THEM THAT THIS TOO IS OF INTEREST TO ITS READERS.

Every hotel, bank, store and office building in the Commercial District goes up in smoke—Six lives lost Four Adjoining Towns Asked for Aid.

The postoffice, the public offices of St. Maurice and Champlain counties, the Parish Church, the Dufresne Hotel, the Frontenac Hotel, the Windsor Hotel, the Dominion Hotel, the Commercial Hotel, Drolet and Landon's large wholesale warehouse, Singer Manufacturing Company and, in fact, all the wholesale and retail stores, the business offices, agencies, markets, telegraph and telephone offices, lawyers' and doctors' offices on the principal streets of the town are completely destroyed. There were also many of the smaller dwelling houses burned.

So far, it is hard to tell exactly how many lives were lost. The fire, breaking out as it did, shortly before noon, saw most of the population at work, instead of returning home most of the men began immediately to combat the fire wherever they happened to be. Up to 8 o'clock this morning six persons have been reported dead, mostly from heart disease, or invalids and old persons who had to be moved quickly on account of the fury with which the flames rushed through the town.

The loss is hard to even estimate. Mayor Tourigny places it at $4,000,000. As a matter of fact there is nothing left of the town except the outskirts. A child, playing with matches, set fire to a bundle of hay and this blaze under force of a sharp breeze set fire to two hundred houses in the space of forty-five minutes.

THE STORY OF RUM.

The chief fadling they make on the island is Rumbullion, alias Kill-Devil, says an old description of Barbados, written in 1616, "and this is made of sugar cane distilled, a hot, hellish and terrible liquor."

OUR SHORT STORY.

THREE INCIDENTS.

By LUCIEN V. RULE.

He wore the uniform of a farm hand, cheap blue cotton shirt and trousers, much the worse from work and wear. It was a hot Saturday afternoon in the Hoosier town, and the hitching chain on the side street held the horses and vehicles of the farmers and their wives, who had come in to make the customary purchases.

their escort," he said. "Handsome young women who make their living by immorality. Robbed in black at the dead of night, when the secret sale and sin go on. It would surprise you to see those women by daylight. My, but it's too bad."

"Well, you see the younger one is the daughter of a poor widowed mother over here in Sangamon county; and I suppose both of these women find it the easiest way to make money, wear good clothes, and live comfortably."

It was Monday morning. I was about ready to leave town. Standing on the street corner I was listening to the village free-thinker air his metaphysics and philosophy.

HOW HE DID IT.

"When I was connected with a certain Western railway," says a prominent official of an Eastern line, "we had in our employ a brakeman who, for special service rendered to the road, was granted a month's vacation."

"He decided to spend his time in a trip over the Rockies. We furnished him with passes. "He went to Denver and there met a number of his friends at work on one of the Colorado roads. They gave him a good time and when he went away made him a present of a mountain goat."

"Evidently our brakeman was at a loss to get the animal home with him, as the express charges were very heavy at that time. Finally, however, hitting upon a happy expedient, he made out a shipping tag and tied it to the horns of the goat. Then he presented the beast to the office of the stock car line."

"Well, that tag created no end of amusement, but it served to accomplish the end of the brakeman. It was inscribed as follows: "Please Pass the Butcher, Thomas J. Meechin, Brakeman, S. S. and T. Ry."—Harper's Weekly.

FIRES STARTED BY MOTHS.

Moths and flames are universally connected, yet few people suspect that danger could arise therefrom. The insects are of such frail structure that generally they get destroyed before it is possible for them to inflict injury, and it is hardly credible that the wings would ignite and retain the flame long enough to enable the moth to fly to its surroundings.

That, however, has occurred. The moth was a very large one and its wings must have been very dry, so that when it floundered through the flame it set fire to one wing and darted on to a curtain near by, which at once flared up. It is possible that many summer evening fires in the country could be attributed to a source of this kind. It is notorious that mysterious fires often arise at sunset in the hot months.—Strand Magazine.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF A LABORER.

BY EDWARD SILVIN.

The best way to fight death is not to fear it. Speak little and little you will be misheard. The silent can hear the noisy, the noisy but themselves. A country of many laws is a country of many crimes. By seeing we learn to forget, by observing to remember. Some men hope to get famous by telling people that they care not for fame. Satan finds his safest hiding place within the godlike man. In speaking to a woman we speak to women. He who fights for another man's rights must be prepared to lose his own. Tell a philosopher that you were created for work and he will tell you that you are not fit for anything else. The sane man is not proud of his sanity, for he knows that insanity makes genius.

IT WILL BE A SUCCESS.

