Maline Mills Regiment Held Readiness at Henderson to Prevent Turbulent Element Imported from Road From Creating Anarchy in Little Maline Hamlet When Work is Refused at Shops.

HENDERSON, Me., Sept. 17.—The men of the Maline Mills Regiment held themselves in readiness at Henderson to prevent the turbulent element imported from the road from creating anarchy in the little Maline hamlet when work is refused at the shops.

The arrival last week of about sixty strikers who were refused work at the shops because they were unwilling to sign any other factor than the one most likely to precipitate trouble. These men have stayed in Henderson threatening the railroad officials with a hostile attitude toward the strikers, and their quarrelsome has already been responsible for the sending home of a force of police sheriffs from Dover. Gov. Peabody has already been urged to order the attachment of Company F to this town for the purpose of maintaining order and acting as a check upon any attempt at riot, but he stated that he did not regard the situation as sufficiently critical to warrant such action on his part.

WHY DIE FROM WHITE PLAGUE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—The Census Bureau in a statement issued Tuesday, says that its exhibit on the white plague will emphasize the need for a more complete collection of vital statistics in this country. It states that in the registration area, which includes not the entire United States but only California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin cities in other states, tuberculosis caused 11.3 per cent of the deaths in the registration area in 1907.

SOCIALIST SOCIETY.

John Spargo, author of "The Socialism of the Children," "The Socialism of the Common Man," "The Socialism of the Future," will lecture under the auspices of the New York City branch of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, on the subject, "The Importance of the Present Campaign," Tuesday, October 1, 8 p. m., at the Grand Central School of Social Studies, 112 West Nineteenth street. A general discussion will follow the lecture, and no expense will be charged. The members will meet in a short business meeting directly after the lecture. For further particulars address William M. Feigenbaum, secretary, 267 West Seventy-sixth street, Brooklyn.

The cut will probably average 10 per cent.

SAN DIEGO STIRRED

Eugene V. Debs Visits Veteran Woman Socialist.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 10.—The San Diego Union, in reporting the visit of the "Red Special," says this morning: "With flags flying and his band playing, Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for president, arrived yesterday afternoon aboard the 'Red Special.' A large number of local Socialists and others were present when the special arrived, cheering lustily as the train came to a stop. Immediately upon his arrival, Debs called upon Mrs. Anna Perry Smith, who for twenty-five years has been a labor agitator and Socialist speaker and organizer. She is now past 70, and is spending her declining years in this city.

"Mrs. Smith was a nurse in the Civil War. She was delighted to see her old associate, who now is candidate for president of the United States. 'I had hoped to help in this campaign,' she said, 'but here I am, flat on my back.' 'Local Socialists who know of Mrs. Smith's heroic efforts in the Civil War and her long work for Socialism, took her to the meeting last night in a carriage. An easy chair was provided and she sat on the stage aglow with the enthusiasm that was no brighter when, as a young woman, she endured all the horrors of warfare and later went hungry and homeless because she was interested in the spread of the Socialist idea.

"At 7 o'clock last night the parade was formed at the depot, and led by the 'Red Special' band, marched to the amphitheatre, where the speakers took place. Seats accommodating 5,000 people had been arranged, every one of which was filled when the parade disbanded at the speakers' stand, despite the fact that a charge was made for these seats. On the high ground at both sides and back of the seats it is estimated that fully 2,000 more stood.

"The orator of the night was introduced by Mrs. Cora White Simpson, chairman. It was heartily cheered as he made his way to the front of the rostrum. He said in part: 'A century ago competition was a constructive principle. It was then properly said that competition was the life of trade. There was a reasonable distribution of wealth. There was not a millionaire and there was not a tramp. These words had not been coined. Competition is no longer a constructive principle, but a destructive principle. It has degenerated into the most savage form of warfare. Business men are pitted against each other, each seeking to get the better of his fellowman. This develops all that is cold and cruel and combative in human nature. As a matter of fact these business men are quite suspicious of one another, not because they do not know each other but because they do. Each one is trying to do to the other what he knows the other is trying to do to him.

"The labor question is essentially a political question. The working class is just beginning to understand, and this they know, that where there are two classes there is necessarily a ruling class. They know from their study of history that the working class has always been the subject class. The capitalists believe that this system will last forever, just as the feudal lords believed that their system of feudalism would last forever. But this is because they do not understand industrial and social evolution. Whatever may be said of the ignorant and barbarous part there is no excuse for poverty to-day. The Socialist is the only one who in the light of present facts has the philosophy and the self-reliance to plan a world without want."

GREAT MEETINGS IN WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—Dreamland rink was filled with 3,000 people Wednesday night who had paid 25 cents each to hear the doctrines of Socialism expounded by Eugene V. Debs, Presidential candidate of the Socialist party, who arrived yesterday on the "Red Special" from Portland. Thousands of persons were turned away and several overflow meetings were held by Eugene V. Debs, of Chicago and E. Reynolds of Indiana.

When the "Red Special" stopped at Tacoma yesterday afternoon it was greeted by 1,000 citizens and a mighty open air meeting was held. The receipts of the train during the day were over $1,000. After leaving here last night a midnight meeting was held at Everett, and then the "Red Special" resumed its journey, with Spokane as its objective point to-day.