"What do I think of it?" replied a New York banker who had been asked his opinion about the "Sunshine and Square Meal" movement that had its inception in St. Louis a few weeks ago. "It's a fine thing, sir, and I'm sure to meet with success. There is nothing like making folks believe that nothing ails the country." Continuing after a moment's thought, the banker said: "I was in such a movement about twenty years ago. It was a small one, but it will serve to exemplify the case. I was hunting in the Rocky Mountains with a companion, when we got snowed in, and after a week our provisions were exhausted and we had to return to our bootlegs. A bootleg doesn't taste a bit like quail on toast. You can detect the difference between it and Maryland chicken right away. We bit and gnawed and gnawed and bit and turned away in disgust. I think we should both have died of starvation but for a happy thought. "Jim," says I, "we are at Deimonico's."

bootlegs and smiled and grinned and made ourselves believe that we were having the meal of our lives. If I grew discouraged Jim braced me up; if he seemed to lose his appetite I were both rescued. "And it was only bootlegs?" "Only bootlegs, sir, but we pulled through. Just chew an old bootleg and imagine you are eating a Philadelphia broiler, and these tight times won't last sixty days longer. If you can chew on two bootlegs at the same time business will increase until you will have to hire in extra clerks." JOE KERR.

THE BOOKKEEPER.

BY W. Y. SHEPPARD. Measure the meed of his service By pen and with chains that are fashioned Bind him with chains that are fashioned Of blotters and desk and stool. Pay him a paltry pittance. This is the black ink-well; And class him along with the oxen, Making the most of his hell. Then give to a college a million, Counting the pieces of gold; For give such separate penny Was the sign of a stunted soul. —Overland Monthly.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If your pans or kettles are burnt or soiled in any way, take coal ashes and rub over the burnt places, then wash and you will be surprised to see how soon the burn disappears. Sprinkle a little epsom salts around or near where ants are and they will quickly disappear. To clean combs quickly and thoroughly dissolve a lump of washing soda in warm water. Put comb in water, rub on both sides with a brush, rinse in cold water, and put in the air to dry. After ebony backed brushes have been washed, if a little vaseline is rubbed into the wood, polishing with the palm of the hand, they will remain like new after years of use and hundreds of baths. When ironing a square piece of linen such as a pillow sham, a centerpiece or any flat piece that has been starched if you iron from the center out to the edge you will find it will lie flatter than if you iron the hems first. This last will cause a fulness. Should white clothes become mildewed, soak for a short time in a pail of water to which has been added a heaping teaspoonful of chloride of lime; hang in the sun to bleach and repeat until the spots have all disappeared, then wash out as usual. To broil steak or chops satisfactorily in a gas range, light the oven burner about ten minutes before putting in the meat. Always broil under the flame. Leave the oven door open while broiling, as this will prevent the heat from taking fire. Never broil on the top of the range; the grease will drop into the burners and choke them up.

SUGAR CANE USED TO MAKE PAPER.

Sugar paper is the newest kind. It is a product of the island of Trinidad and the invention of a sugar planter, who has found how to use the stalks of sugar cane. The increasing scarcity of spruce, which is the wood most used for paper making, is well known. Active search is being made in many parts of the world for material to take the place of pulp wood. Enormous quantities of ground sugar cane go to waste at the sugar factories. Some of it is used for fuel under the boilers, but a large part is left to rot. From time to time experiments have been made to convert the bagasse or cane refuse into paper, but with limited success commercially unless the Trinidad planter's claims are well founded. He is confident that he has made a valuable discovery and has built an $85,000 paper mill as an adjunct to his sugar factory. He has turned out paper worth $24 a ton. About a ton and a quarter of cane makes a ton of pulp. It is reported that the process of manufacturing is comparatively inexpensive, and that it will pay to grow cane for paper alone, leaving the sugar as clear profit.—Chicago Tribune.

A NEGRO WOMAN SCULPTOR.

Philadelphia is the birthplace and home of the one negro woman in the United States whose work as a sculptress has attracted wide notice. She is Meta Warrick, and her work has been exhibited in the Paris Salon besides having won the commendation of Auguste Rodin. One of her best groups was exhibited at the Jamestown Tercentennial and represents the advancement of her race since the landing at Jamestown. Miss Warrick is a descendant of slaves and is not at all ashamed of it. Her father was a barber and her mother a hair-dresser. Her people are all of the laboring class and poor. Her art work began with moulding clay in the kindergarten. When she was older she won a free scholarship in the Pennsylvania School of Industrial Art. It was in this school that her talent attracted attention. The piece that won serious attention was her first attempt at being original. It was a head of Medusa. In 1899 she went to try her fortune in Paris, where she suffered all the hardships that fall to the lot of the average poor art student, but she also came in contact with such men as Saint Gaudens and Rodin and had the satisfaction of obtaining serious recognition in the Paris Salon.—The Sun.

EVENING CALL PATTERN.

6036—Boy's Russian Suit, 2, 4 and 6 Years.

BOY'S RUSSIAN SUIT 6036.

The Russian suit is a well deserved favorite for the small boy. It suits his needs perfectly well and it renders him attractive as well as comfortable. This one is made of natural colored linen with hair stripe of red and belt is of red leather, but there is a great opportunity for choice in the matter of color and material for khaki cloth, galatea, cotton chevrons, madras and the like are all equally correct. Also for the cooler days such materials as mohair, shepherd's check and other lightweight wools are much used while the same model made of white silk or white serge becomes an exceedingly dresy costume suited to occasions of more elaborate dress.