REFUSE TO PRINT STRIKERS' "ADS"

An advertisement asking that haters keep away from a struck shop was turned down by the New York American and the World in spite of want advertisements for non-union men and strike-breakers appearing in their columns daily. Several attempts by an officer of the "Straw Hat" Union in the last few days met with the same response: "We don't want to run such advertisements." The advertisement read as follows: "Please keep away from 28 South William street. Strike on."

SUGAR TRUST LAUGHS AT JERSEY JUSTICE

TRENTON, Sept. 17.—After declaring that the Sugar Trust exceeded its corporate powers in acquiring control of the Philadelphia Sugar Refining Company, Vice-Chancellor Walker branded the transaction as reprehensible, then fixed the only penalty he said could be inflicted—the forfeiture of its charter—a matter, he said, which concerns the State alone. Should the $1,250,000 loan by which control of the Pennsylvania company was secured, or any part of it, be ultimately lost to the American Sugar Refining Company the officers of that company would undoubtedly be liable as for waste or misapplication of corporate funds.

The litigation was instituted by George H. Earle, Jr., auxiliary receiver of the insolvent Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, who discovered that large loans had been made by the American Sugar Refining Company through agents, with agreements which stipulated that the Pennsylvania plants should not be run while these loans were outstanding. The receiver asked that the American Sugar Refining Company, as trustee for the Pennsylvania company, make discovery of all profits acquired by it by reason of its action in controlling the affairs and plant of the Pennsylvania company. He also asked that the defendant be compelled to account for all profits resulting from this preventing competition.

The Vice-Chancellor said in his decision that the principal object of making the loan was evidently to prevent the operation of the Pennsylvania company and that a corporation, no part of whose legitimate business was the loaning of money, would never have made such a loan at legal lurking behind the transaction there was some advantage of great importance to the lender. He says: "The American Sugar Company was safe. If the loan was repaid it lost nothing and had the advantage of no opposition from the Pennsylvania Sugar Company during the running of the loan; if the money borrowed was not returned then the advantage from stifled competition was enduring."

HARRIMAN DON'T CARE.

Edward H. Harriman, in an interview Tuesday, frankly announced himself an optimist on the immediate business future of the country. The fact that every available freight car on the Harriman lines and more than 45 per cent of the "empties" throughout the country have been called back into service is pointed to as the best evidence of returning prosperity. "The outcome of the election makes no difference to us one way or the other," said Mr. Harriman. "As long as we keep our balances in the banks we don't care who is elected."

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—

The panning of control to the Harriman-Rockefeller group of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad was definitely predicted Tuesday by action in the United States Circuit Court, sitting in Youngstown. To-day, in a hearing in this city, Judge R. W. Taylor is expected to issue an order of foreclosure and to name as receiver for the road E. A. Worthington, now receiver under a former action. This appointment is in pursuance of an agreement of the parties in interest.

BLACK TO SUCCEED PLATT?

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Many Republican delegates here over-night to discuss the convention and its results and plan for their own political future. As a result of these after-the-convention-conferences some interesting facts and conclusions are revealed. It is generally agreed that as a result of his action in connection with the convention, State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff has lost every shadow of any chance that he might have had to succeed Thomas C. Platt in the United States Senate. The next legislature will elect Platt's successor. It is also freely predicted here that Mr. Woodruff will have to resign as state chairman and that he has already lost his control of the Kings County organization is accepted as an evident fact.

Most Republicans here regard it as a certainty that ex-Governor Frank S. Black will be elected Senator to succeed Platt.

This will be Black's reward for supporting Hughes.

The platform adopted makes a more direct bid for the labor vote than has been done in years by a New York Republican convention. It endorses the national and state Republican administrations and the national ticket, opposes change in form of ballot, for regulation of primaries, improvement and development of state canals, rivers and harbors, expansion of natural resources, eight-hour day for state employees, regulation of factory inspection, protection of women and children in industrial occupations and extending employers' liability. The people are called to rebuke Democrats at the polls.

The ticket nominated is: For Governor, Charles E. Hughes, of New York; for Lieutenant-Governor, Horace White, of Onondaga; for Secretary of State, Samuel S. Koenig, of New York; for State Treasurer, Thomas B. Dunn, of Monroe; for Comptroller, Charles H. Gaus, of Albany; for Attorney-General, Edward R. O'Malley, of Erie; for State Engineer and Surveyor, Frank M. Williams, of Madison; for Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals, Albert Haight, of Erie.

NEW ORLEANS STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 17.—The strike of the 1,000 employees of the Textile Mills Corporation may soon be brought to an end, as the operators imported from Augusta to break the strike refuse to work and ask for a conference with S. Ogenheimer, president of the corporation, in the hope of making an arrangement by which everybody can go to work.

"We will not work until we are guaranteed that we are not taking the places of the strikers," declared one of the Augusta men yesterday. "When it is shown to us that there is enough work for us and the strikers, too, we will probably submit a proposition which will be entirely satisfactory."

The only new feature of the strike was a visit of the committee of strikers to the City Hall. Accompanied by Organizer Schroter of the American Federation of Labor, the committee called on Mayor Behrman to discuss the terms proposed at the Friday conference. More than 700 men, women and children who are out on strike attended the lawn party given to swell the relief fund of the Textile Workers' Union. President William Smith said that the union had the assurance of support from the local labor world.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The Teachers' Association of the Socialist Sunday school will meet on Saturday, September 19, at 2 P. M., at the Rand School, 112 East Nineteenth street. The committees will report and plans for the work of the new term will be discussed. All interested in Socialist education are invited to attend this meeting.

ACTIVITY IN CAMDEN.

SPECIAL TO THE CALL. CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 17.—Great activity is being displayed by the Socialist party here and many new members are joining the local. A one banner will soon be swung to the breeze and a full ticket is in the field. Everything points to an enormous vote for Debs and Hanford.

SOCIALIST CHILDREN'S SCHOOL.

The Williamsburg Socialist school will be reopened for the next season by the Children's Ethical Circle, comprising Branches 3, 4 and 6 Workers' Circle of Brooklyn, at the new location Annex, 23-25 Bartlett street, corner Harrison avenue, on Saturday, October 3. All radical parents are requested to send their children for registration on the above date, from 10 to 12 p. m.

THREE-CENT FARE FOR NEW YORK CITY

Mysterious Corporation to Battle with Ryan.

Articles of Incorporation Filed at Albany—Attorneys Refuse Names of Directors—Traction Trust Contentious—Application for Franchise to Be Made to Public Service Commission—To Operate Lower Cross-town Line First.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The "Greater New York Traction Company (3-cent fare line)," with principal offices in New York, was incorporated yesterday with the Secretary of State, to construct and operate an electric street railway one mile long with single or double track from the intersection of Chambers and William streets, through William street to Maiden Lane, to Broadway, to Cortland street, to West street, to Fulton street, to South street. The company has a capital of $15,000 divided into $100 shares and the amount of capital with which it begins business is $1,500. The directors, each of whom subscribes for one share of the company's stock, are: C. F. Thumm, 89 Wall street; Arthur G. Bill, of 511 West 158th street; Joseph W. Spencer, 15 William street; Frank S. Burns, Charles M. Koop, John A. Gallagher, 160 Broadway; A. C. Austin, Jr., and E. M. Fuller, 1 Madison avenue, and R. W. Alexander, 42 West Sixty-fourth street, New York City.

SOCIETY IMPLICATED BY CHILD MURDER

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 17.—The police authorities gave out the statement yesterday that the finding of the infant girl in an outhouse in the rear of 115 Stater street, yesterday, would implicate a prominent society man and woman. An autopsy performed over the dead body yesterday by County Physician Armstrong revealed the fact that the child was alive when born and that death was due to suffocation. Detective Elvin, of the Headquarters Court, has been investigating, and sensational developments are promised.

THE POLICE COURT MATINEE.

Joseph M. Sullivan, a one-eyed, one-legged hobo, of 65, unshaved, dirty and ragged, took the opportunity of making a rousing speech in the Police Court yesterday, charged with vagrancy and with resisting arrest.

"What have you to say?" demanded the magistrate.

Then it was that Sullivan summoned his oratorical powers. Fixing his one eye on the magistrate and clapping one hand on the other he raised his voice: "Do you believe, your esteemed Honor, that I, Joseph M. Sullivan, prominent in the Tammany districts, loyal and honest citizen, would raise a hand against an officer of this great and glorious Police Department, the Police Department of the greatest city in the world? Do you think, your esteemed Honor, that I, Joseph M. Sullivan, your Honor, would be guilty of destroying the foundation on which rests our society, which I am here to sustain and uphold?"

"This oration will cost you three dollars," said Magistrate House. Sullivan, who seemed to have been an old-time Tammany leader and a spellbinder, did not have the three dollars and was sent to the Workhouse.

M. Burham, though forty-eight, but looking sixty, appeared before Magistrate House Monday morning and asked that he be committed to the Island. Burham is crippled, having but one leg, and destitute. He thought he was born in New York, he has no friends nor means of livelihood. He said that he was able to do correspondence and stenography and is willing to, in spite of his crutches, to run errands for the officers and officials of the Workhouse. Magistrate House signed the papers committing Burham to the Commission of Correction.

Augustus Schud, who gave his address 59 Bowers, was arraigned before Magistrate House at the Tombs Police Court Monday on the charge of breaking letterboxes and stealing mail. Inspector Jacobs, of the Post Office Department, appeared before the Magistrate and said that Schud is an old offender, and asked that he be turned over to the Federal Government. Magistrate House granted the inspector's request and the prisoner was turned over to him.

JOHN L. COOKE OF PASSAIC MILLS DEAD

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 17.—John L. Cooke, of the Passaic Rolling Mills, died at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday at his home here, the result of a stroke of apoplexy last Monday. He was a son of the late Watis Cooke, who organized the rolling mill company in the late sixties. John L. Cooke learned the steel business from the drawing room, becoming superintendent. Upon the reorganization into the Passaic Steel Company in 1895 he severed his connection with the firm and entered into the structural steel contracting business. He was 51 years old.

Political Notes.

The Sun prints a report that "Laws Stuyvesant Chanler is said to have promised an initial contribution of $50,000 to the Democratic State Committee's campaign fund and $50,000 more before election day if he only gets that nomination." Well, money is the strongest argument with the Democratic State Committee.

In a speech to the annual conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in Cincinnati, Mr. Taft said he had not always been in favor of higher education for members of the negro race, "but after a full consideration of the needs of the race, I am convinced that I was in error." Mr. Taft has not yet declared that he is convinced injunctions against organized labor were an error.

ITALIAN ARTISTS AND "I PAGLIACCI"

By HARRY CHAPIN PLUMMER.

Another of those virile, heart-appealing tragedies of the verismo, or realistic, Italian school of modern opera is the two-act music-drama, "I Pagliacci," composed by Ruggero Leoncavallo, the Neapolitan maestro, almost immediately following the successful production of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." As in the latter opera of one act, "I Pagliacci" tells, in action and in music, a story simple of the peasantry. The scene is laid near to Montalto, a village high in the hills of Calabria, the southern-most province of the Italian mainland.

Conjugal infidelity, suspicion confirmed, jealousy, hatred, murder—these are motives of the work, which attains its climax in the portrayal by the "Pagliacci," or strolling players, before the simple country folk grouped about a miniature theatre, of a comedietta which presents, in the relation between the characters, an analogy to the plot of the moving tragedy.

Both in the opera proper and in the mimic play, the little company of "Pagliacci," numbering only four, are the actors. A fifth character is Silvio, the gentleman of leisure who has followed the "Pagliacci" from one place to another, that he might be always within sight of Nedda; the pretty wife of the chief of the troupe, who reciprocates his guilty affection. When the intrigue of comedy and tragedy merge, Canio, the outraged husband, having slain first Nedda and then Silvio, cries out in an agony of voice: "The comedy is finished." A crash of chords in the orchestra. The curtain falls. Sinis est.

Zampogno Introduced.

Early in the action of the opera a few straggling notes are heard apart from the body of the instrumental music. They are sounded, sometimes in the orchestra, sometimes off the scene. "I zampognari!" the rollicking peasants exclaim, clapping their hands. And there are seen to pass in the rear of the scene—"up stage"—a couple of men, roughly clad and bearing, one a musical pipe, the other a strange balloon-like instrument, resembling somewhat a Scotch or Irish bag-pipe, with three tubes branching from the bag, which is of sheepskin.

It is the zampogno, upon which the mountain shepherds of the southern provinces of Italy and the Roman campagna, and, particularly, the Abruzzese, of whom the young Duke of the Abruzzi is the royal patron, perform in the lonely expanses of their hillside pastures. A fortnight before the Novena of the Virgin and at Assumptiontide and other religious feasts, the zampogno is played before wayside shrines and in public places.

With the Mascagni opera preceding it, "I Pagliacci" was given at the American Theatre again, Tuesday evening, before a house that made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers.

name at some time. However, Signor Arcangeli's singing of the "Prologue" will suffice to identify him in New York at any time. It is a thoroughly competent rendition of the somewhat classic vocal recitation, wherein the audience is treated to a nice bit of philosophy and, incidentally, prepared for the storm that is brewing in the little company of "Pagliacci." In the scene with Nedda, Signor Arcangeli gave a well balanced performance.

The chorus entered into the true spirit of the "festa," and sharp, lively action and good ensemble music resulted.

THE THEATRES

Katherine Grey, Catherine Counties, Beatrice Prentice, Ann Meredith, Diana Hunsheg, John Flood, Morgan Coman, James Seely, Charles Abbott, William Ricciardi, Percival Aymor, Lawrence Edinger, Vincent De Pascale, Charles Rockefeller, Robert Tansy, Willie Grey, George W. Anspack and T. Tamamoto, have been engaged by Henry B. Harris to support Robert Edson in "The Offenders," a new play by Elmer Blaney Harris, which will have its first New York hearing at the Hudson Theatre on Wednesday, September 23.

The Shuberts have announced the opening date of two of their new productions. Lulu Glaser will appear on Monday, September 23, at the Lyric Theatre in her new musical comedy, "Mlle. Mischief," while on the following evening "Marcelle" will come to the Casino Theatre with Louise Gunning in the leading part. It was also announced that Gertrude Hoffman, who has been appearing all summer at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre, will go when it leaves the Casino Theatre. Her first appearance as a Shubert star will be at the Grand Opera House on September 23, and she will then go on tour with "The Mimic World."

"All for a Girl" was withdrawn Tuesday from the Bijou Theatre, the house remaining dark. Thomas Wise, as co-star with Douglas Fairbanks, will open on Monday night in "The Gentleman from Mississippi."

Ida Brooks Hunt has returned to her role in "Algeria," having recovered from the throat trouble that took her out of the cast.

James K. Hackett is having a translation made of "La Franciade," a play by Eugene Brieux, which he will probably put on after the run of "The Prisoner of Zenda" at the Hackett Theatre.

David Belasco announces that he will give lectures on the technique of the drama for the benefit of young playwrights. The first will be given at the Belasco Stuyvesant Theatre next spring.

Charles Frohman has arranged with William Collier to postpone the comedian's opening in his new play, "The Patriot," at the Garrick, in order that the run of "The Mollusc," with Joseph Coyne and Alexandra Carlisle, may continue.

and the crowd seemed rooted to the spot.

Wanhope showed up the fallacy of trust busting, and logically proved the inevitability of Socialism. He dealt at length in his City Hall speech on what he termed, "Not the issues of the day, as the old party politicians see them, but the one paramount issue—the question of how to get a living."

The local Socialists are doing good campaign work and expect a big vote.

"CALL"ERS COLUMN

By BEN LICHTENBERG.

Comrade Pete Ving came in yesterday with a broad grin covering his face and left twenty-five new subscriptions, mostly quarterlies. Bully for you, Pete! Next on the Honor Roll is Comrade Solow of Hartford, with 12, and close second to him is Comrade Frothy of New Brighton, Pa., with 11 subs. Judson Orest of Terre Haute (Ind.), Mabel Moulton, Haver-

Talley Marshall and Ben Johnson in the second act of "Paid in Full," at Weber's Theatre.

Signor Angelina Fornari conducted the orchestra, which maintained an even performance of the instrumental part of the work; the preludes being ably handled. In the role of Nedda, Signora Lena Bertozzi presented a highly dramatic and musically skillful characterization. She appeared to best advantage, vocally, in the duet with Silvio, impersonated by Signor Giuseppe Zera, whose delivery, both in voice and in action, was effective.

Signor Nunzio Bari appeared as Canio. He accomplished very good work in the singing of "Un grande spettacolo" an 8th size tenor aria, "Vesti la giubba," at the close of the first act. His execution of the music, and eloquent expression of the tragic sense of the latter compelled its repetition.

Good Work of Arcangeli.

For an artist of signal ability, not only as a singer, but as an actor, Signor Arcangeli, who was the Tonio of the performance, must be exceedingly modest. In the front of the house his real name is not known—at least, is not known by the general representative of the opera company, who would be expected to have heard the baritone called by his "other-

EAT TOO MUCH.

FLORENCE MARGOLIES.

Feel the pang of hunger, to feel for food, and to be helpless, helpless to do anything but stare at that cry. Does not that seem dreadful?

Yet it took a long time, a very long time, for me to fully realize that it is really true, what I have said time and again, that many people walk the streets day after day in quest of work; mind you, for honest work to do, in order to procure food and shelter, and actually unable to do any. They are willing, anxious to give their strength and energy for something to do that they could get something out of and a place to sleep in, and all these are closed to them, and they wander over the streets, hungry, bitterly hungry.

There is even a funny side to this, when you think that in a great city like this, which abounds in all good things of life, and could so amply supply every individual that dwells thereon, with not only the necessities of life, but even luxury, scores of people, on one side, so hungry, really and dreadfully hungry, and on the other, there are people who loiter in the lap of luxury, and are satiated, surfeited with the sweets of life—I say there is something incongruous, something decidedly funny and sad, and sets one thinking.

Now this train of thoughts was brought on by the following headline in a little column of what the New York Times apparently deemed unimportant news, judging by the tone and brevity of the report—"Took too much of the free lunch counter and nabbed the man behind it for telling me so."

This man, the one who took you, was hungry. He wanted to eat, that natural craving, you know, cannot possibly be resisted by the force of logic, and he took bread and perhaps some other unostentatious edibles from there on that lunch counter. He took these free lunch counters in the streets, have of refuse.

Well, he took and ate, and ate, he was hungry, very hungry, and he just ate sense of propriety. For you see, it isn't very nice to take too much bread—and the man behind the counter told him so, not all too kindly and sympathetically, but told him in plain, cruel, harsh words, that he must not eat all he wanted—the lunch was free, you see.

This man, persecuted by the pangs of hunger, now made frantic by the warning to still that cry, grasped his knife, and plunged its cold steel blade into the man behind the counter, for he would not let him eat.

No, I don't need to justify murder. But was not he, the hungry one, who murdered—slowly, cruelly, murderously? And who are they, his murderers?

CAPITAL IS SO "TIMID." Do you think the Trusts have any right to exist? "My dear sir," answered Senator Borah, "there is no one in talking about that now. In my opinion the judicious and proper way to handle the Trusts is to avoid doing anything that might irritate them."—Washington Star.

SOCIALISM AND INDIVIDUALITY.

Does anybody contend for a single moment that since the state has undertaken so many public services there is less individuality in consequence? Is there less individuality to-day, in any real sense, than there was in the days of privately controlled roads and toll-gates? Have we less individuality than our grandfathers had because of our public schools, libraries, art galleries, museums, baths, parks and the like? Is our individuality lessened because we drink municipally supplied water, and depend upon municipal fire fighting forces to protect us from fire? Is any man robbed of his individual freedom because he pays only two cents to send a letter from Maine to California and the same amount to send a letter to an address in the next street? No, man is compelled to use any municipal or state service if he can possibly do without it, or if he finds it more profitable to do so. If any citizen should prefer to send his letters by private messenger, the government would not try to stop him. All that the government does is to provide a letter-carrying service upon a plan infinitely more economical than any which private enterprise could possibly devise. It does not attempt to compel any person to use that service. If the municipality provides us with water it does not interfere with our personal liberties any more than the private corporation which supplies our gas does. That frightful bugbear of so many timorous souls, the great bureaucracy which they fear, extensive public ownership would involve has no justification in fact.—John Spargo in "The Socialists."

HE KEPT THE SECRET.

When the teacher was absent from the school-room Willie Jones wrote on the blackboard: "Willie Jones can hug the girls better than any boy in school." "William, did you write that?" asked the teacher upon her return. "Yes, ma'am." "Well, you may stay after school as punishment." "Got a licking, didn't you?" asked one boy when Willie came out. "Nope." "Got jawed?" asked another. "Nope." "What did she do?" "Shan't tell, but it pays to advertise."—The Scrap Book.

FIGS AND RHUBARB.

Wash two bunches rhubarb and cut into inch pieces without peeling. Put into the double boiler with a cupful of sugar and four or five figs cut in inch pieces. Put on the cover and cook over hot water until the rhubarb is tender and the syrup rich and jelly-like in consistency. Raisins are nice cooked in the same way with rhubarb. If preferred and you are to have a hot even-aspewy, put the rhubarb and figs or raisins in a stone pot, cover closely and bake in the oven until jellied.—Emma Padlock Telford.

THE SUSTAINING FUND.

Will all those who hold tickets for the Darrow meeting please make prompt settlement?

The Purchasers' League has opened splendid possibilities for an income for the paper from advertising. The friends of The Call have stood loyally during the hard months of the summer. We have now come in sight of relief from the drain which has been made upon us for contributions, but for a short time we cannot relax our efforts. We know that the fact that The Call has drawn upon the resources of our people has interfered with the usual income of our party organizations. This our locals must have expected and should cheerfully accept. While it is desirable that all party activities should be supported to the fullest extent, it is sometimes necessary to make a choice, and our comrades well know that the loss of The Call at this time would mean loss of years of effort, as well as loss of thousands of dollars of our hard-earned money. We expected when we began publication that for the first few months we should have to work very hard to keep our paper alive. Our expectations have been fully realized. And the end is not yet. There are bills to meet every day and you must help to pay these bills. You must help. We mean you. ANNA A. MALEY, Secretary Sustaining Fund.

A PLEA FOR UNITY.

By E. W. W. Granting each of us is working for the freedom of mankind— Granting each of us is striving for the right— Granting each of us is seeking the abundant life to find; Let us then, with hand in hand, as friends unite! 'Tis but human each should differ in his method—in his plan— 'Tis but just that we should each our life-path choose; But we all need aid and counsel; let us then, my brother man, Freely offer, freely take, and freely use! Let us bury, then, the hatchet—let us light the pipe of peace— Let us, shoulder unto shoulder, seek the goal; Striving for impartial right, opposing only unearned ease— To the end that all have life, and have it whole.

ON THE CONTRARY. Clara (after her song).—Did my voice fill the room? Brother.—No, it emptied it.

6066—Circular Tunic Skirt, 22 to 30 Waist. CIRCULAR TUNIC SKIRT 6066. To Be Made With Inverted Plaits or Hab Back.

Unquestionably, the tunic skirt is a graceful one and that it already has taken a firm hold upon fashionable fancy is evident. This one is absolutely simple yet draped in a most effective and graceful manner and is adapted to all the soft and clinging materials that are characteristic of present styles. In the illustration a dotted foulard is trimmed with banding and the cost is an extremely trifling one, but the skirt would be pretty made from such wool materials as voile or marquisette, from crepe de Chine, messaline, Liberty satin or any material of the sort and also from such simpler things as cashmere and albatross for home wear. The skirt is circular, the right side being extended well over onto the left and shaped to form the drape.

CANVASSERS WANTED.

A good chance for energetic men to make a living. Those who can devote a few hours in the evening should at once communicate with the business department of The Call. We also want addresses of probable advertisers.

The Call Purchasers' League

OUR OBJECT IS TO CONCENTRATE AND DIRECT THE PURCHASING POWER OF ALL CALL READERS TO THE BEST ADVANTAGE OF CALL ADVERTISERS.

OFFICERS: President, Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes; First Vice-President, Mrs. Anita C. Block; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Alexander Irvine; Secretary and Organizer, Mrs. Bertha Howell Mallin; Treasurer, William Butcher; Manager, August F. Wagner. Office, 6 Park Place, N. Y. Telephone, 2347 Cortland.

The Secretary of The Call Purchasers' League returned last evening on a shopping tour with the idea of seeing what the organization is really swinging into line. The first thing noted was a book store. The League membership card was shown for the recording of the purchase and the system explained by the proprietor. "It's a good system, if it will work," he said. "I have seen several sales in the last few days that I know came through the Call, but no mention was made of any card."

Now, what do you think of that, our dear friends? Were these comrades or friends not aware of the existence of The Call Purchasers' League, or were they simply neglectful, thinking that some one else would do the work? Just in so far as the League has the enthusiastic co-operation of the readers of The Call, just so far will it be effective. It is no trouble to ask for a membership card. A social card will do it. On the other hand, we hear every day from eager workers who are doing their best to get more members and who are already sending entries on their cards. We expect to be called on for that sort of "A Little Brother to the Rich" very soon. It is to be given to the first member who turns in a membership card filled with entries, twelve entries to the page being the minimum accepted, all entries being from advertisers in The Call.

Let us call your attention to the new advertisements as they appear in The Call. Those now coming in are almost entirely the result of the formation of The Call Purchasers' League and should be patronized.

Don't forget to send us in your ads when you make a purchase of any considerable amount. We can use them to advantage. Watch this column for important announcements during the next few days.

Now at last we know what the Democracy stands for—or, what is just as good, we know what it doesn't stand for.

ONE QUESTION IS SETTLED AT LAST.

Mr. Bryan has left us in doubt on that point. He has confused us with the profusion and the variety of his declarations.

All this has puzzled us and pained us. We like to know where we are at. We like to know what a word means, when we are bound to hear and use that word every hour in the day.

And now we have got it, from an undoubted authority. Morgan J. O'Brien is a Democrat. No one can doubt that.

After years of division the party has again united upon principles and ideas which bring it back to its original moorings as the representative of Democracy against plutocracy.

When Mr. Bryan ran for the Presidency in 1896, when he ran again in 1900, and even now, since he has started on his third try, we have been kept busy by the gulleible folk who assured us that Bryan's Democracy was just Socialism nicely sugar-coated.

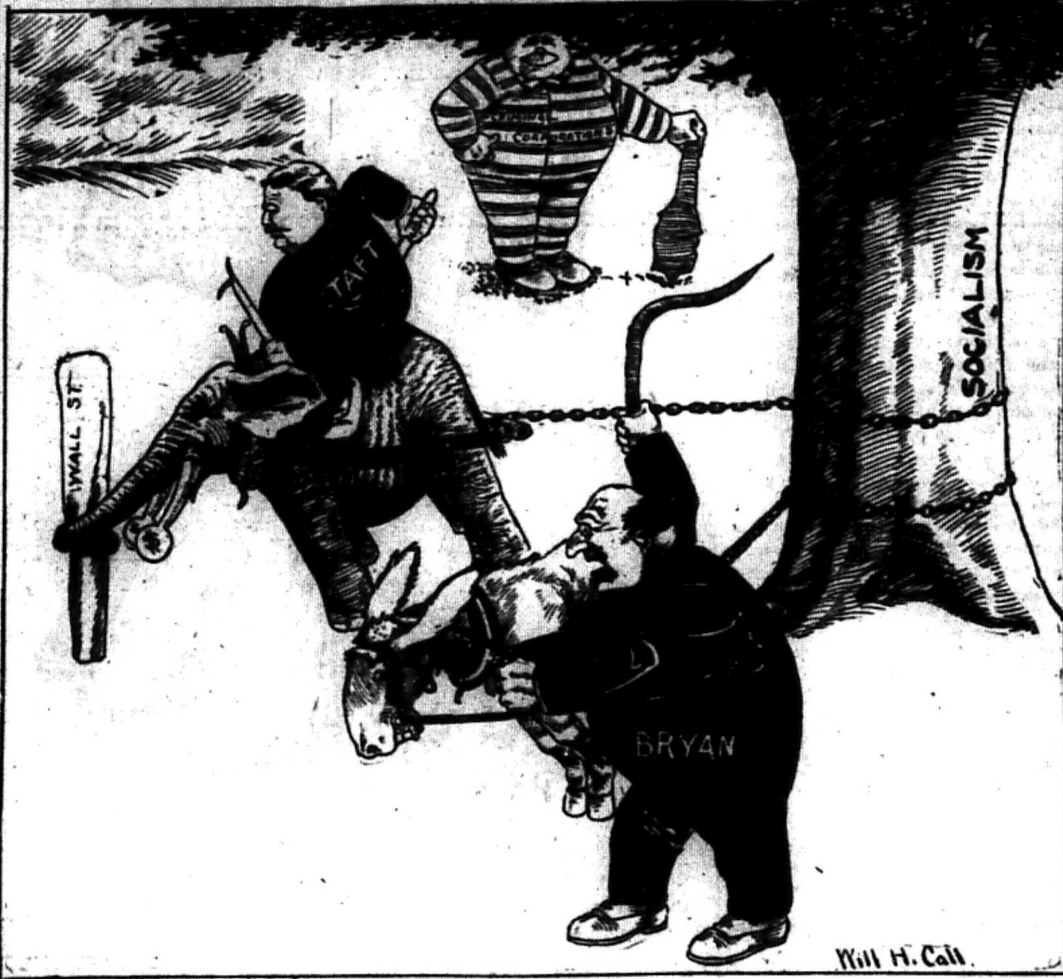

Well, we pin our faith on Judge O'Brien. He knows what the Democracy is, because he is on the inside—HE BELONGS TO THE CROWD THAT WOULD TELL THE PRESIDENT WHAT TO DO, IF, BY ANY MIRACLE, A DEMOCRAT EVER COULD BE ELECTED TO THAT OFFICE.

The Democracy does not stand for Socialism, nor for anything a bit like it. The Democracy stands absolutely opposed to Socialism—just as much as does the Republican party.

There is something tragic in the history of Mr. Hughes—tragic and also comical. He really showed himself as a man for a little while, when, as counsel for the committee investigating the insurance companies, he went boldly and truthfully forward and forced revelations which exposed the most eminent citizens of the land as perjurers, forgers, bribers, swindlers and embezzlers.

The capitalist's patriotism does not restrain him from selling guns and warships to a nation which may within six months begin war against his own country.

"Socialism is in the air," they say. Well, the way to get it down to earth is to vote for it on Election Day.

THEY CAN'T UPROOT IT.

SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE?

By HORACE S. REIS.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan, to the best of his somewhat limited ability, has been denouncing Republican misrule as the source of the present hard times.

Mr. Bryan is not speaking on the question. Were we in parliamentary session we would be compelled to raise a point of order against him.

DEMOCRACY.

If democracy means a state in which every man shall be a free man, neither in economic nor intellectual nor moral subjection, two processes at least are needed to render democracy possible—on the one hand a large and many-sided education; on the other the reasonable organization of life.

They demand an answer. And Mr. Bryan has none to give. He should realize that the man out of a job isn't interested in his meaningless injunction plank, that the man out of a job isn't worried whether bank deposits are guaranteed or not.

The Socialist party says the working class shall come into its own, shall take possession of all the nation's industries and run them for the benefit of those who work.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Judging by what Mrs. William Astor thinks of the men and women of the upper classes we may expect her to write a sequel to 'A Little Brother of the Rich.'

We are inclined to think that Upton Sinclair, Joseph Medill Patterson and Mrs. Astor are too severe on the weaklings of the upper class.

'Society' and the Slum are two capitalistic institutions which turn human beings into criminals. One does it by misery and want, the other by excessive indulgence, brutal gratifications, ennui, champagne and a hysterical hunt for sensational fame.

E. H. Harriman has returned from his Western vacation trip and brought with him good advice. He tells the people that they ought to agree to an advance in freight rates to help the road.

George C. White, Mayor of Glen Ridge, N. J., says that it would be a good idea to pay each man a dollar for casting his vote.

A FOREST SCHOOL.

By ROBERT HUNTER.

Who would not say that the saddest thing in life is to see children wadding away for want of food, fresh air and wholesome dwelling places?

The Board of Health of New York City has found upon investigation that several hundred thousand children are physically unfit.

Some suffer defects that will render them incapable of useful toil. Others are so delicate that there is little likelihood of their growing into strong men and women.

In this great nation millions upon millions of children are condemned to suffering, and finally to defeat and death, because their little bodies have not had a chance to develop strength and power.

In America we investigate these things, print reports of these things, and then forget these things.

It was established a few years ago merely as an experiment. Several hundred children are sent out each day into the woods.

The experiment is amazingly successful, and after a year or two of attendance practically all of the delicate children return to the ordinary schools in robust health.

Everything—the doctors, the nurses, the medicine, the food, the books, the car fare, and the teaching—is supplied at the expense of the community.

A simple fact has been proved by this experiment. Children who NOW SUFFER, WASTE AWAY AND DIE, can nearly all be saved if a sensible and humane effort is made to save them.

This experiment has awakened the whole nation to the value of forest schools, and the Socialists in every municipality in Germany are agitating with might and main to force every city to surround itself with such schools.

And that will come. The Socialists will keep hammering away until it does come. In a few years there will be few children in all Germany who do not begin work in robust health, free from defects and tendencies to physical decay.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor of The Call:

It has been repeated time and time again that the New York police force, headed by that military commissioner, is corrupt, inefficient and worthless.

In looking deeply and disinterestedly into the records of the Police Department, I have come to the conclusion that they are very active, honest and useful.

Anyone who frequents the downtown section of the city, or in fact any part of the city where pushcart and law congregate to sell their wares is familiar with what I am going to relate.

The pushcart peddlers are molested by the police every minute of the day. The peddlers stop a minute to sell their wares when they are chased by one policeman and then by another from one corner to the other, refusing them the right to make an honest and decent living.

It is a disgraceful sight to see a mounted policeman or Cosack chasing a poor peddler with a loaded pushcart. I spoke to one of those pushcart peddlers and he informed me of the fact that if he hands the policeman a dollar a day he is unmolested.

They are useful in prohibiting peaceful citizens from assembling in the open and demanding relief from their miserable and wretched conditions.

The commissioner is useful in giving unreliable, distorted and false statistics and thereby causing resentment and racial antagonism.

Who dares to insinuate that the police force is corrupt, inefficient and worthless in the light of all these convincing facts. SAMUEL ORKOWSKI, New York, Sept. 11.

HOW TO READ THE NEWSPAPER

- 1. Remember that no paper can be successfully maintained nowadays unless it has large capital back of it, so that this capital is provided by moneyed interests.
2. That the editor is not engaged in telling the truth, but in presenting such material as will 'catch' the greatest number of readers, without conflicting with the 'interests' of the owners.
3. That next to the owners, and their interests, advertisers have to be considered.—Life.
